Cambodia's elite resents U.S., but not the little guy

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — "The Americans appear to be great humanitarians. They give temporary aid, but ultimately they think only of themselves," the former government minister said. "We in Cambodia have been seduced and abandoned."

Resentment against the United States is mounting among Phnom Penh's political elite. It is being stoked by a growing feeling that the U.S. Congress will turn down further military aid to Cambodia and that its delay on the vote is a parting act of cruelty.

The domino theory is not a debating point here in higher political circles. It is accepted as an undeniable law.

Government leaders insist that if the United States deserts Cambodia, all of Southeast Asia will go Communist. They argue U.S. honor will be spoiled and Asian allies may well side with the Communist regime in China rather than believe the bankrupt word of the Americans.

But there is little evidence of anti-Americanism among those who do not hear the latest news from Washington. Frontline soldiers and Phnom Penh's average citizens say they cannot believe there may soon be no American bullets for their rifles or rice for their bowls.

Americans are regarded as being on "their side;" such loyalties are simply not severed in their insular world.

"I don't think America will let us die," one young soldier on Phnom Penh's southern defense line says.

An aging widow who sells soup greens in the capital's central market keeps repeating: "I love all people, but only the Americans are our fathers. They give us food to eat. Without them we would die."

The city people care chiefly about food to ward off starvation and report they are "so happy" when they wake up to the overhead roar of U.S. jets hauling in rice to the encircled capital.

The soldiers' concern is ammunition because they fear surrender will mean execution by the Communist-led insurgents.

Among Phnom Penh's major groups, only the students have called for an end to U.S. aid, saying it prolongs the agony of war. Unlike South Vietnam, where an undercurrent of anti-Americanism has existed for years, there have been no overt acts of hostility reported against Americans in areas of Cambodia still controlled by the government.

Many government leaders see American policy in Cambodia as oddly ineffective and any U.S. withdrawal of aid as pure betrayal. A composite attitude gathered from numerous interviews runs this way:

The United States supported the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and its troops invaded the country in 1970 to protect U.S. soldiers and hasten their withdrawal from South Vietnam. The United States also bound itself to the Phnom Penh government through vast monetary aid and — until August 1973 — by air support.

—Americans have obviously interfered in internal Cambodian affairs, but they failed to exert the pressure needed to force out useless and corrupt generals and inert leaders, including President Lon Nol. By their almost schizophrenic approach the Americans are in large part responsible for the near collapse of the Phnom Penh government.

"The Americans used us so they could send their sons back to their families and now they are letting us be chewed up by the Khmer Rouge," one senior legislator remarked bitterly. "With one telephone call (U.S. Ambassador John Gunther) Dean could have put pressure on Lon Nol. But no, instead he even defended some of the worst generals to our faces."

Nixon pledged Vietnam intervention

BIG OSCAR WINNERS

Actor Art Carney, left, and director Francis Ford Coppola hold their golden "Oscars" after the Academy Awards ceremony in Los Angeles Tuesday night. Carney was named best actor for his role in "Harry and Tonto," and Coppola took three awards for best picture, best direction and best screenplay based on material from another medium for "Godfather II." Ford aide confirms secret exchanges between ex-chief, Saigon after peace accords

WASHINGTON (AP) — While ruling out military intervention, President Ford's press secretary acknowledged today that resigned President Richard M. Nixon had "confidential exchanges" in which he assured the Saigon government the United States would "react vigorously" to violations by Hanoi of the Paris peace agreements.

By implication, although not directly, Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated Nixon might have been prepared to intervene militarily but for congressional passage of a law that ruled out a return of American forces to the war zone.

Nessen's statement came one day after Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., contended there had been "secret agreements" between the Nixon administration and South Vietnam.

Jackson called on Ford to disclose any such agreements, but Nessen said such documents "in the course of normal diplomacy are not made public."

Asked for reaction to Jackson's statements, Nessen read the following statement to newsmen:

"Assurances to the Republic of Vietnam as to both U.S. assistance and U.S. enforcement of the Paris Agreement were stated clearly and publicly by President Nixon.

"The publicly stated policy and intention of the United States government to continue to provide adequate economic and military assistance to react vigorously to major violations of the Paris agreement reflected confidential exchanges between the Nixon administration and President Thieu at the time.

Nessen's disclosure at a briefing for reporters came as Sen. John G. Tower declared President Ford woud have to be "extremely persuasive" to get Congress to approve emergency military aid funds for South Vietnam.

"In substance the private exchanges do not differ from what was stated publicly.

"The law of 1973 of course ruled out the possibility of American military reaction to violations of the agreement."

Young Pomona man held in fatal shooting

A young Pomona man was arrested Tuesday and booked on suspicion of murder in connection with the shooting late Saturday night of a 14-year-old Claremont boy.

The suspect, Manuel Joe Lizama, 19, was arrested at his home at 350 W. 11th St.

Police investigators this morning said they planned to consult with the district attorney's deputies in Pomona today for possible issuance of a complaint against the suspect.

The arrest of Lizama followed the release by police earlier of a 15-year-old Pomona youth arrested at the scene of the slaying that night. Officers determined he had not been involved.

The victim of the killing was David Paul Chagolla Jr., of Claremont. He was shot in the throat apparently while attending a wedding reception at an exhibition building at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. There were about 200 persons there. Police said they are uncertain about the motive for the incident.

Rain, snow, cold temps hound area

Showers turned into a prolonged storm Tuesday and early this morning, dropping more than a half-inch of rain on the valley, bringing two feet of snow to the mountains and setting a new low for daytime temperatures.

The weatherman calls for clearing skies today and fair and warmer weather Thursday.

However, a turbulence off the Canadian coastline may bring additional moisture to the Southland by the weekend.

Tuesday's high of 50 degrees bettered the record low maximum reading of 50.3 for an April 8 set in 1965.

The National Weather Service issued frost warnings for tonight, forecasting an overnight low of 37 degrees in Pomona and lower in unprotected areas. A high of 61 is predicted for today and 65 is forecast for Thursday.

The cold weather assured skiers of plenty of snow at the Mt. Baldy ski lifts. Earl Adams, operator of the Snow Crest Lodge, reported today that the additional snowfall has created a "veritable wonderland in the mountains. Everything is white."

Snow was falling in the mountains down to Baldy Village even after sunrise, turning to rain not far above Padua Hills.

The rainfall was fairly even throughout the valley, except for Diamond Bar, which reported .81 inch. Elsewhere, the precipitation ranged from .69 in Claremont to .49 in Montclair and San Dimas. The P-B gauge recorded .68 inch of rain in downtown Pomona, and Cal Poly reported a reading of .66.

$200,000-month bookie ring bared; 4 arrested

Los Angeles County sheriff's officers arrested four bookmaking suspects Tuesday as the result of a three-month investigation centering in Pomona.

Deputies said the operation was grossing about $200,000 per month on bets placed on horse races being run at tracks across the country.

Undercover officers first arrested David Allen Kirby, 27, 5202 Canoga St., Montclair, an asembler, in an apartment at 744 N. Gordon St., Pomona. Next they arrested Raymond Rex Payne, 50, 4205 Evart St., Montclair, a bartender. He was arrested at Tom's Pastime, 545 W. Second St., Pomona.

Later, William Wallace, 27, 272 Carnegie Ave., Claremont, was arrested at home in what deputies called a "phone spot." Wallace is self employed, they said.

The last arrest was of John Fomin, 53, 15738 Pocoma St., Valinda. Deputies said he was an agent who made payoffs and collections.

The investigation is not complete, deputies said. They expect at least one more arrest.

The four suspects were booked on suspicion of bookmaking and suspicion of conspiracy to commit bookmaking. Similar complaints against the men will be sought from the district attorney's office, the investigators said.

Sheriff's vice detail officers worked in cooperation with Pomona police in the investigation. Outside officers are used because local policemen often are recognized, authorities said.

Industry callbacks cut jobless claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-four states are paying fewer unemployment compensation checks as some industries begin recalling workers from layoffs.

The Labor Department said industry callbacks helped reduce the number of Americans receiving jobless benefits in the week ending March 22 to 6,484,000, a decline of 42,500 from the previous week.

Initial benefit claims in the week ending March 29 declined 7,000 from the previous week to a total of 530,600.

Thousands pay last respects to Chiang

TAIPEI (AP) — Crowds ten deep lined the 15-mile route as the body of President Chiang Kai-Shek was carried to the Sun Yat-sen Memorial at noon today and placed in state there.

Some of the onlookers knelt in prayer. Thousands burned incense sticks and candles on improvised Buddhist altars for the 87-year-old Generalissimo, a Christian convert.

Preceded by a military band and honor guard, the glistening black coffin rode on a military truck from the Veterans Hospital, where Chiang died Saturday night. Hundreds of nurses held burning incense sticks as the coffin left the hospital.

Palace bomber promoted by North Viets

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The jet pilot who bombed President Nguyen Van Thieu's palace Tuesday later landed at a Viet Cong-held airfield, a spokesman for the Viet Cong delegation to the Joint Military Commission in Saigon said today.

The spokesman said the flier was promoted from lieutenant to captain and given the "Liberation Distinction Service Order Second Class."

He declined to give the exact location of where the plane had put down.

South Vietnamese authorities earlier had identified the pilot as 1st Lt. Nguyen Thanh Trung, who was stationed at Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of Saigon.

He took off on a routine mission Tuesday in support of South Vietnamese government ground troops, then turned toward Saigon to strike at the palace, they said.

Thieu, who was not hurt in the attack, later vowed that he would remain in office despite growing pressures that he resign. At least two other persons in the palace compound were reported killed in the attack.

Blame cigarette

Fire fatal to Pomona woman, 73

A smoldering cigarette apparently caused the fire which claimed the life of a 73-year-old Pomona woman Tuesday.

The victim, Lettie Lee Bedford, was found on the bedroom floor beside her bed at 4:48 p.m. by firemen.

Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said burns covered 85 to 90 per cent of her body. The smoldering fire charred her bed and scorched one wall of the home at 694 St. Paul St.

Mrs. Bedford's son, Charles Edward Boyce of Downey, told firemen he had talked with his mother Monday at 8:30 p.m. by telephone. Neighbors alerted him Tuesday when they saw a residue on windows in the house. Firemen said a heavy spread covered the front window.

The Los Angeles County Coroner's Office has ordered an autopsy. The body will be released to Rose Hills Mortuary, Whittier.

Traffic fatalities on rise again

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic fatalities, which declined 17 per cent in 1974, are climbing again as many Americans return to driving patterns to which they were accustomed before last year's gasoline shortages.

The latest National Safety Council statistics for the first two months of this year show a 6 per cent rise from the same two months in 1974. January marked the first monthly increase from the previous year since October 1973.

There was a dramatic decline in the fatality rate in the early months of 1974 during the gasoline crunch as motorists drove less frequently and slower.

Veneman may get post with Rocky

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller is considering John Veneman, a prominent California Republican, for a top staff post, Veneman's office says.

Veneman, who served for four years in the Nixon administration as undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is in Washington concerning the appointment, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Just what post Rockefeller will chose for the unsuccessful contender for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor last June has not been decided, said Ray Pope, who works for Veneman and Associates, a San Francisco consulting firm.

"The final decision hasn't been reached. The actual title and the responsibilities have not been defined," Pope said.

Strike, arbitration proposals for public employes appear doomed

SACRAMNTO (AP) — The author of a major public employes' collective bargaining bill says he is willing to remove the right-to-strike and binding arbitration sections from the measure to get it passed.

"I will take it out if it is the will of the committee," Sen. Ralph Dills told newsmen Tuesday after the Senate Governmental Organization Committee finished one of several hearings it has held on the bill.

He added he is working on what he called "substantial" changes that he may amend into the bill Thursday.

The Gardena Democrat's comment gave further evidence that the bill is in trouble. The proposal has the backing of Democratic leaders in the legislature, and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has supported the concept of collective bargaining for public workers.

But it has drawn strong opposition from spokesmen for local governments.

Removal of the strike and arbitration provisions would strip the most controversial sections from Dills' proposal.

The Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday that labor organziations backing the bill were willing to remove the strike provision and limit the power of an arbiter to impose his own settlement in a contract dispute.

Dills contended that, even without the right-to-strike and arbitration clauses, his bill would strengthen collective bargaining provisions, which now exist in a limited form.

"What we are primarily concerned with is setting up a state board that has some power and with giving employes some of the rights we thought we gave them and they are now having to go to court to get," he said.

As it now stands, the Dills' proposal would set up a five-member Public Employment Relations Board to administer the bill, implement impasse procedures and investigate unfair practice charges.

A public agency would be required under the measure to negotiate only with the union chosen by a majority of its workers.

It would also permit so-called agency shops, in which an employe either has to join a union or pay a service fee as a condition of employment.

The bill grants employes the right to strike, but only after a lengthy procedure of mediation, factfinding and arbitration. A strike could be ended if a judge determined that it threatened public health or safety.

Opponents argue that the bill would violate the sovereignty of state, county and local governments, would increase the number of public employe strikes and boost government costs.

Supporters say the measure would merely extend to public employes the rights enjoyed by other workers and would — because of its mediation procedure—cut down on strikes.

Claremont bans puffers

1 city commissioner gone as smoke clears—he quits

The Claremont City Council Chambers now will be free of any tobacco smoke at public meetings, but the smoking ban adopted by the council Tuesday night has caused a longtime planning commissioner to resign.

James C. Norris Jr. told newsmen that he has been smoking a pipe for 38 years, a habit begun before two of the present council members were born.

Norris submitted his resignation March 31, to be effective when the smoking ban went into effect.

Tongue in cheek, Norris in his resignation letter chastized the council for interfering with his smoking habit when there are some potential ordinances of "more substance" which enjoin honor and prohibit killing, adultery, stealing, and covetness.

"May I expect the council to legislate liquor prohibition, choice of deodorant, or possibly a uniform dress code?" Norris asked in his letter.

Norris said that he is pressed for time in his business at General Dynamics, and that after six years on the commission, two as commission chairman, it is time to quit to give the council an opportunity to appoint a person "more in tune" with their thinking of the past two years.

"I am quitting with no hard feelings," Norris said, and noted that Councilwomen Claire McDonald and Eleanor Cohen and Councilman Gene Block all sat on the Planning Commission while he smoked his pipe.

The council Tuesday passed the resolution banning smoking in the council chambers not only during all public meetings but even during council executive sessions.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said that she would prefer that the resolution — which says that "no person shall smoke or carry a lighted cigar, cigarette, pipe or other smoking device in the council chambers" during a meeting of the council, any commission or committee or other public gathering — should be extended to "executive sessions of the council."

Mayor Bertye Smith, the only puffer on the council, voted against Mrs. Cohen's motion, as did Frank Hungerford.

Mayor Smith couldn't get a second to her motion that each commission should poll its membership on how they wish to conduct their meetings.

Mrs. Smith supported the Planning Commission's recommendation that each commission decide whether it would allow smoking at its meetings.

Rugg elected 5th time as Upland school board chief

William S. Rugg was unanimously elected to a fifth term as president of the Upland school board by board members Tuesday.

Re-elected by voters to the board in March, Rugg has served as a member for the past seven years and had been board president from 1969-1973.

George R. Ehrnman served as 1974 president.

Trustee Dorothy Gibson was re-elected vice chairman of the board. Trustee Willima Emrich was re-elected clerk of the board.

At the meeting William G. Hatson, new board member, and Barry Brandt and Rugg, both re-elected members, were administered the oath of office by Supt. Bill Plaster.

The board voted to send a letter of opposition to Senate Bill 275, the collective bargaining bill for public employes including teachers, to a number of state legislators including members of the Senate Education Committee. The board was told by Plaster that collective bargaining expenses for the first year, if the bill passed, would be at least $30,000 for the Upland district.

A 10-acre lemon grove owned by the district will be advertised for lease, the board decided. The site on E. 22nd Street has been rented for the past six years for $100 a year.

The board wishes to offer a five year lease for 10 per cent of the annual gross. Members felt that this would benefit the district over the long run.

Senate panel rejects rent control bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has killed a bill to establish a system of local option rent controls in California.

After the bill went down on a 3-5 vote Tuesday, the author, Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, said he might try for a ballot initiative. A similar bill is still alive in the Assembly, and might have a chance, Roberti said.

"This is just the opening gun," Roberti said.

Senior citizens and students, who all said rent increases were playing havoc with their fixed incomes, testified for the bill.

Realtors, apartment owners and mobile home operators were against it. If old folks and students must have subsidized rents, they said all taxpayers should provide the subsidy, not just landlords.

Roberti said his bill was modeled on a Massachusetts law. That led to this exchange between Roberti and committee Chairman Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, who eventually voted against the bill:

Song — "We don't have the same problems in California as they have in Boston. For example, we have integrated schools."

Roberti — "Do we, senator?"

Song — "I don't think Sen. Ted Kennedy would be stoned here."

Roberti — "No, but his brother was killed here."

Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, who also voted no, said he was brought up in the New York-New Jersey area and that rent control hadn't worked there.

Housing conditions were just as deplorable in St. Louis, Chicago or Detroit, and none of them had rent controls, a Roberti aide said. Roberti's bill had no resemblance to the New York law anyway, he said.

Among the students who testified were three from the University of California at Santa Barbara, who said housing was so scarce and expensive in Isla Vista that students had to move farther away from campus.

Area leaders to study commuter train to L.A.

A proposed daily commuter train between San Bernardino and Los Angeles will be discussed Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Montclair City Council chambers.

State Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., will attend the session with Gerald B. Leonard, senior transportation planner for the Southern California Association of Governments and Montclair Mayor Harold Hayes.

Also invited are Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, San Bernardino County supervisors, and mayors of cities along the proposed commuter line.

Leonard has prepared a feasibility study on railroad commuter service in Southern California, which includes the proposed San Bernardino to Los Angeles line, said Ayala. "Our meeting will be an exploratory session to determine where we are today and what is ahead."

Ayala reported the first priority in transportation should be service connecting area communities, such as that being started in Montclair, Chino, Upland and Ontario.

"Once this is established, then you have the problem of getting people to Los Angeles where they work.

"But there is no problem of working on both these priorities concurrently," he added.

The commuter train proposal dates back to 1973 when Ayala was then a member of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

Cory won't pay bill made by former state official

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State Controller Kenneth Cory is blocking state funds for payment of a $11,800 bill from a survey taken last fall for then-Lt. Gov. John L. Harmer.

Cory, a Democrat, said Tuesday he refused payment to the Santa Ana polling firm Decision Making Information. Harmer, a Republican now out of office, said he would sue if necessary to force the state to pay.

Cory said Harmer had failed to get approval in advance of the state's Department of General Services. A spokesman said the new lieutenant governor, Democrat Mervyn Dymally, backs Cory in the refusal to pay.

"My old seasoned political nose tells me it's just an out-and-out campaign expenditure," said a Dymally spokesman. "It was just a setup operation with the state's leading Republican polling firm to do a study for which they don't have any conspicuous credentials."

Meanwhile, Richard Wirthlin, president of the polling firm, said it had been a valid contract. If not paid soon he will sue Harmer or the state or both to collect, he said.

Harmer said he "categorically denies" the survey had anything to do with his unsuccessful campaign against Dymally.

Harmer, who represented Glendale in the state senate before his interim appointment to the state's No. 2 office, said other bills also remained unpaid from his tenure.

"I have been hounded to death by people who have not been paid for things I contracted," he declared.

"There have been a number of situations where perfectly legitimate expenditures have been made and people have not been paid," Harmer went on. "If they refuse to pay this, I will take it into the court. We have a contract. I cannot conceive of any rational basis in which they can refuse payment."

At $9,200 you're practically at poverty level

Got to earn $20,000 a year to afford a few luxuries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The typical urban American family of four requires $14,300 annually to maintain a moderate standard of living, the Labor Department said Tuesday. This, after the worst inflation in 28 years, is $1,733 more than the previous year.

The same family can live at an austere level for $9,200 or at a level allowing some luxuries for $20,800, the government said.

The costs, calculated for fall 1974 before taxes, rose 12.4 per cent for the austerity budget, 13.5 per cent for the moderate budget and 14.2 per cent for the higher budget over the previous year.

The changes were the biggest increases in any year since the Labor Department began publishing its urban family budget in 1966.

Inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, was at a rate of 12.2 per cent last year, the steepest rate since 1946. Consumer prices have risen another 2.7 per cent since last fall.

The budgets do not represent how families actually spent their money, but reflect assumptions about the manner of living. They are based on a city family with a 38-year-old father who is an experienced worker, his nonworking wife, their 13-year-old son and 8-year-old daughter.

Lower budget families live in rental housing without air conditioning, use public transportation or drive a used car and do most of their own cooking and washing.

At the moderate level, families are assumed to have purchased their own home six years ago, drive a later-model car, buy more meat at the market and occasionally dine out. The higher budget family buys a new car every four years and can afford more household goods and services.

Total consumption costs at all three levels increased by about 11 per cent last year, mostly because of large increases in food, housing and transportation which account for more than 70 per cent of total consumption.

Food price increases had a greater impact on the lower-budget family because food accounts for a larger proportion at that level. Food costs rose 13.5 per cent for the lower budget, 11.5 per cent at the moderate budget and 10.8 per cent at the higher level.

Moderate and higher budget families felt a greater impact from the rise in housing costs because housing accounts for a larger share of their expenses. Housing costs increased 8.1 per cent in the lower budget, and 11.3 and 11.7 per cent in the moderate and higher budgets, respectively.

The government estimated living in metropolitan areas was 8 per cent higher than in nonmetropolitan urban areas for the lower budget; 13 per cent more for the moderate budget, and 18 per cent for the higher bracket.

Small southern towns with populations from 2,500 to 5,000 continued to be the cheapest places to live, while Anchorage, Alaska, remained the most expensive. In the continental United States, Boston and New York were the most expensive.

Case of two missing sisters, 13, 11, remains baffling

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — Fifteen days after their 13-and 11-year-old daughters went out for some pizzas and did not return, John and Mary Lyon still await the call that could end their ordeal in either grief or joy.

The case of the missing Sheila and Kate Lyon has attracted massive publicity in the nation's capital. It also has baffled the best minds of the area's law enforcement agencies, including the FBI.

Search parties have long since combed miles around the Lyons' suburban home. Divers have dragged the area's waters. Specially trained dogs have been flown in only to lose the scent. And scores upon scores of tips, ranging from hunches to purported sightings, have been called in by well-meaning citizens but to no avail.

Police are virtually convinced the two blonde youngsters are not runaways. For one thing, they're too young to have been gone so long without being reported. For another, their home, by all indications, was a happy one.

The girls, on the first day of their Easter vacation from school, walked out the front door and headed up a flagstone path through the woods to a nearby shopping center.

"I said to them, 'Why don't you stop off and get some pizza,'" recalls Mrs. Lyon. "I remember Kate complained that a slice of pizza used to be 40 cents and now it's 45 cents."

By 8 p.m., "We were really scared" and her husband called the police, she said. "They took us seriously right from the start."

One leading theory is that the girls were abducted by a 50-to 60-year-old man who was seen tape recording a conversation with them on a bench outside the pizza parlor early in the afternoon of the day they disappeared.

The most striking of hundreds of unconfirmed leads came Monday, when a motorist in Manassas, Va., 20 miles from Kensington, reported seeing a station wagon driven by a man whose description matched that of the suspect — with two girls the witness thought were tied up in the back seat.

But police couldn't find any such car despite flooding the roads with patrol vehicles. At least 100 citizen band radio operators also roamed the Virginia suburbs without finding the station wagon.

At the Lyon household John, who is a radio announcer, Mary, and their son and a third daughter keep a round-the-clock vigil near the telephone. At the fireplace are two untouched Easter baskets, as well as a gift-wrapped transistor radio for each of the girls from sister Melanie. Both Sheila and Kate had birthdays on the weekend following their disappearance.

While waiting for their return, the Lyons have changed their minds about some things. "Kate can get her ears pierced," chokes Mrs. Lyon. "And Sheila can wear eye shadow..."

Arson suspected

Pomona fire investigators said they have suspects in mind in an attempted arson Tuesday in which a molotov cocktail was thrown against the side of a three-quarter-ton pickup with camper unit parked on the street at 1255 Fernleaf Ave. Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said the unit, owned by Seferino Gonzalez, received about $50 damage.

DOUBLE IDENTITY

Mrs. Elizabeth Carmichael, who came to Dallas this year touting a revolutionary economy car and disappeared after criminal charges were filed, is really a man, Dallas police say.

Skirt-wearing ex-boss turns out to be a man

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man who used to handle publicity for the defunct 20th Century Motor Car Corp. says "it boggles the mind" his skirt-wearing ex-boss turned out to be a man.

Marvin Cantz, former 20th Century public relations director, said Tuesday he would never have guessed that "Elizabeth Carmichael" was a man, identified by authorities as Jerry Dean Michael.

"The thing that makes it so hard for me to believe she was a man is that she had five kids," Cantz said in an interview. "She always had a 15-year-old named Brian who was always around the office and four other kids, including one about three years old. The youngest kid was always sitting on her lap, saying 'mommy, mommy.' How do you get a kid three years old to call you mommy?"

Capt. John Driscoll, head of the Dallas Police Department's intelligence section, said Mrs. Carmichael was really Jerry Dean Michael, 37, a federal fugitive from Florida. Mrs. Carmichael is sought on charges stemming from an allegedly phony stock deal involving her 20th Century Motor Car Corp.

However, an FBI spokesman said the agency had checked fingerprints of Mrs. Carmichael against those of Michael and found they did not match.

"They are not the same person," a spokesman said.

Driscoll said late Tuesday night that identification was not based on fingerprints.

"I cannot reveal the details," he said. "But I am very comfortable with it (the identification). I am comfortable enough to continue the investigation along the same line ... that Mrs. Carmichael and Michael are the same person."

Cantz said in the 4½ months he worked for 20th Century he never suspected his boss might be a man even though she — or he — stood more than 6 feet tall and had large wrists and a husky voice.

He said the firm had 40 to 50 engineers working on the car at its plant in suburban Encino.

"I was sold as many people were on his—or her—sincerity," Cantz said. "She was a pretty positive gal. She controlled everything in the company. You didn't order a pencil sharpener without her approval."

Carney, Burstyn top actors

Mafia 'moves in' on the Oscar awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Carney, Ellen Burstyn and a movie about the Mafia were the stars of the 47th Academy Awards. Francis Ford Coppola's "The Godfather, Part II" won top honors with six Oscars, including best picture.

The sweep made the 36-year-old Coppola Hollywood's undisputed wunderkind, but Carney was the sentimental victor of the festivities.

"I'm numb, I'm happy, why should I be embarrassed I'm Irish!" he exclaimed after his surprise win as best actor for playing a 72-year-old crosscountry traveler with a cat in "Harry and Tonto."

Carney's win was a delight to the audience, which rose in tribute to the veteran television actor. It was his first starring role in a movie.

He said his agent urged him to do the role by saying, "Do it! You are old!" But backstage, Carney, 56, laughingly said, "I'm still a kid!"

Miss Burstyn, nominated twice before, finally won as best actress for her role as the errant housewife with ambitions as a singer in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

Robert De Niro, the young Mafia don of "Godfather-II," and Ingrid Bergman, one of the suspects in "Murder on the Orient Express," won as supporting performers in the 47th annual ceremonies at the Music Center.

The awards shaped up as producer-writer-director Coppola's night, despite heavy betting on "Chinatown," which won only one Oscar, for original screen play.

The "Godfather" sequel won him Oscars for best direction and screen play adaptation (with Mario Puzo), as well as for De Niro, art direction and original dramatic score.

It was also a "family" matter, to win "Godfather-II" — Coppola's father, Carmine, composed the score with Nino Rota, and his sister, Talia Shire, was nominated as best supporting actress in the film.

"Amarcord," Frederico Fellini's affectionate autobiographical film of prewar Italy, was named best foreign language film of the year.

Best song Oscar went to "We May Never Love Like This Again," from "The Towering Inferno." The disaster film also won for cinematography and editing.

Unlike recent Oscarcasts, Tuesday night's went off smoothly and with little incident. No streakers, no refusals of Oscars.

The closest thing to controversy came when producer Bert Schneider accepted the award for best documentary feature for his film opposing the Vietnam War, "Hearts and Minds."

The producer read a telegram of friendship from the Viet Cong delegate to the Paris Peace talks.

Later in the program the Motion Picture Academy answered through emcee Frank Sinatra: "We are not responsible for any political references made on this program tonight and we are sorry they were made."

$10,000 horse drowns in lake

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A $10,000 show horse owned by country-western singer Merle Haggard drowned in a lake on the singer's 250-acre range here.

Bonnie Haggard, the singer's wife, said the horse jumped into the water and began swimming toward some calves across the lake.

She said Haggard's cousin, Gerald Hart, riding the horse, tried to drive it back toward the shore but his foot became entangled in the stirrup and he swam back to shore when he feared being dragged down by the animal.

She said the horse bobbed up and down several times but was weighed down by a saddle and pads. "I guess it panicked and in the process took too much water," she said.

Market robbed; car, gun found

Chino police this morning have recovered a getaway car and a revolver used in an armed robbery of Cook's Market, 12985 18th St. Tuesday afternoon and are seeking two men for questioning in the case.

With the assistance of the San Bernardino County sheriff's helicopter police located the vehicle a short time after the 5 p.m. robbery at Gird Avenue and Valle Vista in the Chino area. Officers said a gun was found in the vehicle similar to the one used in the robbery.

The robbers were both described as Caucasians, one 5 feet 8 to 5 feet 9, wearing a dark wrap around type mustache, a dark blue beanie cap and gold rimmed sunglasses. The second man was described as being about 20, 5 feet 8, 140 pounds of thin build with blue Levi jacket and pants. He had a scar on his lower lip.

N. Viet missile boats a potential threat to U.S. ships

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese navy has moved a small number of highspeed, missile-firing boats to a base near South Vietnam, U.S. intelligence sources report.

The sources said the presence of even a small number of the Komar class boats represents a potential threat to U.S. naval vessels operating in the area off South Vietnam. There are more than 25 U.S. Navy ships and some 4,300 Marines within a few days' sailing time from South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Although intelligence specialists said a North Vietnamese attack on American ships would be illogical, they warned that the possibility cannot be dismissed.

The Russian-built Komar class boats are armed with Styx missiles, the same type used by the Egyptian navy to sink an Israeli destroyer in the 1967 Mideast war.

According to the intelligence report, North Vietnamese missile boats have been seen recently at Quang Khe on the North Vietnamese Panhandle coast about 65 miles above the old demilitarized zone.

Previously, the North Vietnamese have kept their missile-firing craft near Haiphong more than 200 miles farther north.

The last time the U.S. Navy clashed with North Vietnamese craft was in April 1972 when warships shelling the coast above the DMZ were reported attacked by patrol boats and MIG jet fighters.

At that time, the U.S. command in Saigon said the guided-missile frigate Sterett was believed to have sunk two of the enemy boats.

Komar-class boats, displacing 100 tons, can travel at speeds up to 40 knots. Each boat carries twin launchers for Styx missiles with a range of about 15 miles. Komars also are armed with antiaircraft guns.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the return home of the U.S. nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise is being delayed while the United States prepares for possible evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam. The Enterprise and four escorts are now in the South China Sea.

In addition to the missile boat move, U.S. intelligence sources said the North Vietnamese recently sent several helicopters and a transport plane into newly conquered territory below the DMZ.

However, these sources said the North Vietnamese air force has not flown any of its 270 MIG jet fighters or eight IL28 medium bombers into South Vietnam. A few MIGs are reported based at Dong Hoi about 40 miles north of the DMZ.

In another development, intelligence has detected a North Vietnamese Army division in the Panhandle above the DMZ.

If it crosses the old boundary, it will be the fifth division to enter South Vietnam since the offensive began last month and the 19th North Vietnamese division committed there. Only two army divisions would remain in the north.

Full moon, full house

STAR JUNCTION, Pa. (AP) — It started out as a typical day for the George Wilson family.

Before they left for church on Sunday their calico cat gave birth to four kittens.

When they returned home, their terrier, mated with a poodle, had given birth to four puppies. And several hours later their German shepherd dog, mated with a Siberian Husky, delivered eight puppies.

"I was always told that the full moon has something to do with such things," said Mrs. Wilson.

Riverside asks decrease in pay

RIVERSIDE (AP) — City fathers want municipal workers to take a voluntary pay cut in the face of a projected $3.8 million deficit in the 1975-76 budget.

An official said Tuesday that without the slash there would have to be reduction in services and increase in property taxes—plus some layoffs.

The City Council directed the city manager to open negotiations with city employes immediately about the pay decrease.

Family viewing period

2 hours of prime TV without sex, violence

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Two hours of prime time television will be free from sex and violence beginning this fall as a "family viewing" program plan goes into effect.

The proposal was adopted Tuesday by the National Association of Broadcasters' Television Board of Directors.

It goes into effect in September when the three networks and 415 stations subscribing to the NAB's television code keep shows "inappropriate for viewing by a general family audience" off the air in the early evening hours.

The family viewing period would generally range from 7 p.m to 9 p.m. on the East and West coasts and an hour earlier in Central Time zones.

The proposal was adopted after a four-hour closed-door session by the TV directors. Chairman Wilson E. Wearn said there was "some difference of opinion" at the session but it was not a "knock-down, drag-out session."

The plan was drawn up last February after Richard E. Wiley, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, complained that young viewers were not being protected from undue sex and violence in the early evening viewing hours.

Wearn said the action would "hopefully lead to a situation where during a period of the broadcast day we'll have programs that will definitely be suitable for all-family viewing."

The action was taken in "response to both public indications of concern and the individual broadcaster's concerns over being responsible in their programming," he said.

The original proposal was amended to "help the independent" stations that had expressed fears they would be unable to purchase suitable "family" shows from the networks for a year or two. The amendment excepts programs contracted for by independents as of April 8, 1975 and expires in November 1977.

3 Southland counties betting millions on commuter gamble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will Southern Californians forsake their prized automobiles to ride commuter trains? Officials in three counties are betting millions they will, but there are a lot of skeptics.

The idea is to run two trains between San Diego and Los Angeles, picking up workers in cities along the way.

One train is being financed by Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors. Eight coaches were bought from the Oregon Pacific & Eastern Railroad and are being refurbished at a cost of $1 million.

The other will be run jointly by Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties. Both trains will begin service by July 1, say planners. They will be operated by Amtrak, the semi-public corporation that runs all passenger trains in the United States. They will be the first commuter trains in Southern California in 10 years.

County officials say they expect the trains will be used most heavily by Orange County residents with Los Angeles jobs. The trains will stop in such cities as Fullerton, Anaheim and Santa Ana.

A oneway Santa Ana-to-LA ticket is expected to cost $2. Fares are still being worked out.

The train will pull into the Los Angeles' downtown Union Station, and passengers can take buses to their jobs.

Some critics say that there is no assurance that enough people — officials hope for at least 800 passengers on two runs daily — will ride the trains to make them worthwhile. And they say that service facilities along the route are inadequate.

Some old terminals have been converted into restaurants, some have been destroyed and others have been moved to new locations.

But supporters say rail service will lure thousands of motorists fed up with high gasoline prices and jammed freeways.

Gerald B. Leonard, senior transportation planner for the Southern California Association of Governments, said: "It is kind of foot in the door to suggest to the public that there is an alternative — really an experiment — in which people can be drawn out of their automobiles into a rail service."

Planners estimate that subsidies amounting to $330,000 a year will be required to meet the difference between operating costs and revenue for the Los Angeles County-financed train. The subsidies will come from $4.15 million in federal revenue sharing funds provided in this year's county budget.

Under current plans, Amtrak will provide the engine and staff the train. The Southern California Rapid Transit District, as it does with its bus fleet, will run the train, setting schedules and fares.

Amtrak's second Los Angeles-to-San Diego train will be operated under a different arrangement.

Amtrak will provide the equipment, but under new state legislation Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties are entering into an agreement to share operational deficits up to $220,000 a year from transit-related state sales taxes.

The concept of the two trains also is different. Los Angeles County's train is for commuters and will run during rush hours. The tricounty train will have an off-peak schedule to accommodate tourists and overnight travelers.

Three existing Amtrak trains between Los Angeles and San Diego are not geared for commuter use. They are scheduled to connect with other trains to and from the East.

Public officials backing the train program say it could be the start of a larger network that would use not only existing railroad tracks but abandoned rights-of-way and space alongside flood channels as well.

A prime mover behind the railroad program is Baxter Ward, who has been promoting it since he took office as a Los Angeles County supervisor in 1972.

He has pointed out that it would have taken 12 years to build the 145-mile, $8 billion to $10 billion rapid transit system turned down by Los Angeles County voters last November.

"Rail corridors developed under this plan (using available facilities) could be upgraded over the years into the kind of high-speed, long-distance rapid transit the county needs," Ward said.

When they say 'Stop' you stop

LUSAKA, Jambia (AP) — Jambia's police have been granted powers to open fire on motorists refusing to stop when ordered.

Police have been criticized in the past for recent shooting incidents in which two women and a man have been killed.

But minister of home affairs Aaron Milner says, "We must curb Zambia's increasing crime rate and because of this members of the public and drivers should not under any circumstances ignore stop signals by police."

Scientists say large quakes may be linked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists are beginning to believe there is a link between huge earthquakes that periodically shake up the rim of the Pacific Ocean basin.

"It seems that there is more structure to the occurrence of earthquakes, at least in the Pacific," said Michael A. Chinnery of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincion Laboratory.

"You get the impression that the whole Pacific plate is moving as a unit, so that when something happens in Alaska, something else happens some other place," he said.

Chinnery and Thomas E. Landers made a study of 8,000 earthquakes with magnitudes between 5.2 and 6.5 on the Richter Scale occurring between 1964 and 1974.

They found there was a great deal of seismic activity in the Pacific Ocean basin in 1964-65 and again in 1973-74.

Chinnery said while the data suggests "the existence of some underlying causal mechanism" for the periods of high seismic activity, it was not possible to say at present whether the movement of the Pacific plate or the earthquakes come first.

Dr. Benjamin F. Howell Jr. of Pennsylvania State University, who has studied all the large tremors that have rocked the western United States and parts of Mexico and Canada between 1923 and 1972, said an earthquake large enough to damage property can be expected to occur once every 100 years within a 30-square-mile area of major faults, such as the San Andreas Fault.

On the other hand, he added, tremors as strong as the one that caused widespread damage in San Francisco in 1906 can tentatively be expected to occur only once in every 200 years.

While most of the earth scientists at a recent conference at California State University at Los Angeles agreed an inexorable strain is building up along the San Andreas Fault between Bakersfield and the Mexican border, some of the seismologists thought the 1957 tremor near Bakersfield may have been the Los Angeles area's equivalent of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake.

Dr. Eduard Berg of the University of Hawaii said an analysis he had made of earthquakes in the Pacific during 1964-72 showed a pattern of migration from west to east, with lag times to five months to about one year.

Berg explained this meant that a large earthquake in Japan might typically be followed five to 12 months later by another large earthquake in the Aleutians, in the Indian Ocean or along the eastern edge of the Pacific basin.

The first known system for delivering water to cities was built by the Phoenicians. The Greeks copied the system of digging tunnels to bring water to their cities, and the Romans developed it with aqueducts 50 to 100 feet high that brought water to Rome from more than 60 miles away.

Could result in employer tax hike

State's jobless funds may run out

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The fund that pays benefits to California's unemployed job-seekers could run out of money next year if the jobless rate keeps rising, a state analyst said today.

Charles E. Sevick, an analyst with the Employment Development Department, said the department might have to ask the legislature this fall to raise taxes on employers to bail the fund out.

"We should have raised the rate at the beginning of this year, but with the economy aready in a bad situation it would have made layoffs worse," Sevick said in an interview.

"We'll try to get through 1976, but unless there's a turnaround in the economy by about September we may have to go in for emergency legislation."

He said the emergency bill probably would seek to increase the $4,200 ceiling on wages subject to the employer tax.

The unemployment insurance fund is financed by employers in taxes ranging from 1.7 to 4.1 per cent of each employe's wages.

The fund started this year with $1.16 billion. The department estimates weekly payments to the unemployed at $1.36 billion for 1975.

Under current economic forecasts, that would leave the fund with $675 million at the end of this year, the department says. Sevick said up to $350 million more might be needed in 1976.

"As an alternative, we could borrow from the federal government," the analyst said. "But the (Brown) administration has opposed that approach."

Jobless rate up in Canada

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — Canada's unemployment rate rose to 7.2 per cent last month from 6.8 per cent in February, the government announced today. The seasonally adjusted jobless figure compares to 8.7 per cent in the United States last month

Statistics Canada, a government agency, said the size of the work force actually grew and that a major part of the increase in unemployment was caused by new job seekers. A total of 840,000 persons were out of work in a labor force of 9.8 million.

Tests show hydrogen has potential to replace gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hydrogen has the potential to replace gasoline as a motor fuel, the Postal Service says.

Reporting on Postal Service tests in California with a hydrogen-powered mail truck, the service said hydrogen has "the potential of averting future energy shortages."

One problem is that the fuel is still a lot more expensive than regular gasoline. Liquid hydrogen now costs about $1.80 a gallon, and it would cost $90 to fill the truck's 50-gallon tank. But postal officials said greater production and use could lower the cost considerably.

Using a regular American Motors six-cylinder, water-cooled engine with a modified carburetor and other special equipment, the Postal Service's quarter-ton truck got about nine miles per gallon of liquid hydrogen when driven at normal speeds, officials said.

The fuel tank holds the liquid hydrogen at a temperature of minus 430 degrees. As the engine turns, the liquid is fed through a vaporizer to convert it to gas.

Black lawmen form group to aid recruiting

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A black police sergeant has announced the formation of a group to help the department recruit and promote black officers.

Sgt. Oscar Johnson, one of three black sergeants on the San Diego police force, said that the new Association for the Advancement of Minority Officers also would help improve "the quality of life and relationship between the community and the department."

Problems persist in reaching law of the sea treaty

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP — The United Nations conference on the law of the sea is approaching its midpoint with considerable movement toward a treaty but enough disagreement to endanger hopes for an oceanic constitution.

A survey of key delegates, made as the conference entered the fourth week of an eightweek session, showed hard - to - resolve differences persist. The conference is hoping to write a draft treaty which would be examined and voted on in another session in Caracas, Venezuela.

Agreement has been reached, in general terms, on extending territorial seas from 3 to 12 miles, creating a 200-mile economic zone beyond the territorial limit and establishing an international agency to control development of the seabed.

But there are disagreements when it comes to translating the over-all consensus into livable and enforceable terms.

One of the key issues of the conference — described by a Western delegate as the "gut issue on which the whole thing could break down" — is how the new 12-mile jurisdiction will effect narrow international waterways like the Strait of Gibralter.

The United States and the Soviet Union insist on free transit in all international straits, without restriction on any vessel, including submerged submarines. Opposition comes from Spain and the Arab countries, with Indonesia and Malaysia also expressing concern about warships, nuclear vessels and supertankers in their areas.

There has been some compromise, but a key delegate said, "The Americans and the Russians have made it clear that they'll get their way on this or there will be no conference."

On the question of the 200-mile economic zone, the consensus agrees that the coastal states will get complete rights to fishing, but that they must let other states fish for surpluses.

But much disagreement exists on what additional powers the coastal states will be able to exercise in their economic zones. A group led by Canada wants a law that would give coastal states control over the operations of ships in their zones and the wastes they discharge.

Most big maritime nations fear arbitrary actions by a possibly irresponsible few and oppose wide powers for the coastal states.

As for the seabed beyond the continental shelf, conference sources say there is total agreement it should be used for peaceful purposes and be managed by an international authority. But there is debate on the nature and powers of the authority.

Another area of disagreement is the nature of a tribunal that would handle disputes arising from the new law of the sea.

The pace of the conference in ,resolving its differences troubles delegates who feel all momentum could be lost.

"Somebody is always saying that there is a real chance for it all to fall apart," a key delegate said. "I don't see that happening in a spectacular way, but there is the chance the conference will just stop moving.

Reds to push on political front in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say there are indications now that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong will not mount a direct assault on Saigon over the next two to three weeks but instead will press for the ouster of President Nguyen Van Thieu and a negotiated surrender of his government.

This view is being expressed at a time when Communist supplies are moving southward to catch up with the rapid advance of some 18 or 19 North Vietnamese divisions Officials say that the Communist leadership would prefer the political approach as one way of preserving the "fig leaf" of carrying out the 1973 Paris peace accords.

A negotiated surrender also would mean that lower-ranking government officials would be kept at their jobs during the take-over period which otherwise would be chaotic.

However, officials here are not discounting the possibility that the military operation would continue in high gear if South Vietnam's resistance breaks in the Delta as it did earlier at Hue and Da Nang.

Maneuvering now in the Delta region by Communist forces is aimed at cutting off Route 4, which would separate three South Vietnamese divisions in the Delta from the active defense of Saigon.

It appears here that President Thieu decided over the weekend to stick it out in Saigon. Earlier, it had been thought that he would step down with the situation so desperate.

Evacuation of American civilians and their dependents is proceeding slowly to avoid panic among the Vietnamese.

The estimated 6,000 Americans in Vietnam one week ago was reduced to about 5,600 by last Saturday and several hundred more have departed since then. Official consideration is being given to speeding up the evacuation process. The State Department had acknowledged that dependents and civilians have been leaving but have been vague about numbers.

As for providing American assistance to the Vietnamese people who are now behind Communist lines, State Department officials are recommending that the United States not oppose help to the Vietnamese population under Communist control, provided the aid is administered by international organizations such as the United Nations.

At this point, there are an estimated seven million or eight million South Vietnamese now under the control of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese while 12 million to 13 million are still under the Saigon government's control, mainly in the densely populated Delta region.

Whatever final decision is reached on U.S. humanitarian aid, the first priority will go to Vietnamese under Saigon's rule, authorities said.

Hinrichsen is named next Chaffey College prexy

KENNETH C. HINRICHSEN

Kenneth Conrad Hinrichsen, a Chaffey College graduate and presently its associate superintendent, has been named the next superintendent-president of the Alta Loma community college.

Hinrichsen was appointed Tuesday night by the board of trustees. He will succeed retiring Supt. T. Stanley Warburton.

A Chaffey alumnus, Hinrichsen has logged nearly 26 years with the district, first as a teacher and then as administrator. He has been associate superintendent since 1973.

Prior to that position, he was assistant superintendent of personnel from 1969 to 1971. His responsibilities broadened to include business services, student services and instruction from 1971 to 1973. His title was changed to associate superintendent in 1973.

Hinrichsen began his career as a teacher at Chaffey High School and taught there three years before joining the Chaffey College staff. He has also served as an administrtative assistant and chairman of the social science division.

Hinrichsen earned an associate degree from Chaffey in 1941. He received bachelor and master degrees at UC Berkeley. He was the first UC graduate student to receive the California Historical Award for original research.

He and his wife Marjory reside in Alta Loma with their son Gregory, 20, and twins Geoffrey and Julia, 18.

FIRE IN THE RAIN

In spite of heavy rain Tuesday afternoon, this welding trailer being towed behind a pickup caught fire when the trailer hitch broke and the trailer overturned on the San Bernardino Freeway between White and Ganesha avenues, Pomona. The fire spread to the pickup. Gary Kennedy of La Verne, the driver, wasn't hurt. Pomona firemen put out the fire which was confined to the pickup and trailer.

Donnelly gains Pomona school board presidency in a divided session

Don L. Donnelly, a Los Angeles County fireman and a labor consultant, Tuesday was elected president of Pomona school board by his fellow board members.

Donnelly was elected to the board in 1969 and re-elected in 1973. He served as vice president last year.

New board member C. Allan Braswell made an unsuccessful attempt to keep Donnelly from the top position by suggesting that Ken Pine, immediate past president, be retained. His motion was seconded by Pine but failed when the three remaining board members voted against it.

DON L. DONNELLY

Braswell explained that he and Donnelly both were "opinionated, usually on opposite sides," and he would "hate to have Donnelly wielding the gavel" during his first term on the board.

Donnelly was nominated by new board member Gene Whitlock. That nomination was seconded by Mary Montes. The vote was 3-2, with Pine and Braswell voting against Donnelly.

Mrs. Montes was elected vice president of the school board. Donnelly was named board representative to the Los Angeles County School Trustees Association and board representative to the Baldy View Regional Occupational commission.

In relinquishing the gavel, Pine said that he had "totally enjoyed" being president and he added, "This is the most diversified board we have had in many years. This will be a very positive board. There is a new excitement, new awareness, more pride in Pomona. This board will be a very important part of continuing this positive attitude in Pomona."

Two new members, Whitlock and Braswell, were administered the oath of office by Pine at the beginning of the meeting. They succeeded James Bell and Phil Wessels.

Mrs. Montes, who was elected to the school board in a special election last November, waged a successful battle to have the school board agenda changed.

In a motion that had to be amended, then re-amended, she asked that the oral communications-time reserved for the public to address the board — be moved from the end to the beginning of the agenda.

"It's in order that we listen to the public first," she said. Her motion was seconded by Whitlock and unanimously adopted.

At the next school board meeting, the public will be heard immediately following approval of the minutes by the board members.

Located in Canada with kidnap suspect

Missing mother, child found safe

A Valinda mother and her 4-year-old daughter were found safe in Vancouver, B.C., Tuesday when Royal Candian Mounted Police arrested the man suspected of having kidnaped them from their home more than a month ago.

RCMP Deputy Dwight Smith said the man, Ross Ruiz Valencia, 47, North Hollywood, was to be handed over to the FBI today in Seattle, Wash. Smith said Valencia was arrested at Vancouver Airport late Tuesday night.

Earlier, Los Angeles County sheriff's investigators, handling the disappearance March 17 of Mrs. Maria Rivera, 33, and Dennyse, said that Valencia also is wanted in Tijuana, Mexico, on a murder charge.

Mrs. Rivera and Dennyse were in good condition, Smith said. He reported that RCMP officers recognized Valencia from pictures circulated across the United States and Canada by the sheriff's department. Smith said Valencia was seized as he drove into the airport with Mrs. Rivera and the little girl as passengers. He put up no resistance, according to the Canadian.

Mrs. Rivera and Dennyse were reported missing by Dennis Rivera, 32. He told deputies that when he returned home at 16354 Montbrook St. he found food out to be prepared and the television set turned on but his wife and daughter gone.

Investigators later linked Valencia to the case by explaining that there had been trouble between him and the Riveras over Valencia's attentions to Mrs. Rivera's younger sister.

Smith said Valencia apparently intended to use the victims as a lever to effect a reconciliation with Mrs. Rivera's sister.

Driver booked after collision injures four

A 25-year-old Hacienda Heights man is being held in West End Jail on charges of felony hit and run driving after four other persons were injured in a head-on traffic collision in Ontario Monday night.

Injured in the accident were Harry Lee Wilkins, 55, Pauline Wilkins, and John S. Hussey, all of 2700 Park Ave., La Verne; and Elizabeth Finch of Norfolk, Va. The four were treated and released from Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Being held in the West End Jail pending court arraignment on hit and run felony charges is Roy Williams of 1825 Silver Lantern St., Hacienda Heights.

According to police, Williams' car drove out of a liquor store in the 1500 block of W. Holt Boulevard, went out of control and crashed head on into a car driven by Harry Wilkins. Witnesses told police that after the collision one of the cars drove away from the scene of the accident.

Police located the vehicle owned by Williams at Cypress Avenue and Holt Boulevard a short time later. Williams was arrested at San Antonio Community Hospital where he went to seek medical treatment of minor injuries.

Pay hiked 8½% in Chino schools; move to hold down exec pay fails

Despite strong protests from teachers and classified workers, the Chino school board Tuesday night granted an 8½ per cent cost of living increase to all employes.

The board reached the decision after a one-hour closed door executive session. The vote was unanimous for the teacher and classified worker increase, but two board members voted against giving administrators an 8½ per cent boost.

Trustees Al McCombs and Lyle Briggs, who cast the no votes, both said later the increase was too high for administrators. "We're pricing administrators above comparable local jobs in the community," Briggs complained.

McCombs said the increase was "out of line." Salaries for these administrators—including deans, vice principals and principals—range from a low of $19,000 to a maximum of $29,126. Four of the positions are being upgraded, and they will receive more than an 8½ per cent boost.

The new teachers' salary schedule includes a new provision requiring "satisfactory performance" to advance on the salary scale. It would become effective with the 1976-77 school year. Step and column increases for teachers this year amount to 3 per cent.

Administrators had proposed using the school principal as the "evaluator" for teacher performance, but the board amended that to require the evaluation be completed by more than one person.

Also, administrators proposed, longevity increase and an allowance that teachers with a bachelor's degree plus 75 units may move to a higher step of the salary schedule. These two items were not okayed by the board, but referred to further meet and confer negotiating sessions.

Teachers and classified workers, who both had requested 12 per cent cost of living increases, registered protests to the new salary schedule being approved hastily.

Rudy Gomez, chairman of the Certificated Employes Council (CEC), said he would reluctantly accept the 8½ per cent raise but he strongly protested the "evaluator."

He also expressed unhappiness with the proposed salary schedule change and longevity increase. He favored a 60-unit requirement instead of 75.

"Seventy-five units of study is equivalent to a doctorate, but we are being told this is a fair requirement," said Gomez.

The "evaluator" concept was being rejected by CEC, Gomez stated, "as an affront to the professional conduct of all teachers in the district."

Teachers had requested a 5 per cent boost on the longevity scale, but administrators offered 2 per cent. Current policy is a flat $250 for every five years of service, while the proposed increase would be added to the base salary.

Gomez said it is no wonder teachers are "embittered" and talking about collective bargaining, when administrators propose "evaluator" provisions.

Classified workers felt the salary increase was not high enough, and suggested a $100 a month boost.

Pomonan held after fire at novelty store

A 28-year-old Pomona man, accused of attempting to burn down Freak's Head Shop, 379 W. Holt Ave., last Sunday, will be given a preliminary hearing in Pomona Municipal Court April 22.

He is Martin John Miller of 785 E. Third St. He was arrested by fire investigators and arraigned Tuesday afternoon on charges of suspicion of burglary and attempted arson. Bail was set at $2,000.

This morning Miller was in county jail.

Miller told fire investigators that after listening to a sermon Sunday at a Pomona church he drove west on Holt Avenue planning to burn an adult book store — a type of business he had decided was "harmful to the community."

Upon arrival, he found the book store locked. So he drove to Freak's, a novelty shop, entered carrying a 5-gallon gasoline can, and began throwing gasoline over the merchandise and the floor.

Owner John S. Anderson and Michael Robin Debay were in the store. Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said they succeeded in pushing Miller to the door, but as Miller went through the door he grabbed a bottle from a shelf, turned to break a window and toss a lighted match inside. The match did not ignite the gasoline.

Fowlkes said Miller then ran to his car, but Anderson and Debay got his license number. This allowed firemen to trace him to his home and make the arrest.

Ontarian pleads guilty in death of hitchhiker

SAN DIEGO — An Ontario man has pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a hitchhiker Jan. 16.

Richard Arnold Barnes, 34, of 1627 Lake St., Ontario, entered his guilty plea Tuesday before San Diego County Superior Court Judge Robert O. Staniforth, who set sentencing for May 27.

Barnes who surrendered himself to police had been originally charged with murder in the death of Stanley Slavik, 20, whose hometown is unknown.

Barnes, defended by Ontario attorney George Porter, testified that he pulled a gun on Slavik and struck him with a pair of handcuffs after the hitchhiker refused to get out of his car and started fighting. The gun went off accidentally when the car lurched forward, he said.

Barnes is free on bond until sentencing.

Variations on a Vietnam theme

For some inexplicable reason, Gerald Ford seems determined to become the third president to have his administration poisoned by the Southeast Asian sickness.

While the President has not in so many words blamed Congress for the military debacle that has suddenly overtaken South Vietnam by linking Congress with Hanoi, as he did the other day, as a cause of the misfortune, he has done what amounts to the same thing. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has muttered something about the United States "deliberately destroying an ally." (Or was he talking about Cambodia? Or does it matter?)

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has grumbled about the "niggardliness" of this country in not sending still more military aid to Saigon. Yet the secretary himself has admitted that the slow-fighting, fast-retreating South Vietnamese army has abandoned at least $1 billion worth of weapons, equipment, supplies and ammunition to the advancing enemy in the past few weeks.

Would he prefer the figure be $2 billion? $3 billion!

Are the President and his cabinet so naive or so cynical as to believe that there can possibly be any political capital to be made of this tragedy? Surely they do not wish to contribute to another national orgy of recrimination and scapegoating such as followed the collapse of China to the Communists in 1949.

Fortunately for the country, this is not likely to happen. Americans have become so immunized over the years to what their leaders tell them about Southeast Asia that it has no more penetrating effect than raindrops on a duck's back.

When President Ford talks about Vietnam, repeating the same old fears and same old promises, he is talking on a wavelength which Americans long ago turned out.

One voice in a wilderness

Nearly five years ago, when Israel was on the verge of administering a stunning defeat to the armies of Egypt and Syria, an alarmed United Nations demanded and imposed an immediate cease-fire.

Yet today, in the face of the almost incomprehensible human tragedy unfolding in South Vietnam, the so-called world parliament and so-called world opinion remain totally, completely, absolutely silent.

No U.N. delegation calls for the invader to adhere to the 1972 Paris peace accords. No students, in any country, are burning down buildings to express their outrage over the killing.

To its credit, the World Council of Churches is one of the few international organizations to have reacted in the name of humanity. Through its more than 250 member churches in 90 countries and territories, the WCC has launched an appeal for an initial $1 million to aid South Vietnamese refugees.

This is less than one dollar for every newly displaced and dispossessed South Vietnamese and as nothing compared to the vast billions both sides have poured into making war.

Even so, given the curious unconcern with which the world seems to be watching the Vietnamese tragedy, one wonders if the council will realize even a fraction of its modest goal.

Cancer payoff

Just as was the case when governent and the science community ganged up on poliomyelitis to virtually eliminate that once dread disease, medical researchers say that the nearly $700 million a year U.S. cancer campaign should pay off significantly in the next few years.

While cautioning that advances in cancer research do not yet promise to wipe out the disease, Dr. Frank J. Rauscher, Jr., National Cancer Institute director, told a California seminar that progress in prevention, detection and treatment will have a major impact by 1978. The 1978 date results from the fact that the program wasn't funded in a major way until 1973 and physicians don't consider a cancer patient cured until he has survived five years.

To critics of the government's massive cancer program Dr. Ruascher pointed out that 25 years ago only one in four cancer patients survived, that today it's one in three and it could soon be one in two.

The scourge of cancer then may well be on its way out. If this proves to be the case America's unique ability to marshal its technological forces for the betterment of mankind will have been demonstrated once again.

Congress goes along with Jane

Apparently Jane Fonda determines our foreign policy. Everything she has advocated in the way of helping North Vietnam and NOT helping South Vietnam is being supported by an isolationist Congress. For Jane Fonda the barbarian North Vietnamese are the heroes. They can slay, rape, drive women and children fleeing from them on the highways to death and it is O.K. with Jane. Let the South Vietnamese to a much, much lesser degree do anything similar to what the North Vietnamese are doing and Jane labels them barbarians — villains. And a frightened, confused, indecisive, isolationist Congress goes right along with Jane. Congress is so afraid our detente with Russia can collapse if we protest and take a military stand against their supplying the North Vietnamese with the latest in weaponry, these elected representatives and senators of ours cringe in abject fear. They want the peace of "no peace."

One can readily conclude once Congress takes over the "war powers" our allies who have come to expect protection and support just won't get it. They must because they are too small and weak to "go it alone." Congress can readily crucify a president who has brought about world wide results. But faced with the need for crucifying Communist Russia and Congress becomes cowardly in its fright. The only stand Congress apparently can take is "no stand." And Japan, the Phillipines, Israel and our other allies so desperately needing our support and protection become increasingly convinced NOW they can no longer depend upon them.

Decisive action by our nation is the only humane thing we can do to prevent the barbarous treatment of millions of refugees fleeing from the North Vietnamese in complete rout and panic. But Jane Fonda and Congress say "nothing doing." So we do nothing. — W. Hamilton Aulenbach, Claremont.

Utility ripoffs hidden

The April 3 edition of the P-B carried a short three-inch article on the back page that the Southern California Edison Co. has again applied for a rate increase. Use less energy, says Edison, so we have to pay higher rates.

What kind of public service is rendered by your paper by hiding this article on the back page? This should have headlines on the front page, or at least on the editorial page instead of the inane "humor" of Bombeck, Firman, et als.

The public press should expose these utility company ripoffs, not hide them on back pages. — H. W. Anderson, Claremont.

HEW's giveaway given away

WASHINGTON — Incredibly, the Health, Education and Welfare Department has given away millions worth of government property to contractors without bothering to account for it.

In a series of hushed memos, HEW's Office of Education has owned up to the loss and is trying to cover it up before Congress discovers how much is missing.

Unfortunately for the cover-up effort, we have the memos. They tell how federal educators in 1971 and 1972 loaned millions upon millions worth of property — from desks to teaching aids — to organizations that received government grants.

By 1974, the loaned property had been gone for two years, and the Office of Education feared someone would ask where it all was. To their horror, they discovered they simply didn't know. Indeed, some of the groups that had borrowed property no longer existed.

To cover up this enormous loss, the Office of Education came up with a stunning plot. They would simply declare that the missing property no longer belonged to the taxpayers.

On Sept. 17, therefore, the federal educators asked Secretary Caspar Weinberger's office whether they could "treat federally-owned property in the possession of grantees the same as grantee-owned property."

Translated, this meant the educators wanted to write the missing property off the books. But Weinberger had been the government's chief budget officer before he moved over to HEW. He wasn't fooled, therefore, by this now-you-see-it, now-you-don't ploy.

The confidential documents show that on Dec. 10 Weinberger's office ordered a search for the vanished property. Three months later, his aides came up with their dismal findings.

"Records on file are inadequate . . ." they reported. "Documents, estimated to number 15,000 representing millions of dollars . . . are 'bundled' by state and filed away." The automated systems that are supposed to keep track of government property "are inoperative," they added, "and current fiscal general ledger accounts do not exist for this property."

Worse, no one was doing anything at the Office of Education "to rectify this situation," they confided.

Angrily, Weinberger's office demanded a full accounting from the Office of Education in six months. "Immediate action must be taken," directed the memo. "Urgency is occasioned by the fact that this situation has been existent for a prolonged period."

Justified as Weinberger's fury may be, our sources say a full accounting is now impossible. For he is trying to close the door, unhappily, after the furniture has disappeared. The small amount that can be retrieved, say our sources, may not be worth the trouble it will take to find it.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: From secret intelligence reports, here are a few fascinating glimpses behind the headlines:

—There has been no rejoicing in Peking, according to one report, over the North Vietnamese triumphs in Southeast Asia. Officially, the Chinese have congratulated their comrades in Hanoi. But unofficially, they are worried that North Vietnam may take over all Southeast Asia and establish itself as a rival power.

—Secret military estimates claim that Israel has recovered from its 1973 war losses and has built a military force more powerful than ever. The Arab armies, according to the estimates, are lagging far behind and would be no match for Israel on the battlefield. The Arabs, however, have far more diplomatic and economic clout.

—Egypt's President Anwar Sadat is pressing ahead with the economic development of his country as if he expects peace. To attract Western industrialists to invest in Egypt, he has pledged not to nationalize their plants. He will also grant them complete exemption from taxes for eight years and will permit them to remove profits from the country without restriction.

—The appointment of Nathaniel Davis to handle African affairs for the State Department has stirred far more resentment than was ever anticipated. The secret diplomatic cables from all over Africa report that the black nations generally regard the appointment as evidence that the United States is insensitive to their problems and has assigned a low priority to African affairs. Some black leaders, according to the intelligence reports, also believe the United States is tilting toward the white governments of South Africa and Rhodesia.

—General Idi Amin, the madcap dictator of Uganda, has ordered a ban on all hoes produced in the country. Although Uganda has an estimated 123,000 of the garden tools in stock, Amin has charged sternly that hoes are being smuggled to neighboring Burundi, Rwanda, Sudan and Zaire. He has also accused Ugandan businessmen of hoarding hoes to create artificial shortages.

Choppers guard our public parks

Usually when one thinks of parks and wildlands in California he might also expect a campaign-hatted ranger to go with the package. That picture is still appropriate of course but one park agency has added a new overseer to the scene.

This is the three helicopter fleet of the sprawling East Bay Regional Park District which maintains 30 parks aggregating some 32,000 acres covering 1,500 square miles in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Park officials have been utilizing the choppers for 19 months now and their record of achievement has been outstanding — and when one visualizes a park as simply a sylvan playground their experience is a bit frightening.

According to L.G. Olson, chief of the EBRPD public safety department who himself has a helicopter pilot's license and is thus a rare flying police chief, the whirleybirds are the equivalent of having an additional 10 or 12 officers on his force.

Work of the choppers has ranged from fire spotting to rescue of injured persons and felony arrests.

On 15 occasions in the 19 months they've been flying, the helicopters spotted previously unreported fires and on 40 others they acted as aerial platforms coordinating fire fighting activities on the ground. Some 30 false alarms also were checked out by air and prevented the needless dispatch of ground equipment.

The park district's lands range from bayside beaches to rugged mountain highlands and expansive lakes. In this kind of terrain an injured person can thus be in real trouble but 23 accident victims have been transported to hospitals in an average of three minutes.

Since the park officers went airborne they also have initiated or assisted in making 79 felony arrests, including rape and armed robbery, and 126 misdemeanor offenses such as serious traffic, drug or alcohol violations.

On another 192 occasions EBRPD helicopter pilots were called in by ground officers to protect them in dangerous situations including backup during arrests and controlling of unruly crowds.

In addition the chopper fleet makes safety checks of ground officers, patrols for dangerous park activities by motorcyclists, horseback riders, bicyclists and drunk drivers and other security matters.

So while at first blush a noisy chopper may seem out of place in a park, EBRPD's aerial squadron has been a welcome addition to that major recreational complex.

A 'dingbat' reports on her China trip

"I have seen the future and it works! Gentlemen, I tell you they have abolished prostitution!" — Lincoln Steffens after visiting the U.S.S.R., 1921

"I had spent a lot of my life feeling lonely in the 'individualistic West,' but here, in this 'collective place,' where I knew neither the language nor the people, I was not lonely. I almost felt at home. And I hadn't smoked a cigarette in five weeks." — Shirley MacLaine, on visiting Mao's China, 1973

"A lot that Stalin had to say wasn't bad," Shirley Maclaine recently told an interviewer. Ah, Sweet Charity.

Tell me, Mr. and Mrs. Fascist-faced America, when are we greedy people in this individualistic West going to start taking Shirley MacLaine seriously? She is lonely, doesn't feel at home here, wants to cut down on her smoking.

Item: In 1973, Shirley complained to her father about a Hollywood trade paper columnist having called her "a dingbat for speaking out in public." So what does insensitive old capitalist Dad do to comfort her? He says: "Why don't you go back to doing what you do best and stop all this preachin' around?"

"I will," Shirley replies. "I'd love to."

Dutifully, she departed a month later for a six-week propaganda junket to the only major country in the world that still savors the wisdom of Stalin in full measure. Those in charge of propaganda in Mao's China, reckless adventurers that they are about such matters, personally hand-picked Daddy's little dingbat to head the first all-person — i.e., woman — American delegation to their country.

Now she is back, traversing the land of the greedy, promoting a 249-page Maoist panegyric, along with a "public service" film that the Chinese generously permitted her to produce during the visit.

She left the United States, writes Shirley, with certain preconditioned capitalist "notions" about human nature: "I had plenty of evidence that man was basically selfish, aggressive, fearful, savage and greedy."

But after six weeks in Mao's heaven-on-earth ("He is teaching values," she told one interviewer, "like Jesus Christ"). Sweet Charity was newly missionized. She has seen the future, and gentlemen, I tell you they have abolished human nature.

"Certainly in a country of 800,000,000 people there are those who are still selfish, cruel, evil and greedy," she writes of "New" China. "But the vast majority are full of group pride, full of kindness and decency to each other, peace-loving and humane."

Let's see now, what would the "vast majority" of 800 million "new" Chinese come to? Six hundred million? All checked out during a six-week visit. A hundred million per week. Small wonder she wasn't lonely.

Item: In 1972, during her McGovernite days, Shirley was called on to address a black women's luncheon in Pittsburgh. There, the star of stage, screen and Democratic convention-floor interviews tried to explain how "we are coming to a time when everyone would realize that America had cared too much for too long about the wrong things." When she had finished, "the response was polite silence. I didn't understand."

It is here in America, apparently, that Shirley MacLaine knows neither the language nor the people. After her speech, a young black explained what had gone wrong: "You can't tell those women that stuff," he said. "You can't tell them they don't have much. They're proud people, and many of them want the things — those very things — that you think are useless."

Ah, Sweet Charity. On Johnny Carson's stage this past week, Mao's little missionary could be seen in resplendent greed, plugging her book. It is a thing called "You Can Get There from Here," filled with such maundering drivel as to make at least one citizen of this individualistic West regret that, once there, the author was able to find her way back.

So she sat there on Carson's set, did Sweet Charity, the classic stereotype of a Tinseltown political dingbat, preaching the blessings of Maoist socialism while comfortably attired in a split, gam-to-thigh crimson velvet gown, diamonds the size of Chinese egg rolls on fingers tipped with lacquered mandarin-long nails. Phony nails, but it figures.

"After the experience of China I realized that my own talent was there to be refurbished," she writes. "I was not a soldier or a philosopher or a politician; I could cure no disease, solve no economic problems, nor lead any revolutions. But — I could dance. I could sing. I could make people laugh."

That you can, Shirley, that you can. You and Chairman Mao, just keep on truckin'.

Ex-GI waits and waits for check, then gets whopper

HELP! ! ! I am presently attending Mt. San Antonio College under the veterans bill.

I have been having trouble since November in receiving my checks.

As I am married, I should be receiving $321 a month at the present time.

In the past four months I have received one check in the amount of $261.

My wife is working very hard to try to make ends meet but what she earns is not enough.

At the present time the Veterans Administration owes us approximately $1,100 in back pay and retroactive pay.

All our communications have been verbal, either by phone or in person. We get a lot of weak promises and very few answers to our questions.

I am afraid I will have to drop out of school if something isn't done very soon. — M. S., Pomona.

Two weeks after we alerted the VA's emergency crew to your problem, we were notified by phone that you would get a $963 special payment.

Our VA contact acknowledged that more was owed you and said the remainder would arrive in about three weeks.

We couldn't reach you by phone to give you the good news but we wrote to you the same day. When our letter reached you, the check for $963 already had arrived.

My car was hit and totaled from a standstill nearly a year ago.

I had stopped and was waiting to cross an intersection in Pomona.

A woman driving like mad came along and hit my car broadside. Both my wife and I were thrown out of the car.

I had seven broken ribs, a broken left pelvis, concussion and shock.

I was in Pomona Valley Community Hospital 10 or 12 days. After that I had to have a hospital bed and then a wheel chair at home.

My car was sold as junk for $35.

That woman didn't have a scratch nor offer to pay a dime. I can't get a lawyer to take my case.

I still use a cane. I can't work and had to go on disability. What do you suggest? — K. Z., Pomona.

We could find no phone number for you and haven't yet had a reply to our letter asking you whether you had filed an insurance claim.

Your references to disability payments indicates your income may be low. If so, you may qualify for assistance by the Legal Aid Offices of San Gabriel Valley.

The offices are at 146 E. Third St., Pomona, and the phone number is 623-6357.

I have never had a reason to write you and now I don't know whether I'm in line or not.

I have no complaint but just want to say thanks to a wonderful group we now have in Pomona, the paramedics of Cole Ambulance Service.

They answered a call on March 24 when my mother had suffered a stroke and heart attack.

I believe between their help and God my mother is still alive. Our thanks to Kurt and Steve. — L. Z. and Family, Pomona.

You are very much in line with Action Line.

We are glad to praise instead of pan for a change.

The paramedics who helped your mother are Kurt Latipow and Steve Williams. They have been with Cole Ambulance 2½ years.

ANN. LANDERS

The BIG question remains--what to do about society's sick minds

Dear Ann Landers: My aunt who is 86 years old and lives in a nursing home was robbed last week. The lovely robe she received for Christmas, two bottles of cologne, her new nightie, an old wristwatch and a plain gold wedding band were stolen when she had to spend a couple days in the infirmary.

How low can a person get? What is this world coming to when someone would steal from an old lady who has so little? Please print my letter and tell me what you think about this. —Plain Disgusted

Dear P.D.: It's sickening. But every day thousands of people are ripped off by unconscionable, sub human, crazy loons who prey on the helpless. Recently I read that a 27-year-old cerebral palsy victim had his wheelchair stolen.

Your aunt, and others who live in institutions, should have one drawer with a lock on it. This might help reduce the stealing, but the BIG question is — what can we do about our sick society?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 18, a senior in high school, and am considered a fairly intelligent, well-balanced girl. I've always thought of myself as mature and able to make good decisions. I am now faced with a problem that is testing these qualities.

I should be floating on Cloud Nine. I'm in love with a great guy. Doug has dated loads of girls but last week he told me he's mine — all mine! The problem: He is my first cousin.

How do I explain this to my family? If Doug and I should decide to marry in a few years, could we have normal children? Please tell me, Ann. I'm — On Needles And Pins

Dear Needles: If both you and Doug are healthy and there are no illnesses, such as epilepsy, diabetes or blood problems in either your family or his, the chances of having normal children are good.

Some states will not permit first cousins to marry, however. Check with a lawyer and find out about yours.

As for your parents, they will probably be pleased if Doug is all you say he is. Moreover, chances for in-law trouble should be vastly reduced since both sets will be an aunt and an uncle!

Dear Ann Landers: Here's one you've never had before. My husband and I were married 25 years. Harvey moved out several months ago and we will be divorced eventually, but because of financial problems it won't be for a while yet.

Harvey fancies himself quite a swinger and wants a vasectomy. (When we were married, the old-fashioned methods were good enough.) Here's the rub. The surgeon won't perform the operation without my signature. Part of me says Harvey is the one with the problem and I shouldn't be sanctioning his new lifestyle by making things easier for him. Another part of me says the world will not be any better off if Harvey has more children. Also, fatherhood could create additional money problems which we don't need.

Ann, you're so good at cutting through to the heart of the problem. Please help me decide. I want to be fair. —Undecided In Detroit

Dear Dee: This is Harvey's problem. Don't allow him to make it yours. Tell the swinger that not all doctors insist on the wife's signature before they will do a vasectomy and that he should scout around and find one who doesn't.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

How will they paint us in 2075?

I don't know what to accept as truth out of the pages of history anymore.

The movies have me believing the Pony Express broke their bones carrying Cross-Your-Heart bras to Rhonda Fleming, and television has me convinced we would have won the battle of Saratoga had we not broken for a Supp-Hose commercial and blown our connection.

Everytime I see those Shell Oil Company squibs on the Bicentennial telling how it was, I get a twinge of panic of how this generation will be interpreted another hundred years from now.

Hopefully, someone will put this column in a hermetically sealed mayonnaise jar so that observers of this country in the year 2075 will know the truth.

"We left the cities in the early 1950s heading toward a vast expanse of undeveloped land . . . no water, no sewers, no schools, and a three-month wait for phone service.

"But we were plucky. We planted trees and crab grass came up. We planted schools and taxes came up. We planted septic tanks and that wasn't the smartest thing we ever did.

"The adjustments were brutal, but friendships sprouted up among the pioneers who shared the same floor plan, the same lamp in the picture window, the same monthly principal and interest payment, at the same little bank.

"The first winter we lost more than half of the original brave settlers. Several lost their way in cul-de-sacs and winding streets with the same name and couldn't find their way home. Other poor devils perished trying to merge from our exit onto the freeway to the city. One was attacked by a fast-growing evergreen that the builder planted near his front door. (We named a school after him.)

"There wasn't a day that went by that we weren't threatened by forces from the city . . . salesmen of storm doors, Tupperware ladies, traffic lights, encyclopedia salesmen, lawn mower pushers and Golden Arches everywhere.

"It was lonely. In the long evenings when the sun went down, these adventurous nomads would sit on their patios and when someone would sneeze eight houses down, the entire band of setters would yell in unison, 'GESUNDHEIT!'

"March 6, 1968 is a date that will live in infamy. It was the day a washer repairman appeared over the horizon only 12 years after he was called.

"Yes, these settlers bravely faced TV dinners, new PTA's, garage sales, car pools, Sunday drivers, Little Leagues, horse privileges, and lights from the shopping centers, but they relentlessly hung in there . . . and that's how it was in the suburbs 100 years ago!"

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Small lumps are a medical mystery

DEAR DR. LAMB — Last year I was hospitalized for tests, and they showed I have a disease called sarcoidosis. I have been on Prednisone for months.

The other day I went for another chest X-ray, and the doctor said it was clear, I can start to decrease the Prednisone and hopefully this condition will stay dormant.

I am still experiencing tightening in my chest and have frequent heart pains. This condition also brought out arthritis in my legs and hands.

May I also say I gave up smoking nine months ago when this disease was discovered. I'm 30 and have never been sick a day in my life.

I want to know any information on this disease. I heard it is rare. What will happen if it reoccurs? And, is it in any way related to cancer?

DEAR READER — Sarcoid is one of those diseases that we have not solved. No one knows what causes it. It is commonly found on routine chest X-rays for the first time, often in people who have no symptoms at all and thought they were perfectly healthy.

The disease causes little lump-like formations which can be fairly large in size. Doctors call these granulomas. The little lumps most commonly form in the lungs. And they may not interfere with lung function.

These lump-like formations may disappear in one part of the body and show up in another area. They can involve any part of the body, although the lung is the most common location.

Sarcoid has been confused with tuberculosis, which it is not. It is not cancer. We know a lot more about what it is not than what it is.

In a large number of cases the disease never causes any symptoms at all and just disappears. About 10 to 20 per cent of the patients do develop arthritis while the disease is active, and if there is not not too much damage it may leave no permanent ill effects.

Only about five per cent of the patients with the disease actually die from it, which is pretty remarkable when you realize how much it can involve and how little we know about treating it.

The corticosterone medicines like Prednisone are commonly used in patients with extensive involvement or complications. The biggest danger really is too much lung damage, so it was a good thing you quit smoking.

Many patients do have a relapse after treatment with cortisone. But the relapse is usually much milder and of shorter duration. So you should be through the worst of it and can look forward to less problems and eventually a complete cure. In most cases the disease lasts less than two years.

Muscles, including the heart, can be involved, but I would not be so easily convinced that any chest pain you have is from your heart without other information. The liver too can be involved, but can recover.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on hiatal hernia, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Hiatal hernia" booklet.

It's men first at traveling time

Everytime the human race comes up with a faster way to go someplace, it's the men, not the women, who go first. That's not the fault of the girls, sure enough. They're not given a fair chance. Take horses. It wasn't until the gentlemen started driving cars that the ladies in general took up horseback riding. About the time men first began to pilot airplanes, women in large numbers finally drove automobiles. And when the females eventually got their wings as pilots, the males already were at work toward rocketing to the moon.

RIOT

Small riots occur from time to time at sporting events, as everybody knows, over the decisions of referees and umpires. But no riot in the last 1,443 years compares with the big fight during a chariot race in the Hippodrome of Constantinople. Name of the character who made the unpopular ruling remains unknown. What is known is most of the city was destroyed and 30,000 citizens were killed.

He rides the rails himself

New train boss means business

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "One thing I won't stand for is Mickey Mouse," says the new Amtrak boss who's riding the rails to see for himself how America's passenger trains are running.

"I'm a West Point graduate and an Eagle Scout and I do business that way," says hardnosed Paul Reistrup, 42, hired last month as $60,000-a-year Amtrak president to make the trains run smoothly and on time.

"I took a 25 per cent pay cut to come to work for Amtrak," says the slender, balding Reistrup. "I think it's a challenge.

Reistrup was on the West Coast a few days ago, riding his trains, carrying his own baggage and sniffing around for dust and inefficiency.

"I want to see whats going on. And I want Amtrak people to see me. This organization needs some stirring up," says Reistrup.

He's well aware of the Congressional criticism that last year Amtrak executives spent nearly $250,000 on airline tickets because their own trains were too slow. He says he recently rode 17 trains in 30 days.

Reistrup first worked for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad where he made a name by trying to rescue an ailing passenger business. He worked as a senior vice president for the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad.

"We have a mandate from Congress to run passenger trains for the public, and I'm going to run them."

Amtrak carries 50,000 passengers on 250 trains over 24,413 miles of track daily.

He expects Amtrack to lose $325 million in fiscal 1975 and next year he says the deficit will be "in excess of $300 million."

"In all honesty, Amtrak will never be profitable," Reistrup concedes. But he thinks it's worth it and sees the train as an alternative to the automobile.

"The age of the automobile as we knew it from 1936 to 1976 has already ended," he believes. "Three car families? Cars getting nine miles to the gallon? Those days are over.

"Look at that freeway," said Reistrup, waving out a train window. "You know what that costs? If you considered the full economics of cars, the highways and all that, this Coast Starlight train wouldn't stand up badly."

Amtrak passenger cars average 22 years of age and many are older, prompting Reistrup to note, "we're running a rolling museum."

Last week Amtrak ordered 435 new cars at a cost of $253 million.

Cost of living increase

Hike in food stamp benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 18.5 million food stamp users will get a cost-of-living increase in benefits on July 1, according to new calculations by the Agriculture Department.

Stamp benefits for a family of four, for example, will go up about $8 a month from current allowances to reflect a rise in grocery costs since last summer.

Although not yet official, the July 1 food stamp allocation was indicated Monday by the department's computed cost for an "economy" meal plan in February.

The economy meal plan is used by the department in setting food stamp allowances for needy people. The allocation is adjusted twice a year to reflect changes in retail food prices.

The economy food cost in February is used to set July 1 benefits, and its cost next August will determine stamp allocations next Jan. 1.

In February the economy food plan cost a four-member household including two elementary school children an average of $162 per month, the department said.

Thus, the July 1 food stamp allocation for a four-member family will be $162 a month, a 5.2 per cent increase from the $154 a month in effect since the first of the year.

As determined by the department, the economy plan includes larger portions of beans, potatoes and cereals and lesser amounts of more expensive servings such as meat and dairy products that are found in food budgets for more affluent households.

The expected rate of $162 a month for a four-member family will be up $12 a month or 8 per cent from the rate for the second half of 1974, which was set last July 1.

In a related development, the department has announced that a new federal regulation to be adopted will require states to "take effective outreach action" for getting more eligible people enrolled in the food stamp program.

The new rule will require, for example, each state to have a full-time food stamp outreach coordinator. A spokesman for the department's Food and Nutrition Service said only about half of the states have coordinators now.

Food stamp action groups have filed lawsuits against a number of states seeking stepped-up enrollments in the program.

Under existing law, the federal government will pay half the cost of state outreach operations. Officials said all states must have plans submitted to the department by July 1 and to have them in operation by Aug. 1.

Food stamp enrollments and costs have soared, from 15.3 million persons in February 1974 to 18.5 million last February. Total federal costs are estimated at about $5 billion for the fiscal year to end July 30 and at $6 billion or more in 1975-76.

Bishop denies communion to abortion organizations

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The bishop of San Diego has ordered no Catholic to be allowed holy communion who "admits publicly" to membership in the National Organization for Women or pro-abortion groups.

The order in a letter from the Most Rev. Leo Maher, bishop of the diocese, is effective this weekend. The letter was sent to all priests in the diocese and will be required reading at masses this weekend.

"No person who claims and professes views that are contrary to the teachings of the Church can claim to be a practicing Catholic, nor are they to be admitted to the sacraments," the bishop's letter states.

The letter singled out NOW for its "shameless agitation" in favor of abortion, and it called the interruption of the "generative process of human life a serious moral crime."

The people who advocate abortion, Bishop Maher said, "ignore God's law and his love."

There was no immediate comment from NOW officials.

The diocese includes the counties of Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and San Diego.

Officials of the San Diego diocese termed the bishop's order far less serious than excommunication but they described it as a serious punishment reserved for significant deviation from church doctrine.

"The bishop's intent was to make his feelings known on the abortion issue," said The Rev. Richard Duncanson, the bishop's secretary. "It will become a big thing only for those who wish to make it so."

The bishop himself could not be reached for comment.

The bishop's order to NOW members or abortion advocates includes denial to serve as a lector layman reading scripture during mass or service in any elected lay Church office.

"To say that a woman is with child is to affirm that what she carries in her womb is a member of the human family, akin to all of us," the bishop's letter stated. "The issue at stake is not only what we do to unborn children but what we do to ourselves by permitting them to be killed."

Naughty film

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — A Durban businessman told a court here a movie he rented on the 1972 Olympic Games turned out to be a sex comedy entitled "The Games Lovers Play."

The film distributor was found guilty of four counts of publishing "unapproved" films and fined $215.

'No big deal' says photog over shooting

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — "It was no big deal," said White House photographer David Kennerly, commenting on reports that his plane had been shot at by South Vietnamese government troops while flying over Cam Ranh Bay.

"There were just a few flashes from the ship. Nothing hit the plane," he said. "This has caused a whole lot of reaction, but there was nothing to it."

Kennerly said the shots appeared to have come from Vietnamese ships, not American merchants ships that had arrived with evacuees from Da Nang. Many mutinous South Vietnamese troops crowded onto the ships as they were trying to load refugees.

"I don't know what the fuss is about," said Kennerly, a former news photographer in Vietnam who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1972.

Q: "Is it OK for a dog to eat cat food?"

Montclair drops early Saturday bus run

The Montclair City Council will drop the 7:15 a.m. Saturday bus run, but will delay any other route changes until discussing the matter with the West Valley Transit Service Authority.

The council unanimously accepted one recommendation from its staff Monday for dropping the early morning route on Saturdays because of lack of riders, but delayed eliminating the 7:15 p.m. daily run.

Tom Mauk, assistant city administrator, recommended both modifications. There has been difficulty with the interconnection to the Chino fixed route line going to Los Serranos in the evening because the Chino line stops an hour before Montclair's service. On occasion, this has left local residents stranded at Kingsley Street and Central Avenue, Mauk reported.

Mauk recommended that "for purposes of proper transferability within the bus systems and convenience, the 7:15 p.m. Montclair bus route be eliminated." Under his plan, the last run would begin at 6:15 p.m., not 7:15 Monday through Saturday.

Mayor Harold Hayes noted that this may inconvenience persons traveling to the Montclair Plaza which doesn't close until 9:30 p.m. He commented that the Chino line begins an hour early in the morning and perhaps Chino should check ridership on the morning route.

For the sake of "continuity of connection in the area," it might be more appropriate for Chino to start its route an hour later each morning and put the additional hour at the end of the route.

Councilman Paul Jones said that "seasonally , at other times of the year, we may be receiving a greater ridership in the evening." He voiced reluctance to eliminate the evening line.

Councilman Tom McClure stated that when fares begin being levied, there may be a shift in the percentage and time of ridership.

Mauk then suggested a delay in the decision on the evening route until the matter is discussed at the next meeting of the WVTSA on April 17. Council agreed.

In other action, the council:

— Awarded Penco Builders of San Bernardino the contract for the second phase of modifications on the Montclair Police Department for its low bid of $172,113. The bid was about $14,000 lower than the original staff estimate. Penco is currently construction the first phase of the Police Department modifications.

— Approved another $2,205 for increased insurance costs. The premium increase for the new 1975-76 fiscal year will be about $5,000. Hayes abstained from the 4-0-1 vote because he is involved in the insurance business.

— Revoked a conditional use permit for a Phillips Service Station at 10275 Central Ave. which has been vacant for more than a year. The staff was directed to take the necessary steps in determining if the property is substandard.

— Adopted a resolution setting a penalty of $2 per license for individuals late in obtaining dog licenses.

Unique American pastime

Some collect comics for fun and profit

By JEAN BARNES

WICHITA, Kans. — (NEA) — The "funnies" have been a part of American life since the 1890s. And many generations grew up on the humorous or biting reflections on the daily scene the creators of comics captured with their pen-and-ink. However, there is more to comics than the fun originally set down. For example, collectors of original comics are very serious and so are the prices they are paying to enhance their collections.

Up until three years ago there were only a handful of collectors It was a low key hobby. Acquisitions were made by trading with other collectors with very little money changing hands, one collector reported.

Now, even prestigious art museums are bidding for the best in comic art. Libraries and universities are adding original cartoons to their art collections and the entire field of comic art collecting has burgeoned. In addition the Museum of Cartoon Art, in Greenwich, Conn., was dedicated in 1974 and has a continuing exhibition of current and historical cartoons and comics.

How this art form which millions enjoy daily in their newspapers and magainzes gained such respectability?

Richard Marschall, associate editor of United Feature Syndicate, attributes this to the fact that "the comic strip is uniquely American and definitely a distinct art form — the singular combination of literature and art into one unit."

As with other forms of art the best of comic art has stood the test of time, explained Jim Ivey, Orlando, Fla., collector. Through the years, he said, certain strips stand out. "For instance, George Herriman's 'Krazy Kat,' Winsor McCay's 'Little Nemo in Slumberrland,' and 'Prince Valiant' by Hal Foster. Roy Crane s use of double tones is unsurpassed in the 'Wash Tubbs' strips."

Ivey's collection mumbers about 2,500 original works and includes examples from 40 countries. A political cartoonist for the Orlando Sentinel-Star, Ivey has confined his collecting to one good example of each artist's work and favors political cartoons.

"Most collectors are interested in comic strip art, though. Not too many persons collect political cartoons."

With the increased demand, it is only natural that prices would keep pace

But more than just demand determines the cost of comic art. Surprisingly, age has little to do with its value.

"Like any other art it finds its own level — things that are very rare, of course, are higher cost. The New York galleries are charging at astronomical levels,' he explained.

The uninitiated might think that the supply would be rather limited. "Not so," said Thomas Peoples, Newspaper Enterprise Association vice president and director of comic art in Cleveland, Ohio.

He reports that NEA has about a five-year supply of originals on hand.

"For many years syndicates have sent original strips to persons requesting them at a nominal cost. Or, a collector might have clipped a strip from the paper, accumulating a continuous series over a year or more. These things have found their way into the market place," he explained.

For about $10 a collector can acquire one of the original NEA daily strips. Sunday strips run about $25, he said, and added that he hoped requests were for private collections and not speculation.

Current selling prices by syndicates for such favorites as Blondie, Peanuts and B.C. are about $50 or $60. However, Peoples said, a price can't be put on the NEA original "Wash Tubbs" strip by Roy Crane because there just aren't any on the market. The same is true of "Out Our Way" by Jim Williams.

"Interestingly, 'Alley Oop,' 'Out Our Way' and 'Captain Easy' were sustained at a high level by artists who were long-time associates of the creators or their assistants" Peoples said.

Unlike other fields of collecting, he continued, age has very little to do with the price. Thus, you will find a strip of "Bonehead Ben" by Walter Wellman circa 1909 valued at $36 while Sidney Smith's "The Gumps' of the 1930s will command about $250.

Comic strip history dates back to 1893 when Jimmy Swinnerton drew the first continuing comic feature, "Little Bears." The first successful daily strip was Bud Fisher's "Mutt & Jeff," first known as "A. Mutt" in 1907. "Yellow Kid" was the first color Sunday strip, beginning in 1896, by Richard Dutcault.

Ivey explained that the early comic books first reprinted newspaper strips. This is still being done in Europe where American strips are published in albums.

He plans to reopen his Cartoon Museum this spring so that collectors, art aficionados and nostalgia buffs can indulge with delight in the comic strips of yesteryear.

Twelve of these are still running today, many with different artists and title changes. They are Barney Google (as Snuffy Smith), Bringing Up Father, Captain & Kids, Gasoline Alley, Li'l Abner, Mandrake the Magician, Moon Mullins, Mutt & Jeff, Smitty, Tarzan, Wash Tubbs (as Capt. Easy) and Winnie Winkle.

Gets 100 years for burglary

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A New Orleans man has been sentenced to 100 years in jail for burglary.

The sentence was imposed Monday on Charles Burbank, 28, by Criminal District Court Judge Alvin V. Oser under provisions of the Multiple Offender Act.

The law sets a minimum sentence of 20 years and a maximum of life for multiple offenders. The regular maximum sentence for burglary convictions is nine years.

Burbank was convicted of burglary March 24. He had been convicted of burglary twice previously and once for attempted burglary, Dist. Atty. Harry Connick said.

"This sentence may seem harsh to some people, but it must be recognized that the man is a professional burglar," Connick said. "He commits the same offense over and over."

Burbank will be eligible for parole in 33 years.

Walk for History Saturday

Valley cities pool efforts to celebrate Bicentennial

Citizens of several area cities are demonstrating a new Spirit of '76 as they band together to stage special programs as part of the U.S. Bicentennial celebration.

"The rebirth of the American spirit will start right here in our own valley," said Clem Neibel, chairman of the Pomona Centennial-Bicentennial Committee.

Pomona is commemorating its Centennial this year by planning, coordinating, promoting and implementing special events and projects.

That city's Bicentennial Committee is also working closely with similar groups from nine neighboring communities in planning events to market the nation's 200th birthday.

The annual Walk for History on Saturday, sponsored by the Historical Society of Pomona Valley and the Pomona Jaycees, has been endorsed by the Pomona Centennial-Bicentennial Committee and will involve the cooperation of the cities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas.

A special event more valley-wide in scope will be the Senior Citizens Picnic Day on May 2 at Ganesha Park in Pomona.

Among the cities expected to participate are Pomona, Ontario, Claremont, Montclair, La Verne, Upland, San Dimas and Chino.

Two months later, in a unique Bicentennial project, Pomona, La Verne, Walnut, San Dimas, Claremont and San Dimas plan to get together on Independence Day to pay the country a special birthday salute with a bang.

Those cities are working on plans to exchange fireworks greetings in an advance celebration of the country's birhday.

The testive air of early California will fill the Pomona Civic Center plaza on Aug. 17 when six cities again join forces to state a grand fiesta in conjunction with Pomona's Centennial and the U.S. Bicentennial.

Chino, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas and Walnut will use the occasion to wish Pomona a happy birthday and at the same time draw attention to the cities' participation in the Bicentennial.

More extensive intercity cooperation would be involved in a major event tentatively scheduled for December.

Neibel has been engaged in discussions with officials from various agencies about getting the American Freedom Train to visit Pomona.

Pomona officials are hopeful the American Freedom Train Foundation can arrange to have the famous travelling exhibits stationed at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds for visitations by the general public.

Neibel said special invitation to visit the train would be extended by Pomona officials to the citizens and school children from Ontario, Upland, Montclair, Chino, La Verne, San Dimas, Claremont and Walnut and West Covina, and that Pomona would cooperate closely with the other cities on scheduling.

The Freedom Train begins a nationwide tour this month from the East Coast and its stopover in Pomona would be one of a few in the Southern California area, Neibel said.

Eagle Scout round-up on Valley scout officials and the National Eagle Scout Association are conducting an Eagle Scout round-up as part of scouting's Bicentennial activities.

Association members plan to identify and involve Eagle Scouts in a fellowship that will enhance the program of Boy Scouts of America.

Eagle Scout chapters are to be established through scout councils across the United States.

Scouters are asking Eagle Scouts to identity themselves, regardless of age or occupation, and indicate what they have been doing since becoming Eagles.

Eagle Scouts are asked to contact their nearest scout service center or call 213 413-4400. They also may send names, addresses and telephone numbers to Eagle Scout — Los Angeles, 90026.

TOWN & COUNTRY POOL SUPPLIES

2150 No. Garey, Pomona Ph. 593-4961

80 citizens help Pomona plan for 2 historic fetes

Some 80 persons representing a wide variety of interests, backgrounds and occupations are forming special bonds of friendship because of their mutual love of city and country.

They are members of the Pomona Centennial-Bicentennial Committee, a group of volunteers formed by City Council action in October 1973 to see to it that Pomona's 100th birthday this year and the nation's 200th in 1976 are properly commemorated.

Membership in the committee is open to interested citizens and appointments are made by Mayor Ray J. Lepire.

In its early stages, the committee was headed by G. Grenville Whyte, president of Southern Service Co. He served as temporary chairman until the election of Clem Neibel and George Stebbins as chairman and vice chairman.

Neibel, a native Pomonan, retired in 1970 as district representative for the Southern California Edison Co., and continues to maintain a strong involvement in civic, club, church and other activities.

Stebbins, a budget analyst for the General Dynamics plant in Pomona, has been a resident of the city since 1944.

Other citizens also have played key roles in planning, coordinating, assisting, promoting and implementing special programs to mark the two celebrations.

J. Romo, owner of Romo Radio and TV Repair, and Emmet Saxe, engineering assistant for General Telephone, have spent many hours working on the production and sale of commemorative medallions, compilation of the city's history and planning for a grand fiesta.

Other key figures in the medallion project were R. C. Brown and John Rogan.

Bill Southworth is the committee's treasurer. The finance subcommittee has received the assistance from Hugh Crombie of Wells Fargo Bank and Robert Liedler of Buffums.

E. J. Gaulding, owner of Ornamental Iron Products Inc., is chairman of the fireworks subcommittee and Mrs. Mary Jane Galipo has been busy in administrative work.

Warren Lynch, postmaster, helped Pomona get a Centennial postal cancellation stamp and Richard J. Gillespie helped obtain a cancellation stamp for private firms.

Mrs. Margaret Shagena, vice chairman of the special events subcommittee, has been involved in a number of projects.

Mrs. Harriet Harrison heads the Avenue of the Flags project. Liaison officers with other groups have been James Marquis working with the schools, Mrs. Sophia Clarke with the Soroptimist Club, and Drew Mullan, representative for the Camp Fire Girls.

David Streeter of the Pomona Public Library and Mrs. Alta Visnak are in charge of the city flag and city motto contests.

Mrs. Louise Arnold, law office manager, and Mary Hendrickson, public relations specialist, and Mrs. Clyde Warren are key workers in an open house program, while Mrs. Kathy Bowman played leadership roles in the historical calendar and other projects.

Among other key members and their special contributions are Burt Cohoon, history; Jerry Nelson, Old School House Coins; Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Fages, painting workshop.

Miss Elizabeth Zilles, president of the Historical Society of Pomona Valley, is the Centennial queen.

Time trouble

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The clocks of Johannesburg's Magistrate's Court Building — all 365 of them — have to be replaced because of damage while their caretaker was on a six-month vacation.

"For 33 years I looked after them and they never missed a tick," said court electrician H. Lombard. "But the moment I took a rest, this happened."

For months the public has been confused by the batteryoperated clocks, no two of which ever gave the same time.

'New' era at OMS has old familiar look

The "new era" at Ontario Motor Speedway took on an old familiar look this week.

Ray Smartis, the first vice president and general manager for OMS Inc., the first operator of the track, returned to the facility this week as g.m. under OMS Corp., the non-profit board currently operating the facility.

Smartis was one of two finalists for the position. The other was Jim Cook Associates. Cook is the executive vice president of OMSOC, the organization that just threw in the sponge as operator and which still maintains offices at the west end of the speedway.

By coincidence, Smartis was also involved in an operating proposal to run the track at the time OMSOC was preparing a proposal to run the track after it had been abandoned by OMS Inc. But Smartis' group never made a formal proposal and OMSOC was approved as operator.

Smartis succeeds Bill Wills as general manager. Wills in turn had briefly succeeded Cook as g.m.

If all of this makes you dizzy and confused, well, that's the way things have been since OMS came into existence.

Labor of love

For Smartis, it has to be both a labor of love and a gamble. He will receive no salary. He was hired on a percentage-basis contract calling for him to receive 10 percent of the net revenues of the facility.

Get that. 10 percent of the net, not the gross. In other words if the facility doesn't make any money, neither does Smartis.

The first operator, OMS Inc. lost an amount generally announced as $9.7 million in its three years of operation. When OMSOC pulled out two weeks ago, it left owing a sum estimated by board president George Mim Mack at $147,000.

That may seem like a great improvement at first glance. But you have to remember that the contract under which OMSOC operated did not call for any payment of interest on the mortgage bonds.

The mortgage bond interest payment, approximately $2 million yearly in two installments of $1 million each is the back breaker. Whenever an installment is paid, it must be paid all at once. In other words, you can't make two payments of $500,000 each.

So remember that OMSOC lost money even without having to make any interest payments. According to Mim Mack, at the time OMSOC got out, three payments of approximately $1 million each had been missed.

Has four-month budget

Smartis has been given a budget of $43,000 to operate the speedway through July 31.

Cook and associate Parnelli Jones told the writer that it costs $110,000 a month just to open the doors. A column by auto racing writer Ray Marquette in the current issue of The Sporting News quotes another OMSOC officer, Vel Miletich, as saying that it costs $80,000 a year just to water the grass and that was merely the electric bill for the system!

"The upkeep is tremendous, unbelievable,'' are Miletich's believable words.

To offset operating costs, there are 15 minor events scheduled at the track through July 31.

The first of them got started today and continues through Friday. This is a training session for Porsche salesmen consisting of classroom and in-car training.

Although Smartis is at work, the old telephone number will not be in operation until Thursday. OMSOC kept it when it moved out but agreed to its transfer back to the speedway.

While Smartis operates the facility on a day to day basis, Mim Mack and the other board members are obligated under OMS Corp. bylaws to look for another operator which it will need if there is to be another California 500.

"The board doesn't have the money to run it,'' Mim Mack admitted. "If we didn't have an operator there are other directions in which we could go. One would be to find some kind of sponsor who would be willing to assume the financial responsibilities but which would profit from having its name associated with the event."

And so the curious saga of the Ontario Motor Speedway continues.

Indiana, UCLA to open season

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana and UCLA will meet at St. Louis in next season's opening college basketball game for the two schools, it was announced Tuesday at the Hoosier basketball awards banquet.

Coach Bobby Knight said that scheduling problems have been ironed out and the Hoosiers, ranked No. 1 most of the past season, will meet the national champion Bruins Nov. 29 at St. Louis.

Kings enjoy sudden death win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Bob Pulford of the Los Angeles Kings returns to his former haunts, one game up on the Toronto Maple Leafs thanks to Gene Carr, a scoring vehicle he delayed using.

With the injured Butch Goring returning to action, Carr didn't play in the first period against Toronto in the opening round of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs Tuesday night.

Goring tired, however, and the 23-year-old Carr, who had scored seven goals during the regular season, went into the game. He scored in the second period and his great skating and passing brought a 3-2 victory in overtime.

Thus the Kings lead 1-0 in the best-of-three series as they head for Toronto Thursday, where Pulford played a dozen years for the Maple Leafs. A victory for his ex-mates in Canada would send the series back for a Friday night game at the Forum which drew 12,426 for the opener.

"We knew they were an improved team, but we didn't know how much," Pulford said of the club his Kings had beaten four times and tied once without defeat in the regular season.

"Now we know.

"Carr made a fantastic play setting up Mike Murphy's winning goal."

Carr skated into the attack zone and then passed to Murphy who whipped the puck past goalie Gord McRae with 8:53 gone in the overtime.

When Pulford didn't use him in the first period, when each club scored once, Carr commented, "I said to myself that if I get a chance to play, I'll give it my best and I was just lucky enough to put one in."

Los Angeles led 2-1 until just 90 seconds remained in the game when Ron Ellis scored for Toronto to send the game into the sudden death period.

Just before Ellis scored, Rogie Vachon, in the goal for the Kings, had thwarted him by coming out 15 feet from the nets to block a shot.

"We played a lot better in the overtime," commented Pulford whose team took eight shots on goal to only two for the losers. "When they tied it, there was a tendency to become downhearted, but we showed a lot of guts all season and we did it again."

On the winning play, defenseman Larry Brown passed to Carr, who skated more than half the length of the rink and then fliped an on-target pass to Murphy who whipped a shot past McRae.

Losing Coach Red Kelly nevertheless liked his goalie's over-all play calling it "great" and adding, "I was pleased with the team's play and especially with McRae tending goal."

Captain Terry Harper of the Kings said:

"McRae gave them confidence. It will be tough to win in Toronto Thursday. But the victory gave us a big psychological lift."

KINGS NOTES — Thursday's game from Toronto will be televised by KTLA (Channel 5) beginning at 6 p.m. . . .

Tickets for Friday's possible third game are on sale at the normal Forum outlets . . .

If the Kings advance to the quarter-finals, they will open the next series at home Sunday night in a 7 p.m. game against either Boston, Pittsburgh, New York Islanders or New York Rangers . . .

Based on Tuesday's results, it will probably be Boston. The match-ups are based on the points earned in the regular season. The Kings finished fourth in points while Boston was fifth.

Dodgers, Reds return to center ring tonight

CINCINNATI (AP) — Andy Messersmith and Jack Billingham go to center ring tonight in round two of the opening battle between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers and Reds, favorites in the National League West, meet seven times in their first 10 games this season.

KTTV (11), 5 p.m.

The Reds took the opener Monday 2-1 in a 14-inning battle that ended on a disputed call at first base as pinch hitter George Foster beat out a slow roller to score Cesar Geronimo.

"You're always nervous about the first game," said Billingham, who had a 19-11 record last season and was 2-2 in five appearances against the Dodgers.

"I try to go over every batter in my mind," Billingham said, recalling that he was nailed for two home runs in one game last season by outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

"You try to learn by your mistakes."

Messersmith is 0-3 lifetime against Cincinnati and was 0-1 last season while compiling a 20-6 record.

The Dodgers, winners of last year's National League pennant after besting Cincinnati 12-6, are not worried about dropping the opener.

"We still have another 161 games to play," said Steve Garvey.

"What it all means at this early date is determining who is better prepared. Both teams had great spring records."

Meanwhile, Cincinnati got some bad news. Shortstop Dave Concepcion is lame with a pulled groin muscle and is expected to miss tonight's game.

Rain stops Angels at Big A

ANAHEIM — The Angels Tuesday suffered the first rainout since the club moved to Anaheim.

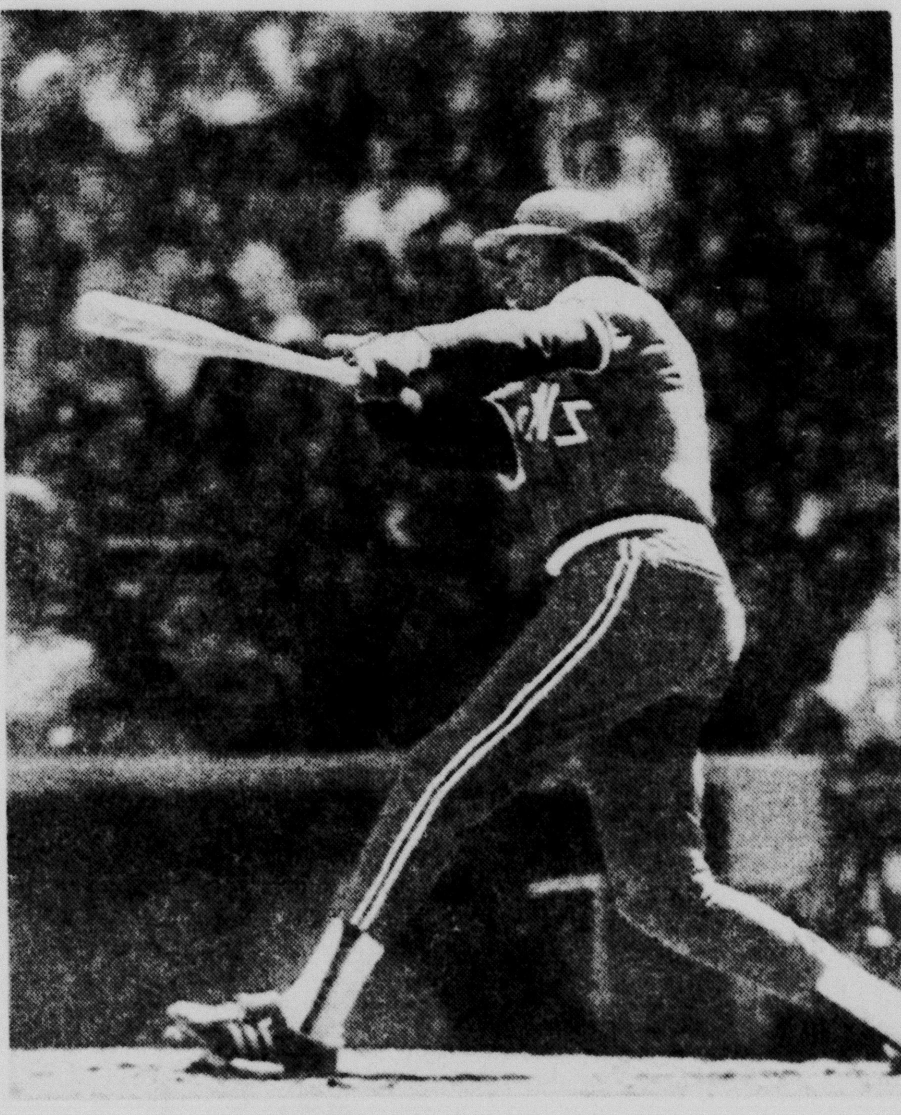
The club had gone 731 regular season games since the opening of Anaheim Stadium in 1966. The last time the Angels suffered a rainout of a regular season game at home was when the club was playing at Dodger Stadium. A scheduled game with Baltimore, Sept. 19, 1965 washed out.

The postponement changes the pitching assignments. Frank Tanana and Kansas City's Paul Splittorff, who were scheduled to pitch last night, will start tonight.

Bill Singer, who was slated to pitch tonight, will go either Saturday or Sunday against the Chicago White Sox according to a club spokesman. Singer has been bothered by muscle spasms and his availability is not certain.

Nolan Ryan will face former Dodger Claude Osteen Friday night in the opener with the Pale Hose.

Tuesday's game will be rescheduled at a later date, possibly as part of a double header.



SWINGING FOR FENCE

Frank Tanana working harder

ANAHEIM (AP) — After the 1974 baseball season, people were saying the California Angels had the makings of the top pitching staff in baseball because of the resurgence of young Frank Tanana.

The lean 6-foot-3, 190-pounder won 10 of his last 16 decisions and figured to be a cinch to earn the No. 3 starter's role, behind Nolan Ryan and Bill Singer. But Tanana wasn't even sure he would make the team.

"I never considered I had the team made," said the quicktalking youngster. "You never know you have the team made. I came to camp hearing a lot of propaganda, but you've got to do it on the field. And everybody had been doing so well, I knew I had to deliver."

Tanana's spring training routine include his feeling that he'd get more out of workouts by doing twice as much as usual.

"I was really impressed with him this spring," said Manager Dick Williams. "When Muff (pitching coach Billy Muffett) told him to take 15 laps, he went out and ran 25 and he was doin' 'em line to line, putting a lot of effort into them."

Thus it was with great anticipation that Williams and Tanana looked forward to Tuesday night's game with the Kansas City Royals. Tanana was to pitch against Paul Splittorff. And it was with great disappointment when the game was rained out—the first rainout in 10 years for the team at Anaheim Stadium.

But Tanana gets his chance to pitch against the Royals tonight, if the skies clear.

Tanana admitted he probably worked harder this spring than he's ever worked. "I never took anything for granted. I think that's the best way to approach it."

Was there a turning point this spring? "Yeah, the day I pitched against Oakland at Palm Springs. I think I made the team that day. Sure, I had been sweating a little, but that performance might have gotten me a spot on this club." In that exhibition game he permitted just one hit in six innings as the Angels won a 1-0 thriller.

Pressed about his concern over making the team, the 21-year-old smiled and said, "Well, of course, I had the team made, but if you tell yourself you do then you become lackadaisical and you don't get the work done that you need.

"My first time out I want to be strong enough to go nine innings, and that meant that I had to get my head ready, my concentration..."

Williams calls Tanana "not your typical left-hander. He came on so darn strong at the end of last year but he needs to be in better shape. And he knows it. He's been working so hard, I think he's got something in mind that'll make him a little money.

"We put him in the bullpen for a time last season and from that time on he worked hard. He had two or three chances to lose 20, but he battled and fought and I like that."

The Angels have never had a 20-game loser and Tanana avoided that by achieving a 14-19 mark. In his last start he pitched a complete game 3-2 victory over Minnesota.

Crowds, betting break records at Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita has closed its 76-day racing meeting by setting records in attendance and total mutuel handle.

A closing day crowd of 24,894 Tuesday pushed attendance to 2,006,019 and broke the mark of 1,951,000 set in a 72-day meeting in 1967-68.

Meanwhile, wagers Tuesday brought the total pari mutuel handle to $233,305,191. That broke the record of $213,551,850 set during a 75-day meeting in 1973-74.

Wagering thus averaged more than $3 million and $117.30 per capita daily.

Laffit Pincay Jr. edged out Willie Shoemaker 89-85 for the meet riding title, but Shoemaker set an earnings record of $1,270,627. Shoemaker, racing's all-time leading winner, also tied his own record of 13 stakes victories in a meeting.

Marjorie Everett was the top winner among owners with $287,925 while Stardust Mel was the horse winning the most money, $243,000.

Daily attendance averaged 26,395 which was 9.3 per cent higher than the 24,148 in 1973-74.

Ganesha girls' dream ends

By GRAHAM CROW

P-B Correspondent

It was 10 minutes after the CIF quarterfinal girls basketball game between Ganesha and Ventura High.

Most of the lights were out in the Giant Gymnasium. The only brightness was supplied by the Ventura fans and their "I-can't-believe-it" smiles.

The place probably seemed even darker to the three Ganesha High team members who hadn't moved from their spots on the bench for some time. As reserves, they had occupied these same spots for nearly two hours Tuesday night.

And to think that such a wide range of emotions was caused by a sweet girl with the name of Julie Hornback.

Miss Hornback broke Ganesha's back and eliminated the Giants in the quarterfinal round for the second year in a row with a 20 foot shot at the buzzer, giving the Cougars a thrilling 53-51 victory.

It's the second year for CIF girls basketball and Juanita Tolbert has been at the reigns both years for Ganesha. Unfortunately, for the Giant coach, Hornback's "shot heard 'round Ganesha" cut this year two games short of the intended goal.

"It's too bad that it ended so soon," lamented Tolbert afterwards. "They (Ventura) were the best team we played all season, however.

"I feel mostly sorry for my gals, though. They are really beautiful people who actually taught me a lot about basketball this year."

Then reflecting upon the final score coach Tolbert added, "Even though Ventura won the game, I don't think we're losers at all."

The defeat overshadowed, but hardly dimmed, the individual performances of the two Ganesha stars, Michelle Levy and Musicette McKinney.

McKinney had made the last basket for the Giants on a follow-up shot which tied the score at 51 all with just 10 seconds remaining. She ended the game with 19 points and 13 rebounds.

The smoothest player on the court for either side was Miss Levy. Despite being blind in one eye, she tallied a game high 24 points and hauled down 14 rebounds.

Ventura was paced by Eloise Mercado with 20 points while striking blonde Lynn Wright rallied her team in the final quarter and wound up with a dozen.

The outstanding overall player for the Cougars was probably forward Lynn Clopper. And she and Miss Hornback are no strangers to the pressure situations faced at the end of the game.

The Clopper-Hornback duo formed the winning battery of the Miss Softball America championship team, a title they earned last season in Odessa, Texas.

Ventura now advances to the final four, sporting a perfect 14-0 season record. Its coach is Charles Shively, a man with 25 years basketball experience behind him.

But coach Tolbert, her staff and team had nothing to be ashamed of. As Ventura center Jana Hovey said after the game to the Ganesha coach, "You guys just ran out of time before you could win."

The quarterfinal round jinx hit them once again but girls basketball at Ganesha High has definitely come a long way baby.

NO CHANCE

Ganesha High's Michele Levy pulls down a rebound while Ventura's Jana Hovey (in white) tries desperately to take it away during the CIF girls basketball playoffs Tuesday night at Ganesha High. Miss Levy scored 24 points, but the Ganesha girls lost a 53-51 decision in the quarterfinals.

Player helps manager

Robinson has advantage

By The Associated Press

Frank Robinson has something no other manager, black or white, has...player Frank Robinson. And that's why Frank Robinson is the only manager in baseball, black or white, who has hit a home run this season.

"It was a great moment, but you had to wait till the end, till the game was over," Robinson said. "Now it's even more gratifying."

Robinson had several great moments Tuesday. The first came when Rachel Robinson, widow of the first black man to play in the major leagues, threw out the first ball and said she was "proud, proud, proud to be here." Then came career home run No. 575 in his first time at bat as a big league manager.

That started the Cleveland Indians to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees, which was great moment No. 3, especially since it was viewed by an excited home town crowd of 56,204.

Elsewhere in the American League, the world champion Oakland A's nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Minnesota Twins crushed the Texas Rangers 11-4 and the Boston Red Sox downed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2. The Kansas City-California game was rained out while the Baltimore-Detroit opener was postponed earlier by a snowstorm.

Robinson brought the large Cleveland crowd to its feet with his first-inning home run off New York's Doc Medich. The first player to greet him at home plate was winning pitcher Gaylord Perry, who has had a couple of publicized squabbles with Robinson.

"I wanted to let him know I was with him," said Perry, who scattered nine hits. "I was probably more happy for him than he was for himself."

"It's just tremendous," Robinson said later as he contemplated the historic occasion. "I really can't explain how I feel. I've been a manager before, but this is where it's at. I couldn't think of any better way to start my new career. I was extremely pleased by the way we won. It was a team effort. The guys came from behind and played together and that's what you have to do to be successful."

Despite Robinson's dramatic homer, the Indians fell behind 3-1 in the second inning. But Boog Powell, Robinson's old Baltimore teammate, drove in two runs with a homer and double and Jack Brohamer drove in the other two with a sacrifice fly and a single. The sacrifice fly scored Powell, who opened the bottom of the second with a single.

Now Robinson can concentrate on being a manager rather than baseball's first black manager.

A's 3, White Sox 2

Vida Blue, taking over the opening game pitching assignment vacated by Catfish Hunter, allowed four hits in seven innings and center fielder Bill North cut down the tying run at the plate in the ninth as the world champion A's opened their season.

The A's took a 2-0 lead off Wilbur Wood in the second inning when Joe Rudi singled and designated hitter Billy Williams, in his first American League at-bat, doubled. The runners held as Wood retired the next two batters, but rookie second baseman Phil Garner singled them home. Oakland added the decisive run in the eighth on a walk to Sal Bando, a stolen base by pinch runner Herb Washington—who actually was picked off but beat the throw to second—and a double by Rudi.

The White Sox scored in the seventh on Ken Henderson's single, a walk and Bucky Dent's single. They got their second run off Rollie Fingers in the ninth on a single by Henderson and Melton's double. Pinch hitter Pat Kelly followed with a single but North threw out pinch runner Lee Richard trying to score.

"What we don't have is what we got," said Manager Alvin Dark. "These players will rise to the occasion."

Twins 11, Rangers 4

Designated hitter Tony Oliva's three-run homer capped a six-run Minnesota assault against 25-game winner Ferguson Jenkins in the first two innings. Larry Hisle's three-run homer in the ninth made it a thoroughly disappointing evening for the 28,787 fans, largest opening game crowd since the Rangers moved from Washington to Texas in 1972.

The Twins chased Jenkins in the second inning when Oliva crashed a towering 390-foot homer after Lyman Bostock and Hisle singled. Jenkins, a $175,000-a-year pitcher, lasted only 1 2-3 innings. He was tagged for six runs—five earned—on seven hits and also issued a pair of walks.

"For some reason, openers aren't my cup of tea," he said. "I lost last year in the opener, too."

Red Sox 5, Brewers 2

Bob Montgomery doubled home two of Bostons three runs in the third inning and Tony Conigliaro made a triumphant return to the major leagues as the Red Sox spoiled the American League debut of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron.

Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, and Conigilaro, who was hit in the eye by a pitch in 1967 and out of baseball the past 3½ years, received standing ovations.

Aaron, the Brewers' designated hitter, walked, struck out and grounded out twice. Conigliaro, Boston's DH, helped set up a first-inning run with a hit-and-run single.

Aaron admitted he was "thinking home run all the way" when he came to bat with runners on second and third and one out in the eighth. "I had to. Our team was behind. I didn't expect a fast ball high and inside. I was guessing slow curve." Aaron checked his swing and tapped weakly back to pitcher Luis Tiant.

Shug Jordan gets ready for last year

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — With spring practice one week away, the Auburn Tigers today looked beyond the long bend of summer at a football season that won't be like any other. It will be Shug's last.

The gentlemanly Ralph "Shug" Jordan told his troops Tuesday that next season would be his 25th and final one as head coach of the War Eagles. He didn't have to tell them it would be the end of an era.

Shug, as he's warmly known to his friends, was turning over the reins of a Southern football powerhouse that ran most every fall with the best around and was indelibly marked by his tough but gracious, down home manner.

The school's stadium, Jordan Hare, bears his name. And for a quarter of a century he's been synonymous with Auburn success, inheriting an 0-10 team in his first year, 1951, but in short work directing winning campaigns in 21 of his 24 years.

The Shug era was highlighted by a 10-0 team in 1957 that won the national championship.

The new coach, in 1976, will be Doug Barfield.

A 39-year-old Tiger assistant, Barfield was the choice of the Auburn University Board of Trustees, but his selection promised some turmoil on the Auburn staff. Particularly it was a blow to assistant coach Paul Davis, who previously was the head mentor at Mississippi State for five years.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't upset and disappointed," said Davis after the official announcement. "It was a rough blow, hard to take."

"I turned down some head jobs expecting to succeed Jordan when he retires," added Davis.

Jordan and Barfield both asked Davis to remain, but he said he hasn't yet decided.

Barfield is a native of Alabama who played football for Southern Mississippi and joined the Auburn staff in 1972. Jordan said he was delighted that Barfield would be his heir apparent throughout the coming season and that there would be "continuity in the Auburn football family."

As for himself, said Jordan, "It's never easy to retire."

The St. Louis Cardinals will have six days this year in which women and senior citizens (over 65) will be admitted to the ballpark for 50 cents.

Seaver is ecstatic after opening win

By The Associated Press

"I'm ecstatic!"

With those two words, Tom Seaver described his feelings after outlasting Steve Carlton as the New York Mets shaded Philadelphia 2-1 Tuesday in an opening-day clash of two of the National League's premier pitchers.

In the only other NL game, Atlanta blanked Houston 2-0. San Francisco at San Diego was rained out.

Seaver surrendered six hits, struck out nine batters and came up a winner because of two met newcomers—Dave Kingman Joe Torre. Kingman slugged a huge home run in the fourth inning and Torre drilled the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth.

But the main man on this blustery opening day was Seaver, who struggled to a sorry 11-11 season last year and is the pitcher on whom so much of Mets' hopes rest for 1975.

"I couldn't be happier," said the man called Tom Terrific. "I was strong all the way, throwing fairly hard with a good breaking ball. I didn't throw too many bad pitches."

The Phillies nicked him for a third-inning run on Dave Cash's double. But Kingman retrieved that run in the fourth, golfing a two-out, two-strike pitch far beyond the left field wall.

Felix Millan opened the Mets' ninth with a single—only New York's third hit and first since Kingman's king-sized homer. Then Carlton walked John Milner on four pitches and missed with his first two to Torre.

On the next pitch, Torre was swinging.

"I just wanted to hit the ball hard," he said. He did, lining it to left and sending Millan racing home with the winning run.

"It was exciting," said Torre. "Opening day always is. When it stops being exciting, I'll quit."

Until the decisive ninth, Kingman's jolt was one of the few balls the Mets hit hard against Carlton. Another was a fifth-inning drive by Seaver that backed Greg Luzinski to the left field wall.

"I thought I hit mine better than he hit his," said Seaver, nodding a smile at Kingman, a smile missing most of last year.

Braves 2, Astros 0

Carl Morton's five-hitter and Darrell Evans' RBI single in a two-run fifth inning carried the Braves past Houston. Morton retired 16 straight batters after a pair of first-inning singles before shortstop Larvell Blanks' throwing error ended the string in the seventh.

Morton spent his first pro years in the Braves' farm system. "When Montreal drafted me," he said, "I had mixed feelings." Before the 1974 season, though, the Expos dealt him to Atlanta. "Now it's like coming home. I know it's trite to say that, but that's how it is. I spent my apprenticeship in Montreal and came home."

Ralph Garr singled to start the fifth against Astros' rookie Doug Konieczny. Garr moved to third when Marty Perez was safe on shortstop Roger Metzger's error. Evans singled for one run and Perez scored on Mike Lum's grounder.

Hockey loop plays tonight

The Ontario Hockey Association will reach the midway point of its season tonight with two games scheduled at the Ontario Ice Bowl.

At 8:30 p.m., the Bruins and Canadiens clash followed by a 10 p.m. match between the Kings and Flyers.

The Bruins and Kings, who are tied for first place, played to a 3-3 deadlock last week as the Kings' Paul Pflum scored the tying goal with seves seconds left in the game. Phil Williams scored twice for the Bruins.

Jack Caswell scored two goals for the Canadiens in a 6-5 win over the Flyers while Don Berry tallied two for the losers.

Sports news in brief

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) —Alvaro "Indian Yaqui" Lopez, 175, of Stockton, Calif., scored a sixth-round knockout over Lee Mitchell, 180, of Phoenix, Ariz. Tuesday night after each fighter had floored the other in the opening round of their scheduled 10-round fight.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Top-seeded Rod Laver admitted he was glad he won his first-round tennis match in the World Championship Blue Group Tuesday.

After the crafty Australian lefty disposed of South Africa's Ray Moore 6-2, 7-6 for a record 21 consecutive victories on the tour, he said, "I feel better once I get past the early rounds."

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Brian Hill, 27, a native of Newark N.J., has been named head basketball coach at Lehigh University.

Hill, whose appointment becomes effective July 1, joined the Lehigh staff last September as assistant basketball coach. During the 1974-75 season he directed the junior varsity to 12-5 record.

He succeeds Tom Pugliese, of Dunellen, N.J., who resigned last month following three years as head coach, the final one in which Lehigh won only one game.

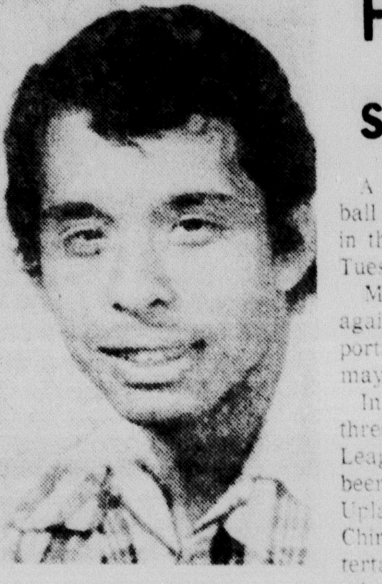
LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Fred Prender, head football coach at Bucknell University, died Tuesday of a heart attack after a game of tennis.

Prender, 43, had suffered a similar attack during the 1973 season.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Australia's Ray Ruffels downed hometown hero Butch Buchholz, 6-3, 7-5, Monday night in a firstround match in a World Championship Tennis Blue Group match.

Fifth-seeded Allan Stone of Australia defeated Ismail El Shafei of Egypt, 6-4, 6-4, in another match Monday night.

Earlier, second-seeded Roscoe Tanner blistered the Soviet Union's Teimuraz Kakulia with 10 aces and proceeded to a 6-1, 6-2 victory.



JOSE CARTAS
. . . hurdler

Mexican star is training at MSAC

Mt. San Antonio College is hosting a hopeful Olympic hurdler for three months.

Jose Cartas of Mexico is training with Coach Don Ruh's Mounties until June in hopes of getting enough competition and experience to help his country in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

The 23-year-old mechanical engineer is also attending some English and engineering classes while at MSAC.

"We don't have enough competition in Mexico so my coaches felt it would be better for me to come here," Cartas said.

While here, Cartas will be competing in the MSAC Relays and in open events at various meets.

"Jose competes very well," says MSAC assistant coach John Norton. "He can compete right with top college opposition and is capable of doing well in the Olympics. I know Ruh feels he is the fastest hurdler he has ever seen in Mexico in his experience in visiting there since 1966."

Cartas visited here for the MSAC Relays last year and placed fourth in the open division with a time of 14.6. He also finished fourth in the Central America Games at at 14.4.

His best time was a 14.0 clocking in a national championship meet in Mexico. Ruh feels he should be in the 13's by the end of his training here.

Stalwick to earn honors

LOS ANGELES — Claremont High's Kent Stalwick will be one of 10 youths who will be honored by the Pasadena-San Gabriel Valley Chapter, National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Friday night.

Stalwick, a quarterback and All-CIF defensive back for the Claremont Wolfpack football team the past two seasons, boasts the third highest grade point average of the 10 gridders being honored.

Other All-CIF athletes include San Marino High's Fred Cordova, III, (3.91), Rosemead High's Jerry Bowling (3.89), South Hills' Brian Bethke (3.27), and Len Holmes, II, of St. Francis High (3.34).

Stalwick's GPA is an impressive 3.77.

Heavy valley sports scheduled wiped out

Panthers sorry they didn't get rained out at S.B., 5-3

SAN BERNARDINO — Chaffey College managed to get in its Mission Conference baseball game here with San Bernardino Valley College Tuesday afternoon, but the Panthers are probably wishing it was rained out.

San Bernardino erupted for three runs in the fifth inning enroute to a 5-3 win. The loss dropped Chaffey's record to 8-5 in conference play and 18-7 overall.

The win upped San Bernardinos record to 7-6 and 12-13.

Chaffey hopes to make up some lost ground Thursday when it visits old rival Citrus College for a 2:30 p.m. contest.

Citrus (10-3, 21-6) was rained out at Mission Viejo Tuesday where the Owls were scheduled to play Saddleback.

San Bernardino mauled four Panther pitchers with 12 hits, including a double and a triple by Steve Gulla.

Jay Meyers and Mike Walters each doubled for Chaffey which collected only five hits — two by Meyers.

Meyers, Chaffey's catcher, was batting only .187 going into the contest. He was two for four Tuesday.

Greg Baughman absorbed the loss, his first in five mound appearances. His ERA was 2.93 going into the game.

Poly athletes receive honors

Three Cal Poly students have been selected as Outstanding College Athletes of America for 1975.

The three, Jim Zorn, Alister Crumlish and Mark Jacobs, were selected by the Board of Advisors for OUTSTANDING COLLEGE ATHLETS OF AMERICA, an annual awards volume published by Fuller & Dees, Inc. of Washington D.C. to honor U.S.A.'s finest collegiate athletic performers.

Zorn was a two-year starter at quarterback for the Broncos and recently signed a professional football contract with the Dallas Cowboys. Crumlish was the place kicker on last year's Cal Poly football squad. Jacobs was a Bronco standout in both water polo and on the swimming team the past year.

Youngsters lead the way in Stanley Cup

By Associated Press

Tuesday night belonged to the youngsters as the Stanley Cup playoffs opened. They wore the uniforms of the New York Islanders, Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins— teams that weren't in the National Hockey League eight years ago.

At the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., 24-year-old Mike Murphy netted the overtime score that sent the venerable Toronto Maple Leafs back home with a 3-2 loss and 1-0 deficit in their series.

In Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, 19-year-old rookie Pierre Larouche brought the Penguins a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Blues after a pass from Vic Hadfield, who was 15 when Larouche was born.

It was different in Boston, where a rejuvenated Phil Esposito broke out of a "slump" with three goals against his younger brother, Tony, as the Bruins blasted the Chicago Black Hawks 8-2.

"I'm proud of my kids," said Islanders' Coach Al Arbour after his third-year club came back from a 2-0 deficit in the third period for a 3-2 triumph that brought the Rangers to the brink of playoff extinction. "My guys have had their ups and downs all year, but they really came through tonight."

It was that way everywhere. Playoff pressure didn't faze the stars of the present and future. Instead, it was the veterans.

MVP WINNERS — Cincinnati's Pete Rose and Steve Garvey of the Dodgers display the pennant which will be given to all youngsters at the Dodgers' home opener Monday night against the Reds. Game time Monday will be 5:15 p.m. They have both won MVP honors.

Miller voted top athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Golfer Johnny Miller has been voted the Outstanding Athlete of the Year in balloting by sports fans around the nation.

The voting was conducted by Gillette for a 90-minute television special on NBC Tuesday night.

Fans also named their favorites in 11 sports. Besides Miller in men's golf, the winners were Jimmy Connors, mens tennis; Chris Evert, women's tennis; Sandra Haynie, women's golf; Ken Stabler, pro football; John Havlicek, pro basketball; Lou Brock, baseball; Bobby Orr, hockey; Muhammad Ali, other men's pro sports; Archie Griffin, men's amateur sports; Olga Korbut, other women's sports.

Each award carried a grant of $5,000 to a youth sports or physical fitness program designated by the winner. Miller also received an additional $10,099 grant for a program of his choice.

Stars play in finals

The Claremont Stars of the Pacific Soccer League will be playing for the state championship in the 10-11 age bracket at 10:30 a.m. Saturday against Club Atlante at the Jackie Robinson Stadium in Los Angeles.

Coach Dieter Dammeier's Stars whipped the Shamrock Club team from San Diego, 9-1, in the semifanals. Allen Pitts led the Claremonters by scoring five goals with Henry Gonzales adding two plus one apiece by Jeff Ratajczak and Tom Carey. Ratajczak also was credited with four assists.

Pop Warner sign-ups set in Diamond Bar

Sign-up dates have been scheduled for Diamond Bar Pop Warner football. Boys 8-13 by August 1 are eligible, and all boys who sign up will play.

The $20 fee includes physical, insurance, and practice and game uniforms.

Sign-ups will be held Thursday, April 10, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Walnut High School, rooms E-1 and E-2, and Monday, April 14, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at Diamond Bar Country Club.

Girls, 8-13 by August 1, may sign up as cheerleaders.

Further information may be obtained from Bill Angevine at 595-9682.

Bruce Crampton of Australia set a Masters record when he registered four eagles (two below-par) in the 1974 tournament at Augusta, Ga.

Golf greats share pressure

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Golf's great and near great eyed each other as rivals today. Nervously, they shared a common enemy—pressure—on the eve of the 39th Masters Tournament.

"It's the only tournament I know that you start choking at the gate," said Arnold Palmer, now a graying 45, seeking to end a major victory drought that started with his fourth Masters title in 1964.

"My attitude is good. I don't feel the world is going to collapse if I don't win the Masters this year," said Tom Weiskopf, suddenly projected into the role of co-favorite with Jack Nicklaus.

Perhaps the heaviest tension of all strummed the nerves of Lee Elder, the first black man to compete here and for months the center of world-wide attention as a breaker of racial barriers.

"I do not feel like a great man in history," Elder told a presidential-style press conference Tuesday. "And that's the way I would like to keep it."

Elder pleaded to be left alone while facing the greatest challenge of his career, and added: "I am playing well enough to win if breaks go my way."

Nicklaus wore a mantle of supreme confidence—the kind you'd expect of a four-time winner—as he returned from a week-end break with his massive hitting power and putting artistry more evident than ever.

In his practice round, he almost holed out from the fairway on the ninth hole, thrilling a clubhouse gallery. Then he spotted a couple of putts about 20 feet from the hole and knocked them into the cup.

"I am putting better," he told admirers who pursued him from the ninth green to the 10th tee. "The greens are getting harder. I putt better on fast greens."

Nicklaus, winner of his last two tournaments—the Doral and Heritage—and his former Ohio State schoolmate, Weiskopf, a pole-to-pole victor in last week's Greater Greensboro Open, have been established as the players to beat for the 1975 green jacket.

There is no formal betting here, but unofficial oddsmakers have put Nicklaus and Weiskopf at 6-1, followed by Johnny Miller and defending champion Gary Player at 8-1, with Hubert Green, Hale Irwin and Lee Trevino 10-1.

An international field of 78, including 54 U.S. and 17 foreign pros and seven American amateurs, will tee off Thursday for the first of four rounds over the majestic 7,020-yard, par 72 Augusta National course which for four decades has been the scene of high drama.

Prize money is never announced until the last day of the tournament. It normally runs over $200,000 with $30,000-plus to the winner.

Fringe benefits to the champion have been estimated at $1 million.

Nicklaus, who has 14 major championships, by his own admission has one major goal left in his sights—winning of the four big events, the U.S. and British Opens, Masters and PGA, in one year for a Grand Slam.

"It would be good for the game and it would fulfill my aim to be the best golfer of all time," Nicklaus said.

He has a formidable rival in Weiskopf, who at 32 is three years Jack's junior. The willowy stylist from Columbus, Ohio, can hit the ball as high and as far as Nicklaus on this rolling terrain that places so much emphasis on shot placement.

Weiskopf, highly temperamental and given to unpredictable flareups, made peace with himself in 1973, winning the British Open, Canadian Open, South African PGA, World Series of Golf and three others. Last year he suffered a slump after hurting his left hand.

Soccer with Adrian Mercado and Willy Keo

Waynn Pearson, Audio Visual Librarian for the Pomona Public Library, has become an avid soccer enthusiast and has procured a number of soccer books for the benefit of the ever growing soccer community.

As a follow up the Activity Center of the library will present "Aztec Soccer" with guest speaker John Chaffetz, Managing General Partner of the L. A. Aztecs, on Tuesday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. As part of the program, a soccer film will be screened in the Story Theater of the library. Everyone is invited.

The Pomona Aztecs of AYSO's Division I Boys lost its bid for the finals last Saturday by being shut out by the Sierra Madre Huskies 2-0 under a constant downpour of rain in Arcadia. The Aztecs were obviously the most skilled of the two clubs but they were not able to match the hustle and determination of the hosts who made up their mind to win every race for the ball.

The American Youth Soccer Organization State Championship will be held this coming Sunday at El Camino College Stadium, 16007 Crenshaw Boulevard, in Torrance. The first game of the day will begin at 9 a.m. with a Final game between senior girls teams. This game will be followed by Division I boys, Division II girls, Division III boys, Division III girls, Division II boys, Division I girls, and senior boys at 4:30 p.m. Sports Illustrated Magazine will cover the AYSO Finals. Admission: Adults., $1 and under 18, free.

The Claremont Stars (age 10-11), champions of the Pacific Coast League, will face Atlante, champions of the California League, this coming Saturday at Jackie Robinson Stadium (La Brea and Rodeo) in Los Angeles at 10:30 a.m. This game will determine the Pacific Coast League state champion. The Stars outdistanced the other 34 teams who had hoped for the crown at the outset of the season. Coach Dietor Dammeier is confident that his boys' "superior speed will be the determining factor which will bring the state championship to Claremont." The winner of the game advances to the Regional Playoffs in inter-state competition. The Stars have won 22, tied 2, and lost only one game this season.

Phil LaPierre of the Pomona Park and Recreation Departments with the cooperation of Pomona AYSO organized an 8-A-Side soccer tournament with the winner of each classification entering the San Gabriel Valley Municipal Athletic Association Finals. The Pomona Eagles, coached by Dave Hughlock won both the Pomona tournament and the San Gabriel Valley playoffs and as a result played, and won the Southern California Municipal Athletic Federation (SCMAF) championship by downing the Santa Barbara Toros, 3-0. It was the sixth straight shutout game for goalie Anthony Bryuant. Jim Carey's "hat trick" resulting from two assists from Clif Jackson proved to be too much for the beach-city boys.

The NASL will operate with 20 teams this year as follows: Northern — Boston, Hartford, New York, Rochester, and Toronto. Eastern — Baltimore, Miami, Philadelphia, Tampa Bay, and Washington. Central — Chicago, Dallas, Denver, St. Louis, and San Antonio. Western — Los Angeles, Portland, San Jose, Seattle, and Vancouver. The L. A. Aztecs will open their home season against the Dallas Tornado on Saturday April 12 at 8 p.m. at El Camino College in Torrance.

The first game will be held in Bermuda on the 20th of April and the final match will be in San Francisco on the 27th of April.

Good defense is big reason why Rockets, Sonics won

By The Associated Press

The home court advantage helps in the National Basketball Association. But it doesn't hurt to have a good defense, either.

The Houston Rockets and Seattle SuperSonics had both Tuesday night, and as a result have a 1-0 lead in their respective opening-round playoff series.

"I'd have to give credit to their defense,' said New York Coach Red Holzman after the Knicks dropped a 99-84 decision to the Rockets in their Eastern Conference opener. "They really played well, plus the fact that we shot poorly.

"Over here, we say we had an off-night shooting. But I'd have to say it was their defense that did it."

In Seattle, the SuperSonics played what Coach Bill Russell called "our best defensive effort of the season." It resulted in a 90-77 rout of the Detroit Pistons in their Western Conference opener.

Tom Burleson held Detroit's Bob Lanier to a sub-par 15 points while scoring 19 himself.

"This is what we drafted him for—his heart," said Russell of Burleson.

The Rockets can win the best-of-three series and advance to the Eastern semifinals by beating New York in their next meeting at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The SuperSonics can do likewise in the West when they play at Detroit the same night.

A Western Conference best-of-seven semifinal series begins tonight when Chicago hosts Kansas City-Omaha. Buffalo plays at Washington Thursday night in the beginning of an Eastern semifinal series.

Along with Houston's glittering defense, the youthful Rockets used 22 points by Calvin Murphy to whip the playoff-tested Knicks. The Rockets, in the playoffs for the first time ever, moved to a seven-point halftime lead, 46-39, by outscoring the Knicks 8-0 over the final 2:27 of the second quarter and Houston never trailed again.

Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 21 points and Earl Monroe had 13, but New York's leading scorers hit only 13 of 35 shots between them for a 37 per cent average.

Fred Brown came off the bench to pop in 23 points for Seattle. Seattle, which led from the opening minute, held off an early fourth quarter Detroit rally to win going away.

Has to get drivers for events

King has tough job

By WAYNE FUSON
Indianapolis News

Dick King, director of competition for the U.S. Auto Club, may have one of the toughest jobs in sports. One of his tasks is to line up fields for championship open cockpit races such as last Sunday's Trenton 200.

He got most of the drivers he wanted except for the Unser brothers, Al and Bobby, and Bill Vukovich Jr. Either their new cars for the Indianapolis 500 weren't ready or their car owners didn't want to risk the new equipment before Indianapolis.

"The feeling I get," said King, "is that teams don't have the spare parts they used to have, so they're unwilling to risk their equipment in races before Indianapolis."

Because of the state of the nation's economy, money in auto racing is short. It would appear that less afluent teams are banking on "getting rich" at Indy.

"The economy is down everywhere," says King, "and the dollars just aren't there for racing."

The economy squeeze hasn't hurt Indianapolis apparently, except in the matter of brand new cars. King expects about 50 cars to be entered for the 500.

And indications are that the racing picture will get brighter after Indianapolis. Not only will the wait-and-see period be over, but King says he sees a better financial picture generally.

Prize money hasn't been affected. The Trenton purse was the same as last year—$40,000 or 40 per cent of the take. Purses at USAC's first two races, the Ontario 500 and the Phoenix 200, were up a bit. The crowd was down at Ontario "because of the weather," according to King, and the attendance at Phoenix was about the same as usual.

The sale of tickets for the Indianapolis 500 is about normal for this time of year, say Speedway officials, but seats still are available.

Racing people are wondering about Ontario since the recent announcement that the group headed by former 500 winner Parnelli Jones and Indianapolis Motor Speedway owner Tony Hulman had pulled out.

"There is mixed emotion about Ontario," said King. "The most significant feeling about Ontario is that the race is run too early in the year."

The date was changed from the Labor Day weekend to March two years ago. King doesn't think that Labor Day is necessarily the answer, but he does feel a date later in the season would be better.

The reason is Indianapolis again. Ontario pays some $300,000, about one-third of the Indy purse, and not all racing teams are ready to make a real bid that early in the year. The Ontario purse included money paid to twin 100-mile qualifying races.

The super-sophisticated Indianapolis cars are super expensive, some of them costing well over $100,000.

Would the economy of racing improve if USAC were to go to a stock block formula, which some say would cut the costs?

"I question that seriously," said King. "There would ahve to be a lot of money spent before we could get to that point. I don't think we could simply say, 'stock blocks in 1976' and have any more success in number than we are this year."

How about going to a Formula 1 rule like the European road racers use?

"No," answered King. "That's just as expensive, if not more expensive, than our regulations."

King said that going to Formula 1 would increase public interest, but he sees no signs of that happening.

"I know of no foreign teams that are contemplating coming into our racing this season. There was a team (Tyrel) interested in Indianapolis, but it went away."

On the plus side, King says he sees things happening every day that are encouraging.

"It doesn't mean that there will be more race cars appearing next month," he said, "but...I've been contacted by people who currently are running teams in Formula 5,000 events. They're planning to go Indianapolis racing next year and are asking for rules and regulations."

King says that USAC isn't the only racing group hurt by the current economy squeeze. "At the recent NASCAR race in Atlanta they started only 35 cars when the entry called for a field of 40. The professional type of drag racing has dwindled some, too. Some of the top teams in NASCAR are unsponsored just like some of the top USAC teams are unsponsored.

"It's simply a matter right now that people are watching their bucks. People in auto racing have to hang in there. We've had a little setback but we'll be back."

Rain hits "605 again

IRWINDALE — For the fourth time this year auto racing at Speedway 605 fell victim to southern California rain storms.

Late model stock car and modified stockcar racing scheduled last Saturday night have been re-scheduled for Saturday night, April 26, at 7:30 p.m.

United States Racing Club limited stock and figure-eight racing washed out Sunday by the storm will be run this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The speedway, located at 4900 Riverside Road in Irwindale, will feature midget auto racing on the half-miel Saturday night.

Sprint car racing takes the spotlight on Saturday night, April 19, with a full racing program on the half-mile asphalt.

Long distance road racing set for Riverside Raceway

RIVERSIDE — Long distance endurance road racing will be introduced to Southern California on May 10 with the staging of the inaugural IMSA Camel GT Six Hours of Riverside.

The Sebring-type day and night event will climax a long Saturday of racing on the 3.25-mile nine-turn course at Riverside International Raceway. Scheduled earlier in the day will be the Goodrich Radial 100-miler for compact sedans and the Robert Bosch Gold Cup 50-miler for Volkswagen powered Super Vees.

National and world class drivers expected to compete in the $53,000 enduro include two-time International Motor Sports Assn. champion Peter Gregg, Indianapolis 500 veteran Sam Posey, former Can-Am star Hurley Haywood, veteran sports car driver Milt Minter, formula 5000 ace Elliott Forbes-Robinson and Germany's Hans Stuck.

John Greenwood, a young Michigan businessman who is the promoter with the assistance of raceway general manager Roy Hord, will also be in the race at the wheel of what may be IMSA's most spectacular and quickest GT car, the Greenwood Corvette.

Stuck and Posey won the Sebring 12-hour in the factory BMW.

Tickets are on sale at Riverside International Raceway and all Ticketron outlets. Ticket information: Area 714 653-1161.

Southland racing

SAN BERNARDINO — Stock car racing returns to Orange Show Speedway Saturday night with four divisions in action under the new USAC sanction.

The "four for one" opening night format will include late model stocks (formerly sportsman), hobby stocks, modified stocks and the new limited stock cars. Each division will compete in its own trophy dashes, semi main event and main event with racing slated to start at 7:30 p.m.

IRWINDALE — United States Racing Club mighty midgets take over 605 Speedway Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. with eight high speed events.

The track will feature limited stock car racing Sunday with racing slated to start at 2 p.m.

SAUGUS — The 1975 Olympic Racing Association opener, rained out last Saturday, has been re-scheduled for this Saturday beginning at 8 p.m. featuring a full program of 14 events. stars.

CORONA — Drivers predict the old track records will fall in the 1975 season opener Saturday night. The race was rained out last week and had been rescheduled for this week.

GARDENA — AMA motorcyclists will try again Friday night at 8 p.m. The CRA sprint cars will have another go at it Saturday (8 p.m.).

Sunday will feature dune buggies and XVW sprint sedans in the afternoon (2 p.m. start) and Figure-8 stocks, street stocks and a demolition in the night events (7 p.m. start).

WILLOW SPRINGS — Top amateur drivers of the California Sports Car Club return to Willow Springs Raceway this weekend for the Thomas Jefferson's Day National Point races. Willow Springs Raceway is seven miles west of Rosamond which is approximately 80 miles north of Los Angeles on highway 14.

Price fixing

Fair trade laws come under fire

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The most important activity of the Federal Trade Commission today is antitrust action, a spokesman said, but within that category the focus clearly is on fair trade pricing arrangements.

"Fair trade laws are little more than anticompetitive price-fixing, unadorned with any redeeming features," Lewis Engman, FTC chairman, told Congress earlier this year.

He added: "We doubt that we needed them when we got them. We are confident that we do not need them now." He cited a 1969 report suggesting that fair trade laws cost the consumer $1.5 billion a year.

Fair trading, in which a manufacturer generally sets a price that his distributors and retailers are expected to honor, began during the depression of the 1930s, the first law being enacted in California.

In 1937, the Miller-Tydicts Act went into effect, permitting individual states to write fair trade laws granting exemption from both the Sherman Antitrust Act and the Federal Trade Commission Act.

And in 1952 the McGuire Act was passed, permitting manufacturers to hold retailers to fixed prices even though the retailers declined to sign contracts of agreement.

At their height, fair trade laws existed in 46 states. The number now is down to 36. Only 13 still have McGuire Act provisions.

The rationale for fair trading is that it prevents cutthroat competition. That might have been so during the depression of the 1930s, says Richard Givens, head of the New York FTC office, but it isn't true any longer.

"During the 1930s, the problem arose from a deficiency of buying power, which led to drastic price declines and intense competition involving numerous sales below cost on a large scale," Givens said in an interview.

"The type of economic pinch which exists today is entirely different. The present situation arises out of the scarcity of certain limited resources, such as petroleum, and the increase in the cost of such items."

Because certain expenses are forced higher, the manufacturer and probably the retailer also strive to keep prices compensatorily high instead of resorting to innovative, cost-cutting techniques.

The worst type of price fixing, according to Givens, is horizontal, which exists when retailers, distributors or manufacturers, instead of competing, agree to sell for the same price.

By contrast, vertical leaves some room for competition.

Single workpersons

More than 1.3 million of California's women workers are single, separated, divorced or widowed.

Plays to try a man's soul

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"If you insist on opening 20-point two notrumps, you ought to learn how to play the dummy," remarked North.

"What could I have done?" replied South. "West made a brilliant defensive play and upset my applecart."

South won the club lead with dummy's queen and decided that his best chance for nine tricks would be to collect three diamonds. So he led a low diamond and stuck in his 10. West won and shifted to the 10 of spades.

South won and led his deuce of clubs with every intention of creating an extra entry to dummy by finessing the nine. Unfortunately, for that plan West played his 10 spot and South was one entry short. He did take a successful diamond finesse but that gave him only two diamond tricks and the combination of the bad spade break and the unfortunate position of the king of hearts left him one trick short.

Do you see how South could and should have played the hand?

At trick one he should have played dummy's ace of clubs and dropped his king under it. That play would have left him with two more entries to dummy and the means to score three diamond tricks.

Of course, if East had shown up with the 10 of clubs South would have looked rather silly. But those are the things that are sent to try men's souls.

Malpractice insurance pools OK'd by solons

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two bills that would give the state power to set up malpractice insurance pools in counties where such coverage was hard to find have been approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

Identical votes of 13-0 Monday sent the measures by Sens Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, and Peter Behr, R-Tiburon, to the Senate floor.

They would authorize the state insurance commissioner to set up a malpractice pool among liability companies in counties where substantial numbers of physicians were unable to find coverage of their own.

The Behr bill is SB 491. Carpenter's bill is SB 398.

Entertaining friends of business associates at dinner? Plan to have the party at home.

In your own dining room, living room, or recreation room, you can be certain the decor is lovely, the food excellent, the person overhearing your conversation is someone you know, and nobody will rush if you linger. Besides home is where the heart is and inviting people to visit you there has always been a mark of respect.

What's more you'll have an opportunity to display your creativity as a hostess, cook, and bartender. You can control all the components, including the cost, with your guests and yourself in mind. For instance, an important consideration when you're planning a party is that almost everybody is watching calories and it's a boon to your guests if you do. With a little care, a party can be low calorie, low cost, and high style, all rolled into one. Economical and elegant can by synonymous!

At cocktail time, establish your reputation for fair and elegance by serving the latest "in" drink of the sophisticated suburbanites and country clubbers — Sherry from Spain. This fabled, golden drink, so popular today, was a favorite even centuries ago with people of taste. Shakespeare extolled its virtues in Henry the IV, Napoleon had a cask dedicated to him, and Sir Walter Drake is said to have invaded Cadiz chiefly for the Sherry he took away with him.

Served "straight-up" or "on-the-rocks", Sherry is a full-bodied delightful drink and has only half the calories of an equal amount of hard spirits. You won't need to stock your bar with a variety of liquors — there's always somebody in the crowd who asks for the one liquor you don't have, anyway. All you need to satisfy any palate is two types of Sherry, a "fino" which is dry, and an "oloroso" which is less dry. Don't concern yourself about vintage years; all Sherry is a blend of many harvests.

Keep the hors d'oeuvres simple; they're supposed to stimulate the appetite, not overwhelm it. Serve cubes of hard cheese, pimiento stuffed olives, almonds and crackers. These are the traditional accompaniments for Sherry — ask anybody in Spain where all true Sherry comes from.

For a main dish, borrow again from the Spainish — a recipe for chicken breasts. The vegetables are built in; all you need is a salad. Different and delicious. And, don't dismiss the dessert. Nothing is more depressing than a dinner party without dessert. Just think thin! Try a low-calorie cheesecake, or the fruit of the season. For a special touch of elegance and style, serve some cream Sherry with the dessert and after dinner. Adds to the glow which comes of the right formula of fine friends, good food and lovely surroundings.

When the party is over, count the cost and calories, surprisingly low; count the results, amazingly good. Even your best friends will tell you so!

CHICKEN FLAMENCO

1 cup imported olive oil
6 chicken breast halves
Salt and pepper
1 large eggplant, cut into ½ inch thick crosswise slices
2 Spanish onions, sliced
2 ripe tomatoes, diced
2 cloves garlic, chopped
3 large potatoes, diced

Heat ¼ cup of olive oil in a large skillet. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Brown chicken on all sides and then remove from skillet and set aside. Add more oil to skillet and fry eggplant slices until lightly browned on both sides. Add more oil as necessary. Use eggplant slices to line a 8x13 inch casserole. In the same skillet saute onions until wilted. Stir in remaining ingredients adding salt and pepper to taste. Pour vegetables into lined casserole. Top with pieces of chicken, skin side up. Bake uncovered in a preheated moderate oven (350 degree) for 40 to 45 minutes or until chicken is tender and brown. Serves 6.

PAVA ESPANOL
(Spanish Turkey)

½ cup imported olive oil
1 small head green cabbage, cored and coarsely chopped
1 red onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
3 cups well drained cooked rice
3 cups diced cooked turkey
2 cans (16 ounces each) stewed tomatoes, undrained
½ cup seasoned dry bread crumbs

In a large saucepan or Dutch oven, heat olive oil and saute cabbage, red onion and garlic until wilted, about 10 to 15 minutes. Stir in rice and turkey. Pour mixture into a greased 3 quart casserole. Chop canned tomatoes and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake uncovered in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes or until brown and bubbly.

LOW-CALORIE PARTY CHEESECAKE

2 tablespoons low-calorie margarine, melted
1 package (⅝ ounces) low-calorie gelatin, lemon flavor
1 cup (½ pint) plain yogurt
1 pound skim milk cottage cheese, at room temperature
½ cup non-fat dry milk crystals
½ cup ice water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons vanilla
Non-caloric artificial sweetener, if desired
1 pint strawberries, hulled and halved

In a bowl mix crumbs and margarine. Press crumbs into the bottom of a 9 inch spring-form pan. Stir gelatin into boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in yogurt and cottage cheese. In a bowl mix milk crystals and ice water. Beat with an electric mixer until thick and creamy. Add lemon juice and beat until thick as whipped cream. Fold mixture into cheese. Fold in vanilla and sweetener, if desired. Pour mixture into lined pan. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, loosen sides of cheesecake with a sharp knife. Remove sides of pan. Place cake on a serving platter and top with strawberries. Cut into small wedges to serve. Makes one 9-inch round cheesecake.

WATER: OUR MOST PRECIOUS COMMODITY

Editor's Note — It takes 10 gallons of water to produce a can of vegetables; yet in some areas of the world there often isn't enough water for vegetables to grow. The extremes of too much water floods and not enough drought have led experts to predict that unless there is international cooperation on control of water supplies trouble lies ahead for the world—possibly even the demise of lawns in suburbia. Following is the first of two articles on the world's water situation.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Humanity's wanton abuse of its most abundant natural resource — water — has reached a point where scientists are warning a world already wallowing in crises: cooperate in a search for remedies or court calamity.

Essential to most human activity, water can mean life or death, bounty or poverty, war or peace. In an atmosphere of urgency, high-powered conferences have been scheduled to examine the problems. A enational conferenre of all U.S. states and some foreign observers opens April 22 in Washington. A series of international meetings will precede a world conference on water in 1977. Why all the worry?

Water is indestructible and goes through a cycle of renewing itself. There's as much fresh water now as there was centuries ago.

But some areas are blessed with bountiful supplies. An average American uses 60 times more fresh water daily than an average citizen of Bangladesh. Water is often all too abundant in some areas in the form of destructive floods. It is often much too scarce in other areas and so there are deadly droughts, like those of the African sub-Sahara belt. In addition, industry and people poison available fresh water at a frightening rate.

Fresh water is essential for crops and meat; to irrigation, to inland fisheries, to forests that protect the land from erosion, to public hygiene, for household, drinking and recreational uses and many other needs.

From 75 to 90 per cent of the world's people are exposed to unsafe drinking and household water. Diseases from contaminated water are many, including such killers as cholera, typhoid, typhus, amebic dysentery, yaws, infectious hepatitis and others. Lack of clean water disables or kills 500 million persons a year and kills 6 million infants annually.

People look on water as nature's gift. After all, 75 per cent of the earth is water, although all but 3 per cent of that is salt sea. But if there is to be enough usable fresh water when and where needed, experts say, the cost is going to be heavy.

Lester Brown, an American adviser to the World Food Conference in Rome last November, warned delegates that "water potential is by no means unlimited."

"In the near future," Brown said, "the lack of fresh water, rather than of land, may be the principal constraint on efforts to expand world food output."

Water resources would be enough, globally, to meet demands for decades but one danger, as stressed by Brown, is that severe problems of usable water can generate international conflict.

One such conflict is now threatening West Africa, where Upper Volta and Mali are getting close to a shooting confrontation generated by confirting claims over water rights along the Beli River. Now the dispute is complicated by rumors that oil has been discovered along the river.

Preparing for a series of international water conferences, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization FAO — notes "the world's total supplies of fresh water are limited and could eventually prove inadequate." It said agriculture, the biggest user, could suffer at a time when rising populations placed more and more heavy demands on it.

Water problems are centuries old and problems of industrial pollution date to the beginning of the industrial revolution, but recognition of the problems is relatively new.

. . . water can mean life or death, bounty or poverty, war or peace.

Experts say between 80 and 90 per cent of all water pollution problems of the industrial nations developed since 1950. Some, like those caused by insecticides, didn't even exist before then. It was only after 1950 that some industrial nations launched programs to counter fresh water pollution, and not until 10 years ago that a few began programs for coastal waters as well.

But not a nation in the world appears yet to have been able to reverse the pollution trend. Most can expect water problems to double in 10 years and increase more swiftly thereafter.

Frequently in areas where need for action is most urgent, factors such as politics, nationalism, sovereignty, bureaucracy, lack of money and administrative talent all contribute to unwillingness to act decisively.

"Politics is probably the biggest problem of all," says Robert Clark, associate director of the National Weather Service Office of Hydrology. "Weather and rivers are no respecters of political boundaries and move across them. But only when nations involved see clear benefit for all from an undertaking are they able to resolve conflicting interests."

Poor African countries, many of which know the agony of chronic drought and famine, would benefit greatly from cooperation, but there is a detectable clash between those who want to ease water problems and governments insistent on industrial development at any cost — and the cost will be growing all the time.

Mrs. Letitia Obeng of Ghana, top water expert in the U.N. Environment Program in Africa, says there are enormous potential sources of water deep under the desert in the drought plagued belt below the Sahara and "technology is available to make this water accessible and useful."

"It depends on manpower and finance," she said. "We need the will to do it. If we sit and say we can't do anything about it, then we may have a crisis."

The greatest drain on fresh water supplies is irrigation, and this will increase as larger populations require more food. Other problems are caused by urbanization, industrialization, rising standards and demands, poor use of arable land, widespread use of pesticides and chemicals, and lack of leadership.

For many countries, including the United States, water for the rest of the century will be a focus of debate, say the experts, because reversing pollution and insuring supplies will be extremely costly. And always, the demand grows as population grows.

For example, it takes 2.5 gallons of water to produce a gallon of gasoline; more than 10 for a can of vegetables; more than 2,600 for a ton of steel, and the appetite for all such things is growing everywhere.

Scientists know a great deal about water, and while they still are accumulating knowledge, lack of it is less a barrier to remedies than political and legal snarls. The route to remedies is through politics.

But, says Clark, nations must now begin examining options and priorities in the allocation of usable water for food production, energy production, industrial needs, household and hygiene, irregation and recreation.

Does a nation continue using DDT when scientists say it damages the ecology? Does a nation use more fertilizer to produce more food, or conserve on usable water, lessen production and up costs?

Americans, says Clark, may be called upon to make some tough choices. For example, if farm production is to be kept high with fertilizers, usable ground water for household and drinking purposes will be costlier.

"I wouldn't be surprised, in not many years," he says, "at the disappearance of that American dream, the lush green lawn. The water comes from ground water. The price is going up and will continue to go up."

Poor nations, anxious to develop swiftly, don't want to surrender the DDT and fertilizer shortcuts no matter how much they pollute. They say that if Americans can afford to pay more for food, poor nations can't.

Some remedies, like rainmaking, desalinization and mining of desert water, while feasible, involve problems and imponderables.

Rainmaking by scientists has been going on successfully for a decade or more and has been put to use in such places as Iran, Israel, Australia and Canada.

The problems involved in technological remedies include heavy cost and insufficient knowledge of the impact.

If a nation makes rain, does this deprive another area of potential rainfall? If a nation changes the course of an international river, does it deprive another of the river's benefits? Does the Soviet Union's program to alter the courses of some rivers flowing into the arctic threaten climate changes elsewhere?

"There's never been a really serious international effort to concern ourselves with finding the full impact of tampering with water resources," says Dr. Clark.

Gourmet seafood

Seafood is a meal people most often go out to eat. But you don't really have to pay restaurant prices to enjoy the adventure of tasty seafood. All the ingredients are available at the supermarket.

North Atlantic fish, such as cod, sole, flounder, haddock, ocean perch or pollock are favorites of good chefs. Whether it is in a drive-in fish sandwich or an elegant fillet of sole, seafoods from the North Atlantic have a firm, white texture and delicate flavor. The cold deep waters and the nutrients in them help grow delicately flavored fish with the texture and taste seafood lovers prize.

These prime North Atlantic species are in abundant supply thse days and come in many convenient forms. With frozen North Atlantic fillets, you can create your own chef's special, puff topped fillets, an eating adventure that will bring you great taste and nutrition on a budget.

Fillets are broiled until they flake, then coatd with a tangy topping that puffs and turns golden brown under the broiler.

You'll puff with pride when everyone raves over the marvelous taste. Superior taste, economy, convenience and protein-rich nutrition are all provided in this chef's special made right in your own kitchen.

PUFF TOPPED FILLETS

1 lb. North Atlantic Haddock or Cod frozen fish fillets, thawed
¼ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle
1½ teaspoons minced onion
1½ teaspoons prepared horseradish
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg white
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

In a bowl, combine sour cream, mayonnaise, pickle, onion, horseradish, paprika and salt. In another bowl beat egg white until stiff but not dry and fold into sour cream mixture. Season fish fillets with salt and pepper and brush with melted butter or margarine. Broil 8-10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Spoon horseradish mixture on top of each fillet. Return to broiler and broil 1-2 minutes or until topping is puffed and lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

Thermal 'pollution' may touch off sea farming

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New England lobsters, those tasty creatures of the briny North Atlantic, may soon be raised like herds of cattle in heated, underwater corrals.

Keeping lobsters in shore-based pens would reduce the lobsters' staggering mortality rate, marine biologists say. In the ocean about one lobster in 10,000 reaches the marketable weight of one pound.

Furthermore, scientists have learned that lobsters grow to that size four times faster in heated water from power-generating plants than in the icy depths off New England.

Long-range benefits from the work being done in labs on this coast and elsewhere could mean a dependable and increased supply of this much loved but rapidly diminishing seafood.

New England lobster costs more than $4 a pound retail — when it can be found. Demand has depleted lobsters in some areas. Lobster farming may insure a steady supply, but the price is not expected to come down because of the cost of raising them.

Scientists began a study in 1970 to determine whether it would be feasible to transplant Eastern lobsters to the Pacific Ocean.

"But first we had to find out how these lobsters would get along with the habitat and the other marine animals that are native to this area," James M. Carlberg, a research associate at California State University, San Diego, said in an interview.

It was soon determined that the Pacific Ocean along Southern California offered all the shelter, food and other conditions that the lobster needed.

But biologists found that the lobster's aggressive tendencies, backed by huge powerful claws, could possibly displace other native creatures, including California's spiny lobster, which has no claws.

By 1972, Carlberg said, he and his associates were concentrating on aquaculture. A two-story laboratory was set up beneath the shoreward end of a pier at Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla. They rigged trays, tanks and pipes to circulate water from the ocean.

From the Massachusetts Lobster Hatchery, they got eggbearing females for brood stock and, with temperature controls installed on some of the tanks, they soon found that in water heated to around 70 degrees, the time between mating and hatching of eggs was reduced from 18 months in the wild to about 12 months in the lab.

They also found that a lobster could be grown from the egg to marketable size in about 18 months, a process that requires five to seven years in the cold Atlantic. Raising the lobsters in pens also reduced the mortality rate to under 50 per cent.

To obtain an economical source of heated sea water, the biologists turned to the San Diego Gas & Electric co. They were given permission to build a laboratory at its generating plant on the oceanfront at Carlsbad.

There they combine sea water that has been heated as a coolant for the generators with water from an adjacent oceanflushed lagoon to maintain temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees.

Carlberg said the lab is a model for future commercial installations.

"If we can raise 10,000 pounds of lobster a year in this prototype," he said, "a commercial operator can expect to raise 100,000 pounds, and probably would go for even 500,000 pounds for more economical use of the expensive plant he would need."

He said under present feeding methods it takes four pounds of food — brine shrimp, fish meal and the like — to produce a one-pound lobster. The cost of the food is $1 per pound, or $4 a lobster, almost exactly the retail price of a marketable lobster.

But Carlberg said researchers at Louisiana State University and at least one commercial pet food plant are working on shrimp culture rations and other productions which would reduce the cost to about $2 per lobster.

Just to be sure, the scientists plan an even tougher test.

"About six months from now we're going to have a banquet," Carlberg said. "We're going to invite a bunch of the best-known gourmets we can find, and we're going to serve wild lobster and tame lobster, and then we'll know."

Eat less beef to help starving nations? No!

Claims that eating less beef in this country will provide more food for the needy of the world overlook such factors as the role of livestock in maximizing land usage, and in converting lower quality grain protein into high quality animal protein, says John L. Huston, Secretary of the Beef Industry Council of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

The basis of the "eat-less-meat-so-others-will-have-more-food" concept is the assumption that livestock production is a waste of grain, since animals consume more pounds of grain than they return in pounds of meat. But, claims Huston, the ratio is much more efficient than the 20-to-1 or 8-to-1 figures that are often quoted.

During its entire lifespan, a steer eats only 2 to 3 lbs. of feed grain per pound of live market weight, he said. Additionally, more than 75 per cent of a steer's life is spent on range land that could support no other form of agricultural crop and more than 35 per cent of all cattle going to market are fed no grain at all.

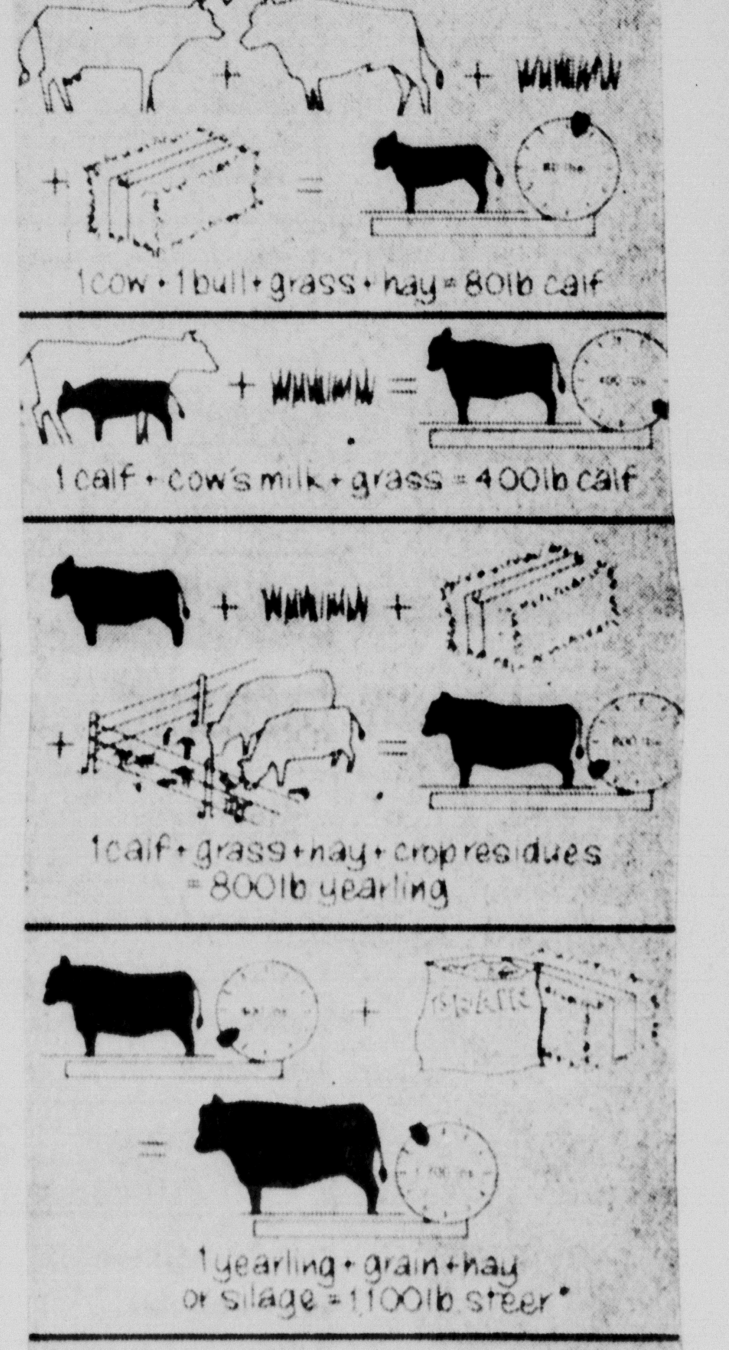
"It's hard to believe anyone could reason that cutting production of beef will mean more food. Far from it," says Huston. "What the world needs is more food production. More beef. More grain. More fruits. More vegetables. Cutting back production in any of these areas is counterproductive and exceedingly simplistic and short-term in scope."

He pointed out that the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization is on record as recommending increased cattle production in order to better utilize natural resources and increase food production.

"The cattle industry is working hard to fulfill its responsibility to help achieve the goal of more food for a planet growing hungrier by the day," Huston concluded.

A new booklet describing "Beef's Role in Feeding a Hungry World" is available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Beef Industry Council, Dept. H, Box 11168, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Prepared by The Beef Industry Council of The Meat Board



1cow + 1bull + grass + hay = 80lb calf
1calf + cow's milk + grass = 400lb calf
1calf + grass + hay + crop residues = 800lb yearling
1yearling + grain + hay or silage = 1,100lb steer*

*Generally cattle are not fed grain during the first ¾ of their lives. Total Grain consumption ranges from 2-3 lbs. of grain per pound of market weight, or about 2,100 lbs. of grain in total.

Remember recycling

Don't forget to recycle. It seems that once the big push to recycle was over, everyone settled down expecting other people and other communities to take care of the problem.

In addition to gathering materials to be recycled, it's important to remember that consumer demand for products made of recycled materials is necessary to change manufacturers habits. —D.L.D., Clinton, Ia.

Electricity saver

If it's possible, try using one large electric light bulb instead of several smaller ones. One 100-watt bulb gives about the same amount of light as six 25-watt bulbs, but uses less electricty. —R.N., Little Ferry, N.J.

Beneficial building

Consider adding a vestibule to outside doorways if you're building or remodeling. This is beneficial during both hot and cold weather as it reduces the flow of outside air into cooled or heated living areas. —E.S., Roanoke, Vir.

Organize ironing

Try to organize your ironing before you begin. Iron low-temperature fabrics first and work up to the items demanding a hot iron. —N.L., Silverdale, Wash.

Shade the sun

Awnings may be the best solution to keeping sunlight from heating your house in the summer, but for many houses they are not appropriate.

Any home can benefit from roller shades hung inside the window frame however, which have been found to reduce total heat coming through the window by half. —M.S., Cleveland, Ohio

A sure sign of summer

Quick dessert? how about a strawberry shortcut?

Fresh California strawberries always signal the start of great summer fruit desserts.

The simplest, of course, is old fashioned strawberry shortcake made the new fashioned way. Just use frozen pound cake that you've sliced and topped with luscious strawberries and mounds of refrigerated whipped light cream.

Strawberries, pound cake and handy aerosol whipped cream are more elegantly presented in this variation of the European dessert fondue.

Strawberry Fondue Special is absolutely delicious. And, what's even better, takes hardly any time to prepare. In fact, most of the work can be done right at the table if you prefer.

Wash and hull the berries ahead of time. Then call on quality convenience foods such as frozen pound cake and whipped cream in a pressurized can to help cut down on preparation time. To serve Strawberry Fondue Special, place bowls of strawberries, pound cake cubes and whipped cream within easy reach of guests. Then prepare the chocolate sauce at the table using chocolate morsels, cream cheese and a bit of orange liqueur.

When all's ready invite guests to dip the strawberries and pound cake first in the hot chocolate sauce, then in the whipped cream. This dessert is sure to win you praise.

Now that California strawberries are arriving in the markets, keep plenty of frozen pound cake and whipped light cream on hand so that you can create special strawberry desserts on a moment's notice.

And remember that you can always find strawberries in the freezer section of your grocery store so that no matter how long the fresh berries last, any time is strawberry shortcake time.

STRAWBERRY FONDUE SPECIAL

[illegible] frozen pound cake ([illegible] ounces), defrosted
2 pints fresh strawberries, washed, hulled and chilled
Bamboo skewers or fondue forks
1 package (12 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
[illegible] package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
3/4 cup orange flavored liqueur or milk
[illegible] aerosol can (7 ounces) whipped light cream

Cut pound cake into 1-inch cubes. Thread skewers with one or two cubes of cake and a strawberry. Arrange on serving tray. In fondue pot, over hot water, melt chocolate. Stir in cream cheese until blended; then liqueur or milk. Fill 1 quart bowl or pitcher with aerosol whipped cream. To serve, dip skewered cake and berries into warm fondue, then into aerosol whipped cream.

Makes about 2 cups chocolate sauce, enough for 8 to 10 servings.

Notes: 1) 1 package (16 ounces) frozen, whole unsweetened strawberries, partially thawed, can be substituted for fresh strawberries. 2) Leftover chocolate sauce can be stored, covered, in refrigerator and reheated covered. 3) Milk chocolate can be substituted for some of the semi-sweet chocolate.

Now make water bagels in your own kitchen

A bagel is a doughnut shaped roll. Years ago it was a favorite breakfast of Jewish families on Sabbath day.

Today it has become one of the most popular breakfasts for thousands of New York commuters. It is sold at commuter stations and on the streets from carts designed for speedy service.

The bagel design is perfect for the on-the-run breakfast. The hole in the center allows it to stack neatly on wooden pegs. It doesn't break or crumble easily and it's not sticky or greasy — won't smudge the morning paper. This is a sturdy, chewy bread containing 165 calories, about the same as two slices of bread. A cup of coffee to wash it down is the proper accompaniment.

In recent years transplanted New Yorkers have brought bagels across the country. They now appear in most large cities in frozen food sections at supermarkets as well as in bakeries and delicatessens. Many persons like them split and spread with cream cheese and lox (smoked salmon) and they often are served in this way at snack counters. When split they can be toasted in a toaster oven or toaster and are delicious topped with margarine, cream cheese and jelly.

Bagels are made from a simple yeast-raised dough and can be made with a rapid mix method. Instead of dissolving yeast in warm water, it is added undissolved, mixed with the dry ingredients. Very warm tap water (120 degrees F. to 130 degrees F.) is the recommended temperature. They are called water bagels because the first cooking step calls for simmering the shaped dough in water for 3 minutes — before baking.

Use a large shallow saucepan or electric skillet, simmering a few at a time. Lift carefully from the hot water and place on a towel to drain and cool for about 5 minutes.

Baking time is 30 minutes at 375 degrees F. But after the first ten minutes they are removed from the oven and brushed with an egg white glaze. This gives the characteristic varnished appearance. After 20 more minutes of baking the bagels emerge crusty and golden brown on the outside, snow-white and tender within.

WATER BAGELS
Makes 1 dozen

4 to 5 cups
unsifted flour
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 package active
1½ cups very dry yeast
hot tap water
1 egg white, beaten
1 tablespoon cold water

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1½ cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Gradually add very hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add ½ cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in ungreased bowl. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, for 20 minutes. (Dough will not be doubled in bulk.)

Punch dough down. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Roll dough into a rectangel 12x10 inches. Cut dough in 12 equal strips, 1x10 inches each. Pinch ends of strips together to form circle. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft for 20 minutes. (Dough will not be doubled in bulk.)

Boil a 1¾-inch depth of water in a large shallow pan. Lower heat and add a few bagels at a time. Simmer 3 minutes. Remove from water and place on towel to cool. Cool 5 minutes. Place on ungreased baking sheets.

Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Brush with combined beaten egg white and cold water. Return to oven; bake about 20 minutes longer, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. If desired, split and serve toasted with margarine or cream cheese.

Nutrient laden wheat germ egg foo young

The inscrutably delicious something in this tasty egg foo yung is vacuum packed wheat germ. Yes, nutrient laden, natural toasted wheat germ.

As more and more cooks discover the benefits of healthful oriental cookery, it's only natural that super nutritious wheat germ should find its way into this favorite Chinese dish.

Characteristics of this ethnic cuisine are fresh flavor, natural textures and optimum nutrient content. Wheat germ enriched foo yung fits right into this scheme of things and has a special flavor and heartiness uniquely its own.

Busy cooks on budgets will also appreciate this handy recipe. The basic mixture is eggs and wheat germ with bean sprouts, parsley, onion, sherry and seasonings stirred in. The cooking is fast and requires a small amount of hot oil in a large open skillet.

Drop the egg mixture into the hot pan to form small cakes, browning lightly on both sides. A simple soy seasoned sauce made from canned sliced mushrooms and a bouillon cube is delicious served over the egg foo yung and keeps everything hot.

Complete the menu with steamed rice and green tea, followed by sliced oranges for dessert. When you see how quick and easy this tasty meal is, you'll be cooking oriental regularly and nutritiously with versatile Kretschmer wheat germ.

Besides being a great cooking ingredient, toasted wheat germ is a delicious mid meal mick up or breakfast cereal. It has its very own natural wheat flavor. Just an ounce — a quarter cup — of the golden cereal provides 15 percent of the daily recommended allowance of protein plus goodly amounts of the B vitamins, iron and vitamin E.

Teamed with milk, eggs, meat or cheese it provides complete protein which is vital for body building and repair.

WHEAT GERM FOO YUNG

6 tablespoons vacuum packed toasted wheat germ
4 eggs
2/3 cup bean sprouts
3 tablespoons minced parsley
3 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons dry sherry
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 to 4 tablespoons vegetable oil
Mushroon Sauce

Mix all ingredients except oil and Mushroom Sauce. Heat about 3 tablespoons oil in large skillet. Ladle scant 1/4 cup portions of wheat germ mixture into hot oil. Cook until lightly browned on bottom, about 1 1/2 to 2 minutes. Turn carefully using wide spatula and brown other side. Add more oil if necessary. Pile cake on plate, keeping warm until all are cooked. Spoon Mushroom Sauce over top. Garnish with celery shavings if desired. Makes 2 servings.

MUSHROOM SAUCE: Drain liquid from 1 (2 1/2 to 3-ounce) can sliced mushrooms into saucepan. Stir in 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1/2 cup water, 2 teaspoons soy sauce and 2 teaspoons catsup. Cook, stirring, until mixture boils and thickens. Add mushrooms and heat through.

Best way to cut calories when frying eggs is to spray the fry pan with a no-stick cooking spray. New Mazola No Stick cooking spray adds less than one calorie per use.

At a healthy 80, Gaylord Hauser's 5 secrets are

Wheat germ, yogurt, yeast, molasses and lecithin

For more than a half century in America, nutritionist Gayelord Hauser has been touting "living foods" as the key to looking younger and living longer, and expounding the nutritional value of yogurt, yeast, wheat germ and molasses, which he calls the "super four." He appears periodically on the lecture circuit as an example that the health principles he advocates do work, at least for him.

At 80 he appears youthful and vigorous. Slim and suntanned, he looked far younger as he sat recently in a New York hotel waiting for his long-time friend, Greta Garbo, with whom he would take a walk. It makes him "a bit nervous," he said, "to see 60-year-old people on the street tottering as they walk." He is convinced, too, that "good nutrition can lead to happier marriages."

"Men and women become incompatible when their nerves and brains are undernourished. If each would have a glass of fresh orange juice in the morning before speaking to each other, they would raise their blood sugar quickly and be less irritable."

When he brought his four super foods "to the attention of Americans" wheat germ and brewer's yeast were being discarded by beer and flour people, he maintains.

"In St. Louis they were throwing away mountains of the yeast, the fermentation after the beer is made. In Minneapolis they were feeding the wheat germ to the pigs." He suggested the molasses because people were drinking a lot of milk, which lacks iron. Yogurt appealed to him as "an easily assimilated protein" associated with the Bulgarians who retain vigor to an advanced age. He had "gotten into yogurt" at the suggestion of financier Bernard Baruch and his brother, who later invested in a yogurt business, he explains.

Hauser had detractors in the early days — in 1922 he had an office in Chicago where he taught nutrition and in the '30s he was teaching movie stars how to eat — but criticism ebbed as scientists began seconding nutritional ideas. Two years ago he says the London Times chose him as one of "The Thousand Makers of the 20th Century" along with Schweitzer, Salk and others.

He lives in Beverly Hills in winter, but had just come from Palm Beach where he had autographed a revised and updated edition of his book, "Treasury of Secrets," for three hours at a gathering of The Round Table, "the most exclusive club in America," he pointed out. Five hundred were seated and 100 were standing at his lecture.

He doesn't take credit for all the things he recommends. He has listened, learned, experimented and updated his ideas. He now suggests skimmed milk instead of evaporated in making yogurt because "people are more figure conscious." A batch made at home should always be tested on the palm of the hand as Russian and Bulgarian women do. "If the yogurt is too hot it will kill off the important Lacto bacillus bulgaricus," he explained.

In recent years he has added lecithin as the fifth wonder food. Considered by some nutritionists to be an emulsifier of fat, lecithin is used by Hauser with brewer's yeast in a drink that makes the yeast more palatable. The formula was put together by an ill chemist "to save his heart and clogged veins." It did, Hauser claims. Although the chemist used it on his cereal, dry, Hauser prefers it as a drink. The one he concocted "would revive the dead," he says, laughing.

He combines 1 cup of fruit juice (orange, grapefruit, pineapple) with 1 tablespoon each of the yeast, wheat germ, lecithin and bone meal and a couple of tablespoons of yogurt (or kefir, a tart bacillus).

People should grow their own foods if possible, even rose hips, which is high in Vitamin C, he maintains. Rosa Rugosa, a large meaty variety, is useful for jam as well as juice.

He stresses that proteins are the most important element in the diet, reminding his followers that nutritionists agree that every person should have at least one gram of first-class protein — eggs, cheese, milk, yogurt, meat, fish, soybeans, nuts or fresh wheat germ — each day for every 2.2 pounds of body weight (real, not overweight). A 120-pound woman needs about 55 grams a day, a 150-pound man about 68. Twenty-eight grams are about one ounce.

His book contains a number of exercises, including the "bauch-gymnastic" which has been shown to make stomach muscles 6 per cent stronger in one week, 66 per cent stronger in 11 weeks. The simple exercise — one intense muscular contraction — takes only a few seconds a day.

Born in Germany's Black Forest and burdened with a tubercular hip at 17, held to be incurable, he says he heard about "living (fresh) foods" in Switzerland and began his own health therapy, curing himself.

In the book he provides a number of recipes — including wheat germ bread, eggplant, toast, and "muesli" the vitamin-laden food of the Swiss. A recipe from the famed Bircher-Benner Sanatorium in Zurich, it is made by soaking overnight one level teaspoon of whole cereal (the sanatorium uses oatmeal) in two tablespoons of water. In the morning the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoon of condensed milk are mixed into it. A large peeled apple is quickly grated or shredded into the mixture and one teaspoon each of wheat germ and honey are added. Chopped walnuts and almonds can provide additional protein.

Hauser has never married but has thought many times, "I have everything but children." Each summer he returns to his other home in Sicily with armloads of sweaters and other things for the 50 orphans he has "more or less adopted."

Bonnie Prudden: 60ish and healthy

In her new book on physical fitness, "How to Keep Your Family Fit and Healthy," (Reader's Digest Press) Bonnie Prudden uses a three-generation family to exemplify the mutual fun and recreation to be found in health improvement. The range was from the teen-age children through grandfather, 76, and grandmother, 68. The latter she refers to as the Colonel and the Colonel's Lady in her chapters on exercise and fitness for the older person. The following is an excerpt from her chapter on "The Colonel's Lady."

By BONNIE PRUDDEN

How we all live in dread of certain birthdays! Yet when they come — 30, 40, 50 — they're not nearly so bad as we expected. We look in the mirror and don't seem to look any different than the day before; perhaps even 10 years before. Nor do we seem to feel so different. The same thing should happen when you turn 60. If you've kept in shape, neither the mirror nor getting out of bed will hold any surprises for you. The worst part of it will be the constant reminders from friends, no less. "You're sixty? No I don't believe it. You look so wonderful." No matter how fit you are that's guaranteed to make you feel old.

When I turned 60 I didn't even get that much credit. The remark I heard most often was: "Sure you may be sixty but you shouldn't look it. You've always kept in shape." Well I thought if I've always been in shape and if staying in shape has the advantage of not looking or acting as others think someone of 60 should look or act then what's wrong with getting into shape? It certainly beats getting into orthopedic shoes. But more important what's wrong with looking and acting like a real 60 — a healthy young alert 60?

The public is beginning to wake up to the problems of discrimination against women . . But when it comes to the elderly we are still in the dark ages. Men women rich poor black white are all in it together (perhaps for the only times in their lives). What are they in? They are victims of the worst kind of discrimination both in fact and in attitudes. Not only are elderly people supposed to fade quietly away; they are treated by society as if their usefulness was over. No wonder so many older people believe it. Yet tests reveal over and over that healthy old bodies lose neither their mental nor their physical skills. . . .

We understand the word "upkeep" when it comes to a house. If the roof leaks, rotting the timbers and ruining the furniture, we fix it. But if an elderly woman bounding across the gym floor or on a trampoline discovers that she, too, needs repairing, she usually gives up bounding. If the sun dries out the wall paneling, we apply a dressing to renew the rich sheen. But if our skin becomes flaky and our nails begin to crack, we often ignore the source of the problem — diet. If pipes exhibit wear, we call a plumber; if varicose veins begin to swell, we wear a tight stocking to hide them. There is no excuse for letting a house fall into ruin and even less for permitting our bodies to deteriorate.

Radish beef pot roast a pleasant surprise

Spring salad bowl favorites can give a lift to an entree.

If you've never cooked radishes, a pleasant surprise is in store for you. And a pot-roast purchase is an excellent way to take advantage of the especially attractive bargains in beef right now.

Braising radishes in pan liquid with the beef tames the pungent flavor of the red root and makes it most enjoyable as a hot vegetable. Cooked radishes are similar in texture and flavor to turnips, but a bit more lively. They are at their best when cooked only to a tender crisp state.

Celery, also crunchy and cool in salad bowl and on relish tray, is the second appropriate vegetable partner for this spring pot-roast. An onion makes it a trio of vegetable flavors compatible with the beef.

What cut should be chosen for Radish Beef-Pot Roast? A blade roast, cut from the beef chuck, is an excellent choice. It can be identified by the slender bone shaped rather like a figure "7".

A less tender cut and priced for family meals, the blade pot-roast benefits from long slow cooking in moist heat. This means braising and that means first browning, then adding moisture, covering tightly and cooking slowly until tender.

Whipped potatoes will utilize the savory beef gravy and boiled cabbage wedges add another touch of spring while rounding out the vegetable picture. Relishes and sesame seed rolls complete a very adequate main course for a special meal. When it's time for dessert, bring spring to the table again in the form of a fresh rhubarb cobbler.

Radish-Beef Pot-Roast

3 to 5-pound beef blade roast
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 packages or 2 bunches radishes
2 cups 1-inch pieces celery
1 large onion, sliced

Combine flour, salt, pepper and mustard. Drege meat in seasoned flour and brown in lard or drippings in large frying-pan or Dutch oven. Pour off drippings. Combine mustard and water, pour over meat, cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours, depending upon thickness of cut. Stir vinegar into pan liquid and add radishes (stems removed), celery and onion. Cover and cook slowly 45 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to hot platter and thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired.

Chicken consuming going up

The American housewife — possibly the most discerning shopper in the world — has her own ideas about what constitutes a good buy in this age of soaring prices.

In a recent survey, where the consumer was asked to appraise the value received for the money spent, she listed the top five best buys as: poultry, black-and-white TV, eggs, color TV and small appliances. Not surprisingly, she put gasoline at the bottom of the list.

An important reason behind the popularity of poultry, in addition to its nutritional value, has been its economical price. When most other commodities were putting the squeeze on the family budget, poultry was countering the trend. While the consumer price index for January 1975 was up 11.7 per cent from a year ago, the price of meat, poultry and fish was down 3.4 per cent from January 1974.

This helps to explain the rapid growth of the poultry business in the United States. The total farm value of U.S. poultry and egg production in 1973 was at an all-time high of $6.7 billion, an increase of 65 per cent over the preceding year.

Yearly U.S. consumption of chicken alone has jumped from 28 pounds per person in 1960 to 42.1 pounds in 1973.

"This tremendous growth is a direct result of the fact that chicken is one of the few remaining values available to American Shoppers," according to Kenneth E. Guebert, President of Banquet Foods Corporation, a subsidiary of RCA.

Guebert sais his company can play "mother hen" to more than a million eggs at a time. Freshly laid eggs are placed in racks and slowly moved through an incubating chamber for 18 days in a carefully controlled environment where temperature is maintained at 98-99 degrees F. and humidity is held between 84-86 per cent. This insures that the chick embryos will develop properly.

Eggs, which must be placed "small end" down in the racks, are turned every two hours to prevent the yolk sac from sticking to the inside of the shell. This turning simulates natural conditions — a mother hen always turns her eggs at regular intervals.

After the 18-day incubator period, eggs are transferred to the hatcher where chicks emerge in three days. The day after hatching chicks are shipped to independent growers, where they are kept until eight weeks old. At that time they are ready for processing.

During the eight-week growing period, chickens — called "broilers" — are kept inside the poultry houses and fed a special feed. This broiler feed yields one pound of meat for every two pounds of feed — one of the highest conversion rates anywhere in the country.

Matured broilers are then shipped to the original processing plant, which has the capacity to handle up to one million chickens a week. It takes just 90 minutes from the time a live broiler enters the processing plant until it is ready to be fried and frozen.

Frying and cooling processes takes 55 minutes.

Chicken pieces then enter a wind blast freezer which maintains a constant temperature of 25-30 degrees below zero, and remain there for 24 hours.

Frozen chicken parts are then packed 10 or more pieces to a carton and shipped to retail counters in refrigerated trucks or rail cars.

'NPK-NPK:' the happy little garden song

By ALLAN A. SWENSON

(Fourth in a series)

N-P-K.N-P-K: that's the garden fertility song. It pays to remember it, because those letters stand for the Big Three — Nitrogen, Phosphorous, Potassium — the basis nutritional elements for plant growth.

N is for nitrogen, the key element for vegetative growth. It promotes strong and healthy leaves, stalks, and stems. In fact, it's vital for all green-leaf tissue. Nitrogen fosters the development of proteins, cell growth-builflower and fruit formation. Some people feel that if X amount is good, they should double or triple that. Not so!

INFLATION FIGHTER'S VICTORY GARDEN

Here's a way to get free nitrogen fertilizer. Our atmosphere contains enormous amounts of nitrogen (80 per cent of the air we breathe is nitrogen). Certain plants, called legumes — clover, alfalfa, peas, beans, soybeans, vetch, other related plants — draw nitrogen from the air in their daily life cycles. Because of certain bacteria on their roots, legumes "fix" this nitrogen in the soil. "Fix", in this case, means capture. They remove it from the atmosphere and relocate it, in useful form on their roots, from which it enters the soil.

P is for phosphorous. It is vital for strong, prolific flower development, good fruit set and seed production. Phosphorous also is required for proper development of plant sugars. You do want sweet-tasting squash, tomatoes, and corn, don't you? Then you should be concerned with the proper balance of phosphorous, that sugar-encouraging nutrient, in your soil.

Lack of phosphorous is easily spotted. Plants are stunted and have a yellowed look. Now, this may appear remarkably like nitrogen-deficiency, but look again. The distinctive purplish color around edges of leaves and between leaf veins means phosphorous-deficiency. Equally important, though unseen, is the retarded root development when phosphorous is insufficient. Also, leaves may fall, plants may fail to flower. That's when things are really bad with your phosphorous supply.

K stands for potassium. Actually, K-20 is the chemical expression for potash, for practical purposes the same as potassium. This basic ingredient promotes strong, healthy roots. Potassium, or, potash, also helps in seed production. More important to you, it quickens maturity of crops and may help in disease resistance.

Potassium deficiency is marked by yellowish mottling. In severe cases foliage-loss occurs, and roots won't develop well. Also, fruit set is poor when potash is low.

These essential fertilizer ingredients are available in varying ratios — just check the bag.

When you do, it helps to know what those numbers mean. They always appear in the same order: N-P-K. Thus, translated to numbers, 5-10-5 means your bag of fertilizer contains 5 percent nitrogen, 10 percent phosphorous, 5 percent potash.

The other pounds in a bag, called carriers, have a purpose also. They help you achieve even application of all elements. Too much of any element can burn foliage and kill plants, just as too much actual fertilizer along the rows or around plants can be harmful.

How to get your name off 'junk mail' lists

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers are finding it easier these days to remove their names from mailing lists used by advertisers of everything from appliances to summer vacations.

American Express started a program last November to make it simpler for its cardholders to say "no" to direct mail advertising; Diners Club said a similar plan is imminent; and the U.S. Navy has been enclosing "sorry cards" with some recruiting literature for more than a year.

The Direct Mail Marketing Association says Americans bought some $50 billion worth of goods and services last year as a result of direct mail advertising and a spokesman said the total is growing steadily.

The U.S. Postal Service reports 22.54 billion pieces of third-class mail, most of it advertising, were sent out in fiscal 1974. That's 107 pieces of advertising mail per person and it doesn't count the ads — perhaps as many as five billion — that are sent first class.

It's easy to get your name on a mailing list. Apply for a credit card, subscribe to a magazine or, in some states, get a drivers license.

The magazine, credit card company or motor vehicles department includes your name on the lists it rents or sells to advertisers.

Until recently, it has not always been so easy to get your name off a mailing list unless the material in question is pornographic. The major credit card companies have always been willing to remove names from their lists, but consumers had to make specific requests and many people didn't know they had the option.

There is no federal law requiring companies to stop sending ads to people who don't wish to receive them. A Postal Service spokesman said interfering with someone's right to send you a letter could be considered interfering with free speech.

Norman W. Shibley, then president-elect of the Cleveland Bar Association, filed a $50 million class action suit against American Express and four magazines in Cuyahoga County, Ohio, Common Pleas Court of March 8, 1973. Shibley contended that the sale of membership or subscriber lists was an invasion of privacy. The suit was dismissed a little more than a year later by Judge Adrian B. Fink Jr., who said the question did not "fit into the orthodox framework of the traditional invasion of right-to-privacy case."

Moves already were under way, however, to insure that consumers who didn't want direct mail advertising didn't get it.

The Direct Mail Marketing Association began a Mail Preference System in March 1971. Anyone who wants to get his or her name off — or on — a mailing list can write to the association, care of Mail Preference System, 6 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y., 10017, and ask for a name-removal or add-on form. The information is then distributed to consumer maling companies.

A spokesman said that 103,000 persons have requested name-removal forms so far. Forty-one per cent or 42,000 have completed the forms.

On the other side, 21,000 persons have asked that their names be added on to mailing lists. A little more than half — 12,000 — have completed the forms.

There is nothing to require advertisers to abide by he requests. "It is a voluntary, selfregulatory program," a group spokesman said. But industry officials say it generally is to the advantage of businesses not to mail to people who are not potential buyers.

American Express, with 6½ million cardholders, has started sending coupon-type letters to members, offering them the option of removing their names from lists that the company rents to advertisers.

So far, a spokesman said, the letters have been sent to 1½ million cardholders and 10,700 or seven-tenths of 1 per cent, have asked to have their names deleted from mailing lists.

Why the change? A spokesman said the Cleveland suit was a factor, but added that American Express had been considering the move for some time. "We consider ourselves a prestige card company and why send something to somebody who doesn't want to receive it?' he said.

Diners Club, with one million members in the United States and Canada, said it is working on a similar plan to be put into effect soon. How soon? "I would say it is imminent," replied a spokesman.

Carte Blanche, with 714,000 members, reported no plans for change.

The Navy program is slightly different. The Navy doesn't sell or rent mailing lists. It does, however, collect names for use in specific recruitment programs, compiling lists of premed students, for example, who might be potenial Navy doctors. In many cases, it is a onetime mailing, but there are some follow-up cases.

Your child's health

Cholesterol may begin buildup at age 3

When packing your child's lunch box as he starts off to school, or planning a party for his pals, there's an important new guideline to keep in mind — consider the cholesterol.

It counts, even for the very young child!

According to the latest medical findings, cholesterol build-up in the blood, which leads to heart disease, the nation's number one killer, may begin before the tender age of three. It's never too early to start your children on a healthy, preventive diet, particularly if there is a history of high cholesterol and heart disease in the family.

The Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources recommends the following modifications of diet for the general public — cut down on calories to avoid obesity, include ample amounts of all essential nutrients, limit intake of fat to approximately 35 percent of all calories. Fats should be divided into approximately one-third polyunsaturates (chiefly vegetable fats), one-third monounsaturates (chiefly olive oil), one-third saturates (chiefly animal fats).

Teach your child the facts of nutrition as soon as he is able to comprehend them. The eating habits of a lifetime are established very early!

Use skimmed milk instead of whole for drinkng and in puddings, make cookies and pastry with olive oil instead of butter, pancakes with wheat germ, "burger" with fish instead of meat, use a few drops of imported olive oil in cooking vegetables. Olive oil adds great flavor, is a pure food, and will not affect the blood cholesterol level.

The taste will be terrific, and you'll be giving your youngster a head start on good health.

TUNABURGER ON A BUN

¼ cup imported olive oil
2 tablespoons minced onion
1-3 cup minced celery
¼ cup flour
1 cup skim milk
2 cans (7 ounces each) tuna packed in water, drained and flaked
Seasoned dry bread crumbs
Additional imported olive oil
6 slices low fat cheddar cheese
6 hamburger buns, split and toasted

In a saucepan heat olive oil and saute onion and celery for 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Stir constantly over low heat until sauce becomes very thick. Stir in tuna. Cool. Stir in some dry bread crumbs if mixture seems too moist to shape into patties. Season to taste with salt and pepper, if necessary. Shape mixture into 6 patties. Coat patties with dry bread crumbs. Place on a broiler pan and brush with oil. Broil until crusty and brown. Turn and brush other side of patty with oil. Broil again until brown. Top with cheese slices and broil until cheese is melted and bubbly. Place tunaburgers on buns and serve topped with ketchup or low cholesterol tartar sauce. Serves 6.

Episcopal women hold meeting here

Learning through prayer is what Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese of Los Angeles have been doing this week at their annual spring conference at Griswold's Inn in Claremont.

The learning environment is focused on forms of prayer developed by liturgy, according to Mrs. Richard S. Bylin of Corona, ECW president.

Dinner speaker this evening will be Miss Rosalind Rinker, author of "Conversational Prayer."

A service of Holy Eucharist was held at 10 a.m. Tuesday with the Rt. Rev. Robert C. Rusack, Bishop of the Diocese of Los Angeles, as celebrant.

The Rev. Jon Hart Olson, rector of Christ Church, Ontario, discussed concepts of the liturgy at the luncheon.

In the afternoon, Tuesday, women divided into five interest groups focusing on different aspects of the liturgy, including music, dance, children, multimedia nd personal spiritual life.

Assisting in the group conferences were the Rev. James Friedrich, Mrs. Elaine Friedrich, the Rev. and Mrs. Howard Cartwright, Rev. Jon Hart Olson, Mrs. Ruth Cooper and the Diocesan Music Department.

League to elect officers

The League of Women Voters of West San Bernardino County has scheduled its annual meeting Saturday at 11:30 a.m.

Officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The proposed local study for 1975-76, "Structures, functions, and powers of the Grand Jury of San Bernardino County," will be presented for adoption by members.

The league will continue updating studies of energy, conservation, land use, rapid transportation and proposed expansion of the Ontario International Airport. Community services provided by the league are the Voters Service Handbook and voter registration.

The league is a nonpartisan organization which encourages informed and active participation of citizens in government.

The luncheon meeting is open to members and friends. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Hazel Fentiman, 986-8274.

Srs. program scheduled in Covina

The Tri-Community Council on Aging is sponsoring a program for all senior citizens at Covina High School April 23 from 3 until 6 p.m.

Speakers will discuss "Living within your retirement income" and "Health and Nutrition." Dinner will be provided.

Information on the program will be obtained by calling 213 962-3209.

Rummage sale scheduled this week

The Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church in Pomona will hold its annual rummage sale Thursday in the fellowship hall of the church, 1751 N. Park Ave.

Theme for the sale is "Recycle Your Reusables." In addition to the rummage sale there will be a bake goods sale and a spring boutique.

A light lunch will be served from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Sale hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Little "big" look

Children's clothes for summer are following grownup fashions with kid-sized versions of "leisure" suits for boys and mid "big dresses" smocks and pinafores for girls. The prices are no higher than last year. But there's one precaution for mothers who are accustomed to wash-and-wear. Many of these togs are of natural fibers, so it's back to the ironing board.

No frozen feet

The feet of most northern birds subjected to intense cold do not freeze because of a built-in therostat that regulates the flow of warm blood to them, thus conserving body heat for survival.

College theater festival now on

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual American College Theater Festival opened this week at the Kennedy Center and its producer, Orlin Corey, says that despite the recession "we had the biggest percentage increase ever."

Last year, 292 colleges and universities tried out to have their productions shown at the national cultural center finals. This year, the number was 340.

The two-week festival showcases the 10 college dramatic productions adjudged the best of the season by a complex process of competitions starting on local campuses, regional festivals and culminating in performances at the center.

For the first time since the center opened — and the theater festival predates that — the Eisenhower Theater is selling out for many of the college plays.

The theater seats approximately 1,100 persons, and tickets are selling at prices from $3.50 to $6 for matinees. Two productions which require a more intimate theater are being done at George Washington University's Marvin Theater, which seats about 240. The price scale is the same.

Several days before the festival's opening, the houses were sold out, or virtually so, for the University of Oregon's "Our Town," the University of Hawaii's "The Scarlet Princess of Edo," Lousiana State University's "Juno and the Paycock," and the one new play, "Medea: A Noh Cycle Based on the Greek Myth" written by Carol Sorgenfrei and presented by the University of California at Santa Barbara.

The 340 schools entered did compete to get to the festival, but there is no judging of productions once they are here. Each is presented on its own merits.

There are several complementary competitions. Ms. Sorgenfried won a $2,800 prize from the William Morris Agency for the best student-written play of the season.

We have two sets of teeth in our lifetime because teeth large enough for an adult couldn't fit into a small child's mouth and teeth small enough for a child would be too little for use by an adult.

When we are born we have, hidden in our gums, the beginnings of all our teeth.

Our first teeth, or "milk teeth," are already formed at birth and have only to push up through the gums. Most of us have all our milk teeth by the time we are 3.

Beneath the milk teeth there is a second set of teeth developing. At about the age of 6 they begin to push out and replace the smaller milk teeth.

As the jawbone grows larger, more teeth push up until finally we have our full set of 32 permanent teeth.

The last four of our permanent teeth are slow to develop. They do not push up until we are nearly grown.

By that time we are supposed to have gained some wisdom, so these last teeth are called "wisdom teeth."

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

S.F. approves new residency requirements

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Board of Supervisors has approved a new residency law requiring all city workers to live within 30 miles of City Hall.

The supervisors approved the measure by a 9-1 vote recently. It will not apply to those employes already living beyond the 30-mile limit.

Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, who authored the measure, said it was designed to insure that policemen and firemen will live close enough to the city to return in the event of an emergency.

A new law approved by voters last year prohibits cities from requiring city workers to live inside the city itself. But the law does permit residency limits to be set according to reasonable distances.

"We're facing a mass exodus of firemen and policemen at this time," Mrs. Feinstein said. "We've got to take what action we can."

500 demonstrate as Dayan gives talk at UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Some 500 persons demonstrated outside UCLA's Pauley Pavilion, shortly before former Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was scheduled to address an audience of some 4,000 persons inside the auditorium.

Campus security guards said there were no reports of violence in the demonstration Monday. The demonstrators were mainly pro-Arab sympathizers, with two small groups of pro-Israelis, the security guards added.

Placards carried by some of the demonstrators called for a "Free Palestine" and denounced U.S. aid to Israel.

Mills' therapy will end May 5

Janice Ireland said recently that the Arkansas Democrat expects to complete the therapy about May 5. Mills has been at the West Palm Beach clinic since late February.

Except for a few days, Mills has not been at his office since his re-election last November.
